SWEATSHOPS HERE, PROBE TOLD

Today

Praise Roosevelt.
Protest for a Bison.
Atilla's Grave.
In the North Sea—Crabs.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

SOME WHO said government should not "meddle with industry or private business," may change their minds. President Roosevelt has signed the textile code.

That does away with child labor in the textile industry, something that philanthropy and good intention have been trying to do for a generation, vainly.

Child labor was profitable. Fathers and mothers supplied the finished products to the employers, without charge, as though an automobile factory had supplied them with trucks and passenger cars free.

And with trucks and passenger cars employers must pay for repairs. Not so with child workers. When they are laid up, they go home, others take their places, the fathers and mothers attend to the repairs, without cost to the employer.

Thanks to President Roosevelt's belief that government has power and should use it, tens of thousands of children will have a better chance in life.

FOR $75 New York's Central Park menagerie sold a two-year-old bull bison to an eastern "dude ranch," where "real cowboys" will harrass it, pursue it, lasso it and throw it, over and over, to amuse customers of the ranch.

Somebody or something, the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, or common decency, should have something to say about that. The whites killed off nearly all the Indians and the bison. The few surviving should not be subjected to humiliation or cruelty.

Boarders at the dude ranch should be content to look at the bison without tormenting it, content to imagine, if they could, the low opinion he has of them.

CZECHOSLOVAKIANS believe that they have found the original grave of the ancient conqueror Atilla. They surely found an iron coffin like that in which Atilla was buried, and near it they found cups of solid gold such as Atilla used in important drinking bouts, notably on the day and on the night of his wedding, when he died. Ordinarily he drank from a wooden bowl.

The old story tells that his warriors turned aside the course of a river, buried the coffin in the bed of the stream, then turned the water back again, murdering the captives that had done the work, that they might never tell.

Those queer men from the East wanted graves well hidden. That of Genghis Khan, greater conqueror than Atilla, has never been found. His warriors carried his body to a great forest, far away, killing everybody they met on the journey that their secret might be kept.

Nothing is said about finding the bones of Atilla's warriors; that after riding around the corpse of their leader, killed themselves that they might go with him, and dead, sat on their horses, horse and man impaled, forming a circle around Atilla's body.

WHEN YOU say "crab-meat cocktail" you may be ordering a possible cause of war between Japan and Russia.

Huge crabs live in the cold waters that bathe the Northern Russian coast, and Japanese go there to catch and ship them in quantities to the United States. Russian soldiers killed three Japanese fishermen because they landed on Russian soil without permission.

Japan sent a warship to see about that and trouble may come in spite of the fact that Russia has formally apologized for killing the Japanese, and Japan has apologized for an attack made by a Japanese on Russia's commercial agent in Tokio.

A WAR about North Sea crabs would sound like a Gilbert and Sullivan opera, but wars have come from smaller things.

EUROPE, AMUSING itself with new low values for the American dollar, yesterday said the dollar was worth only 68 cents in gold. They forget that back of dollars there are more than four thousand million dollars in gold, safely tucked away in Washington.

Europe can no longer draw out that gold, and that is what's the matter with Europe at the moment.

Remember that an American dollar with the name of this government on it is just as good as the government, and don't forget that the United States, which is back of American dollars, is worth a great deal more than a thousand billions of gold dollars.

If this country should issue one hundred billion dollars in money, every dollar would be good, but there is no intention of issuing more than a small amount of currency, sufficient to finance recovery from the depression, not even as much as twenty billions.

FORTUNATELY for Jimmy Mattern, young Texan who started flying around the world alone, he stopped in Russia, and friendly Russians made him a present of a handsome gun with ammunition. That gun saved him from starvation when he came down, in a distant cold part of Siberia, where he lived on birds that he shot.

Mr. Mattern reports that he found himself among "a dying

KIDNAPERS AGAIN ASK $250,000

Revenge Blamed in Abduction of Kin Of Political Czars

Associated Press.

Kidnapers are holding three men today after unexplained abductions.

They are:

"Lieut. John J. O'Connell, Jr., Albany, of the New York National Guard, whose family is prominent in the Democratic party of New York State. Abducted July 7 in Albany and held for $250,000 ransom.

John (Jake the Barber) Factor, Chicago, stock speculator. Abducted July 1 in Chicago and reputedly held for $100,000 ransom.

August Luer, 78, semi-invalid, banker, Alton, Ill. Abducted yesterday from his home. No ransom has yet been asked.

ALBANY, N. Y., July 11.—(AP.)—Breaking a three-day silence, the kidnapers of "Young John" O'Connell, 24-year-old nephew of the up-state Democratic leaders, Dan and Ed O'Connell, today sent Dan O'Connell a new note calling for a new coded list of men who might serve as go-betweens for them and the O'Connell family.

While the O'Connells maintained the silence they have kept since the kidnaping early Friday morning, it was learned that the kidnapers renewed their demands for $250,000 ransom and said that the original coded list of contact men inserted in a newspaper advertisement Sunday was not acceptable.

In response to the kidnapers' demand, the O'Connell's today caused to be published in the Albany Times Union a new coded advertisement. It was inserted without comment by Walter V. Johnson, Democratic leader of the city of Rensselaer, on the opposite side of the Hudson River from Albany. When deciphered it was founnd to contain 11 names of friends of the O'Connell family, just as Sunday's advertisement.

Friends of the O'Connell family, informed that the kidnapers had broken their long silence, said they felt that young O'Connell

BRIDE WORRIES OVER CHECK

There's a worried young waitress sitting in a lonely hotel room in McKeesport today waiting for that fellow to show up.

He is a convincing young man who asked the worried young waitress to marry him so that he could collect a $90,000 bequest from a departed grandmother. Of the $90,000 he promised her $10,000.

It is feared on the best of authority that the grandmother and the bequest are figments of a romantic imagination.

The convincing young man called himself Leonard Urban, of Sewickley. Three years ago there was a young man who worked a similar racket. He, too, called himself Leonard Urban, and in this case he married the girl, Ruth Locy, of Homestead Park.

GOV. PINCHOT DEFIES BANK PROBERS

Upholds Secretary in Refusal to Testify

International News Service.

HARRISBURG, July 11.—If the placing of insurance on the assets of closedb anks with certain Pennsylvania insurance agents and brokers "be treason, make the most of it," Gov. Gifford Pinchot said today in support of the refusal of his secretary, Duncan C. McCallum, to testify before the Legislative Banking Committee.

He said:

"The placing of insurance has always been considered in Pennsylvania on the same basis as patronage.

"I think the people of Pennsylvania, as a whole, would prefer me to distribute the few favors within my gift among my friends rather than among the friends of the Martins, the Vares, the Coynes and the McClures."

The Governor saw "no reason why I, through my secretary, should be submitted to a political grilling for political purposes by politically-minded investigators."

McCallum refused to honor a subpena to testify before the committee regarding the alleged existence of a "preferred list" of insurance agents and brokers.

Dr. William D. Gordon, secretary of banking, gave the committee a list of 439 individuals that write insurance on closed banks. The list showed that $423,000 of the $480,000 spent on insurance went to 25 agents.

The Governor asserted McCallum offered to furnish the investigators with whatever information they desired and that "no one in this office will refuse to give the committee any information it wants."

'Swinging Partner' Costs Life of Youth

OGDENSBURG, N. Y., July 11.—(AP.)—Swinging arms in an old fashioned dance cost the life of Everett Dalgliess, 13-year-old Canadian early today as he danced with his sister, Margaret.

As the caller cried "swing your partners," Margaret's elbow struck Everett on the temple. He fell and death from concussion followed shortly.

Runaway Auto Drops Between Two Houses

A runaway automobile of Anthony Satona, of 324 Orchard street, dropped over a 15-foot retaining wall between two houses in St. Patrick street early today.

The machine was parked in front of 2417 South Eighteenth street when the brakes became released. The houses were not damaged.

Woman Shack Dweller Who Won Fight to Keep Ward Dies of Burns

'Mother's' Plea Moved Judge; Neighbors Replaced Hovel

The Myers family had all the baggage packed and the beds down last night, ready to move into their new home today.

Busiest, perhaps, was little Billy Mitchell, 6, Juvenile Court ward who had been returned to Mrs. Elizabeth Myers, 73, on condition that she move to better quarters.

Neighbors had built the new house. The old shack near the Saltsburg and Frankstown roads was destined for oblivion. All was hope and happiness.

That was yesterday.

Today Mrs. Elizabeth Myers' charred body awaits burial. She died in the Columbia Hospital this morning from burns from a carbide lamp.

'MAMMY IS DEAD'

Billy is playing around the doorstep of the old shack, telling visitors:

"My mammy is dead."

And Mrs. Myers' 50-year-old mute son, "Andy," is moving into the new home.

Pirates Open Series With Boston Braves

FORBES FIELD, July 11.—Wilkinsburg Bill McKechnie's Boston Braves were fired with flag ambitions as they took the field against the Pirates this afternoon in the first battle of a four-game series. The spurt of the Boston team since it acquired Third Baseman Pinkey Whitney and Left Fielder Hal Lee from the Phils had placed it within two games of the third-place Pirates as the opening clash got under way.

PITTSBURGHER DIES ON YACHT

An inquest into the mysterious death of George V. Sands, 38, Pittsburgh advertising man, found dead aboard the yacht Midwest, has been set for tomorrow, according to word from Nassau, Bahama Islands.

Sands, son of the late Sir James Sands, president of the Bahamas Legislature, left Nassau Friday on a fishing trip to the vicinity of Andros Island with a party of sportsmen.

Members of the groups said Sands retired soon after sailing and that the following morning his body was found on the floor of his cabin. Scars were found on his face and head. Members of the party said the weather had been rough and that Sands may have fallen from his berth.

Sands leaves his widow, Mrs. Nanna Evans Sands, of 320 LeRoi road, and one son, William, 11.

HOURS LONG, WAGES LOW, SAY GIRLS

Aluminum Co. Named As Replacing Men With Women

Developments in investigations of labor conditions and protests against sweatshops here today were:

1—Conditions in the Aluminum Company of America's New Kensington plant, with women cleaning utensils at 18 and 22 cents an hour, some making as little as $1.10 for nine hours, were described to members of the Gallagher Commission hearing here.

2—Charges that workers were intimidated and afraid to appear for fear of losing their jobs were made to the commission. Dozens failed to appear.

3—Officials of the United States Glass Company at Glassport refused to meet with committee representing 450 strikers, 200 of them women. Sweatshop conditions are charged.

Pretty shop girls, women with graying hair and men today told what they know of low wages and long working hours in the Pittsburgh district.

They told their stories before the Gallagher Commission investigating sweatshop conditions in the state. They told of working for a few dollars a week, of women supplanting men in the shops, and of long hours at weary toil.

It was a story of the depression. All were dispassionate in their testimony—seemingly only anxious to do a little service in oppearing thus before the legislative body formed to study such conditions and recommend new laws.

FORMER WORKERS

The majority of the witnesses were former workers in shop, restaurant or store. Occasionally there was testimony that others who held jobs were afraid to appear, fearing they would be discharged.

A little woman, who said she quit last Friday, testified that the Aluminum Company of America, New Kensington, had two years ago paid men $5 and $6 a day, but had almost entirely supplanted them with women. She said she cleaned coffee pots for nine hours a day, earning $1.10 a day.

The men still employed there,

Mrs. Pinchot is a member of the Gallagher Commission which is hearing testimony here today and tomorrow.

Patterson Spurns Plea Of Mackrell to Run

Joseph N. Mackrell, Register of Wills, today asked his good friend, Judge Frank P. Patterson, to be a candidate for Mayor, and Patterson again refused.

This was at least the third refusal and should eliminate any lingering hope thta the jurist might change his mind.

The meeting between Patterson and Mackrell took place in Atlantic City where Patterson is on vacation, and Mackrell is attending the Shriners' convention. After the meeting Mackrell told the Sun-Telegraph:

"Judge Patterson definitely refused to reconsider his declination to run for Mayor when Fred Fichtel and I requested him to do so."

Fichtel is prominent in Masonic circles.

Patterson's refusal leaves the anti-Coyne forces still seeking a candidate to pit against Mayor Herron.

Mackrell himself has been regarded as a potential candidate—more so now, with Patterson out of the race. William P. Witherow and P. J. McArdle also are possibilities.

Bread Price Pyramiding In Penna. Under Probe

WASHINGTON, July 11.—(AP.)—The Department of Justice announced today that agents had been sent to Philadelphia, Baltimore and Richmond to investigate increases in bread prices.

Ths action came after Secretary Wallace telegraphed today to mayors of 49 cities in 25 states announcing that the government will use its full powers if necessary to prevent "unwarranted increases in bread prices."

He has received protests on "unreasonable increases" in bread prices in connection with the processing tax levy of 30 cents a bushel on wheat which went into effect Sunday.

His message said:

"The Department disapproves of increases in consumers' bread costs in excess of the amount involved in market commodity price increases plus the processing tax.

"This is no time for pyramiding."

The distribution of tax return blanks to about 15,000 millers, wholesalers, distributors and retailers of wheat and allied products in Western Pennsylvania is being carried out under supervision of David L Lawrence, collector of internal revenue for this district.

The new tax will probably increase the price of large loaves of bread 1 cent and the small loaves 2 cents, according to estimates made by the Western Pennsylvania Bakers' Association. The price rise is not entirely due to the new tax, it was explained, as other ingredients have also advanced in price.

U. S. ARMY, MILITIA MAY BE LOOSED ON KIDNAPERS

RANSOM GANG DARES IRE OF MILITARY

Abduction of Officer In National Guard Challenges Nation

By DALE HARRISON
Associated Press.

The black hand of the kidnaper, dripping red now, has dared finally to slap the face of one of the nation's armed forces.

When kidnapers snatched John J. O'Connell, Jr., in Albany, they took as prisoner not only a kin of the politically powerful O'Connell brothers, but also a lieutenant of the New York National Guard.

The idea that they might be stepping on the toes of the military may not have occurred to them. O'Connell may have been just a rich "snatch." His commission as a lieutenant in the National Guard, however, holds pos- [illegible] king a blow to this branch of crime. [illegible] for the United [illegible] n New York and Washington said today that merely on the basis of O'Connell's commission as a National Guard officer there was scant likelihood that the Army would take official notice of the Albany abduction.

ARMY ACTION POSSIBLE

One officer, however, amplified his comment this way:

"The National Guard is distinct from the Regular Army, and ordinarily their activities are unrelated. The only way the United States Army could be employed in a war to wipe out kidnapers would be by order of the President of the United States, commander-in-chief of the nation's armed forces."

The National Guard itself appeared today as most likely to strike back at the kidnapers. No official of the guard would be quoted, but several said serious consideration was being given to a proposal to ask Gov. Lehman, of New York, to call out the guard to run down the O'Connell kidnapers.

It was not considered likely that any such lengths as martial law would be resorted to, but, on the other hand, there were numerous circumstances of such a nature as to indicate that the federal government might find it expedient to adopt swift and unusual methods.

BRITISH INSISTENT

There was, for one, the action of the British consul in Chicago who has called upon the government to exert itself to effect the return of John (Jake the Barber) Factor, kidnaped July 1 and still missing. The concern of the British is due to the fact that Factor at the time abducted was out on bond pending action in an extradition proceeding.

Another circumstance that led many to believe kidnapers might soon find federal agencies after them was the increasing number of the abductoins and the ineffectiveness of local law enforcers.

For some time it has been the practice of a great many persons of wealth and position to take elaborate precautions against the growing brazenness of kidnapers. The Lindbergh kidnaping, with its tragic and pitiful ending, was the cue to scores of parents to employ bodyguards for their children. The Gene Tunney child, among many, was one.

SHOTS FOIL KIDNAPING

Abults have been obliged to be equally wary for their own sake. Less than a fortnight ago an attempt to kidnap the wealthy Thomas Franklin Manville, Jr., of New York, was reported to have been thwarted only after pistol shots were fired by Manville and his bodyguard.

Miss Doris Duke and the former Barbara Hutton, two of the world's wealthiest young women, have had their liberty curtailed by the necessity of being constantly under the protesting eye of guards.

AGE FAILS TO ESCAPE

Infants, youths, men in their twenties and (most recently) elderly men have been the marks of the kidnapers. August Luer, kidnaped last night at Alton, Ill., is 78 years old. John K. Ottley, Atlanta banker who was kidnaped last week (though he escaped shortly afterward) is past middle age.

The former world's champion heavyweight, Jack Sharkey, was obliged to break into his training last month to rush to his home in Massachusetts when letters threatening to kidnap his children were received at the camp where he was preparing for the defense of his title.

Blue-Eyed Girl Joins Mother in Kidnap Vigil

ALBANY, N. Y., July 11.—(INS.)—A blue-eyed girl today is one of the chief consolations to the grief-stricken mother of John J. O'Connell Jr., prominent Albany youth who is being held by kidnapers for $250,000.

The girl, Miss Mary Fahey, 20, is a close friend of the missing youth with whom she has kept company for about a year.

Hiding her own grief, Miss Fahey has sat by the side of the anxious mother, Mrs. John J. O'Connell, Sr., as the hours slipped by without word from the kidnapers of their victim.

Only once did the girl give vent to her feelings. That was when newspaper extras were carried by a newsboy past the O'Connell home.

Miss Fahey ran from the house, purchased a newspaper and, weeping, hurried back to Mrs. O'Connell.

The girl is popular in the younger set of Albany. Her father is Sergt. Maurice Fahey, veteran member of the Police Department.

ROOSEVELT BACKS WAR ON GANGS

By WILLIAM P. FLYTHE
Universal Service.

WASHINGTON, July 11.—Spurred on by the sensational kidnaping of John J. O'Connell, Jr., prominent Albany youth, Senator Copeland, New York, has enlisted the active support of President Roosevelt and the government to recover the lad and expedite his campaign to end racketeering.

Copeland is chairman of a special Senate Committee investigating rackets, which he says are costing the country countless millions annually, and preparing drastic legislation to launch a federal war on gangland.

He said:

"This is just one of many things which may be expected from now on. When the racketeers are run out of the booze business they will turn to kidnaping, and other organized rackets as is shown in this case.

"I consider this case particularly serious. I have taken it up personally with the President, Attorney General Cummings, the Bureau of Investigation of the Department of Justice, and have communicated with the New York authorities. The federal agencies will put every available man in that and nearby states into the search.

"I shall have a long conference with the Attorney General again today. Like every other American citizen I feel outraged and our investigation, while superficial so far, has convinced us that only the most drastic penalties and thorough organization can cope with the situation.

"If any other incentive were needed I am sure that the kidnaping of this young man would thoroughly arouse the nation for direct action against these gangs which have terrorized the country for years. We will have to fight them with their own weapons as well as with a new criminal code which will make their escape or evasion of the law impossible."

Senator Copeland was called to Washington by President Roosevelt to discuss the program of the committee of which he is chairman and Senators Vandenberg, of Michigan, and Murphy, of Iowa, are members. They are to begin hearings shortly in New York, Chicago and Detroit.

Senator Copeland added that in his investigations the President has promised him all the files and records of the Department of Justice, postoffice narcotic division and other agencies which deal with crime, as well as the full time services of as many government investigators as may be needed.

He asserted:

"One can get some idea of the number of people engaged in murderous, or dangerous racketeering when it is learned that in one year 1,000,000 pistols were imported from Germany for private use. The annual import of pistols averages about 500,000. In Chicago alone we found 87 machine guns in the possession of persons who had no use for them except to carry on their gangland war. These are the things we will try to halt."

LINK KIDNAPING TO LINDY CASE

NEW YORK, July 11.—(AP.)—Police officials here have considered the possibility of a connection between the kidnaping of John J. O'Connell, Jr., in Albany and the Lindbergh baby kidnaping case, but have come to the conclusion there is no such connection.

This was learned today from a private source at police headquarters from which the information was also gained that local police lean to the theory that the O'Connell kidnaping was motivated by revenge.

Green automobiles figured in both the Lindbergh and O'Connell kidnapings.

Night Club Owner Dies in Gang War

CONNEAUT, O., July 11.—(INS.)—Emil Notte, 42, night club operator and reputed gang chieftain, died in Brown Memorial Hospital today from shotgun wounds received in an underworld outbreak, according to police.

FACTOR TRAILED BY U. S. AGENTS

CHICAGO, July 11.—(INS.)—Federal operatives and state authorities pursued their separate ways today, as they continued their search for John "Jake the Barber" Factor.

The federal men hold Factor's reported kidnaping by a gang of armed men July 1, to be a hoax, and believe he is fleeing from the country to escape extradition to England.

Representatives of Great Britain, attempting to extradite the millionaire stock market operator to stand trial on charges of fleecing English investors of $7,000,000, asked the federal authorities to take a hand in the search.

Agents of the Federal Bureau of Investigation continued their patrol of the Texas border, and began a watch of Newport News, Va., Baltimore and other Atlantic ports.

Meanwhile local police persisted in the theory that Factor is being held by the Roger Touhy gang for ransom. The ex-barber was seized leaving a roadhouse located in the heart of the Touhy territory.

KIDNAP RACKET NETS FORTUNE IN 5 MONTHS

Over Quarter Million Paid Gangsters in Ransom Money

NEW YORK, July 11.—(AP.)—Kidnapers, operating throughout the United States, have sought at least $650,000 from victims' families and friends in the last five months.

They haven't received that sum—probably. No one knows. But the racket has paid them more than a quarter of a million dollars in that time.

Every law enforcing power in the country, from private detectives to the President of the United States, has taken an interest in the wholesale procedeings, which steadily have increased in scope.

Here, in brief, are the kidnap demands of only the most notorious cases of the last five months:

Charles Boettcher II, Denver, February 12	$ 60,000
Jerome Factor, Chicago, April 15	50,000
Peggy McMath, Harwichport, Mass., May 2	60,000
Mary McElroy, Kansas City, May 27	30,000
William Hamm, St. Paul, June 15	100,000
John Factor, Chicago, July 1	100,000
John J. O'Connell, Jr., Albany, July 7	250,000
August Luer, Alton, Ill., July 1	Unannounced

Peggy McMath's kidnapers were caught and the ransom money returned. Mary McElroy's kidnapers were caught—at least authorities think they got them all—and some of the money was recovered. Some of Boettcher's kidnapers and some of the ransom was taken by police.

John (Jake the Barber) Factor boasted he paid no ransom for the return of his son, Jerome, but now a gang is supposed to be holding "the barber," while the son anxiously tries to effect his release.

DIDN'T SAY 'HOW MUCH'

Hamm's friends, who paid a ransom, said they didn't pay all that was demanded, but they haven't said how much they did pay.

O'Connell's relatives say they can't possibly raise the quarter of a million dollars his captors demand, but they'll do their best.

The kidnapers haven't even told Mrs. Luer how much she will have to pay to see her husband alive again.

That's only part of a five months' record of kidnapings. There have been plenty more—say authorities — plenty which never get into police records or newspapers—plenty which no one tells about.

people" living chiefly on reindeer meat.

It will be interesting to hear more about that "dying people." The Smithsonian Institution might investigate them.

Going back far enough every one of us would find ancestors living on some kind of meat. Those ancestors were fortunate because they had two kinds of teeth, sharp front teeth and grinding back teeth, one for tearing meat, the other for chewing fruits, nuts and roots. The assorted teeth enabled them to survive.

was still alive. They assumed from the kidnapers' silence that there had been a dispute among them over the selection of a contact man from the first list.

The 11 new names were: Dave Hotaling, B. G. Parry, Bill Bardeen, Paul Carroll, Rock Tarzio, Eddie Gorman, Pat Coffee, Mike Connelly, Joe Leone, Willis King and Neil Ponzi.

These men generally are less widely known that the first eleven.

The code advertisement bore the same introductory word, "Sedgewick," and the same simple code system was employed to designate the names as in the first advertisement.

The belief O'Cinnell was kidnaped in an act of revenge against his uncles, Ed and Dan O'Connell, Democratic leaders, was expressed in sources close to the family today.

One of the family advistors said:

"Because of the enormous ransom demand and because the kidnapers failed to keep their promise to communicate with us yesterday, we now suspect that revenge and not the desire for ransom prompted the crime."

"It might be a case of political revenge. Some one might be aggrieved at the Democratic County organization of which Ed (O'Connell) is chairman.

"Since John left school he has been everywhere with Dan. His two uncles feel like fathers toward him, and any threat of harm to him strikes at them deeply."

Young O'Connell also has been engaged in the beer business, as an officer of the Hedrick brewery. Samuel E. Aronowitz, president of the brewery, is a law partner of Ed O'Connell.

SHROUDED IN MYSTERY

The actual kidnaping continued to be shrouded in mystery today, as the uncles and members of the family steadfastly refused to give out any information. Because of warnings that young O'Connell, a powerful young athlete, would be killed if police were informed of the kidnaping, neither newspapers nor police obtained verification of the kidnap reports until 7 o'clock last night.

Two versions of the kidnaping were heard. One was that O'Connell was overpowered as he stepped from his car at his home, 14 Putnam street, about 1:15 a. m. Friday. The other was that two men accosted him with revolvers about 12:40 a. m., Friday, as he dined with a young woman friend in a South Pearl street beer garden, and forced him to go with them.

STATE, U. S. ACT

The friend, who suggested the revenge theory with regard to the kidnaping, made it plain that he was not speaking for the O'Connell family.

Gov. Herbert H. Lehman declared today that "the kidnapers must be found and they must be punished." He directed Maj. John A. Warner, superintendent of the state police, to put the whole organization on the case. He authorized the Adjutan General's office to offer $500 reward for the "arrest and conviction" of the kidnapers.

Two agents of the Department of Justice at Washington arrived in Albany last night for the purpose of working on the case.

Rich Invalid Kidnaped As Wife Screams For Help

ALTON, Ill., July 11.—(AP.)—August Luer, 77, semi-invalid banker, seized in his home as he rested in bedroom slippers before retiring, is the latest victim of middle western kidnapers.

Luer, who combines banking with meat packing interests, and is a wealthy, prominent citizen of Alton, was abducted by a comely young woman and two men. No word of his whereabouts has been received since his disappearance in the abductors' motor car.

The aged man's screaming wife was dragged to another room and flung to the floor. Her head struck the corner of a mantelpiece, inflicting a gash. Bleeding from the wound, she rushed back into the hall to see the abductors dragging her husband into a motor car which had been parked in the drive.

She ran towards the street to summon her son, who lives across the thoroughfare, screaming:

"Carl, they've stolen papa."

Relatives professing no knowledge of the identity of the kidnapers, today anxiously awaited receipt of ransom demands. They feared for the captive's life even if money payment is arranged.

He has been in partial retirement because of frequent heart attacks. A recurrence, without the aid of medicine he habitually uses, might easily prove fatal.

NEW YORK, July 11.—(AP.)—Dr. Smith Jelliffe, physician to Joseph W. Harriman, indicted former head of the Harriman National Bank and Trust Company, testified today that Harriman believed his plight due to a plot by Clearing House Association bankers to "put him on the spot."

Dr. Jelliffe, who testified at a Federal Court hearing to determine Harriman's mental fitness to stand trial for misapplication of his bank's funds, said the banker's "over-emphasis" of the supposed plot was evidence of mental unbalance.

PARLEY KILLS MONETARY AGENDA

Private Agreement to End Conference Reported

LONDON, JJuly 11.—(AP.)—After many days of fierce controversy, the steering committee of the World Economic Conference late today rendered a decision which the gold bloc privately declared virtually kills the monetary agenda and represents a complete victory for the gold group.

The committee, constituted of leaders of the parley, adopted a report calling for the discussion of silver, commercial indebtedness, central banking co-operation and other subjects which can be treated without dissension.

The American delegation, supported by the British dominions and a number of smaller countries, had fought for the inclusion of the full original program in the revised agenda of the congress.

In addition to the three topics approved, sub-committees were authorized to decide for themselves what other matters could be usefully considered without provoking renewed discord.

Since they are thus in a position where they can block discussion on any subject considered undesirable, the gold countries regarded the vote as a triumph for their thesis. They have insisted that monetary questions in general should be eliminated until the dollar has been stabilized and under today's decision they will be able to see that this view prevails.

Publicly this evening all conference leaders were saying that business of the parley was moving smoothly and that work would be continued.

It is understood that a gentlemen's agreement has been reached whereby the conference would be wound up soon without any triumphant shouts by either side.

START DOLLAR STABILIZATION

By EDWARD B. LOCKETT
International News Service.

WASHINGTON, July 11.—The process of stabilizing the American dollar at home was begun today under President Roosevelt's direction.

Preliminary studies designed to evolve ways and means of effecting the desired result were under two new appointees of the President, Profs. James H. Rogers, of Yale, and George Frederick Warren, of Cornell.

The pair was named by the executive ostensibly as "co-ordinators" and publicly charged with studies of the budget. They began work with offices in the Commerce Department Building.

Domestic stabilization of the dollar was fixed as Mr. Roosevelt's goal when he refused to join an international agreement for currency stabilization.

Five Meals Daily Make Stout Persons Thin

By LEIGH MATTESON
International News Service.

NEW YORK, July 11.—An unusual method of enabling overweight women and men to reduce to their proper weights by eating large quantities of ordinary, tasteful food has been found to be a complete success here.

Tests of the method on 50 overweight women and children have been completed by Dr. Josephine Hemenway Kenyon. In every case the eating of large quantities of food led to a proper reduction of weight within a short time while improving the general health and strength of the patients.

Two Pittsburgh physicians suggested trial of the method some months ago. Dr. Kenyon was the first to test it extensively.

The chief feature of the method is the use of a diet containing large quantities of food with high protein content. Such foods always before were kept at a minimum in reducing diets, along with foods containing an excess of sugar.

Five meals a day were eaten by the patients.

Breakfast consisted of a portion of fruit, one egg and the white of another and coffee or tea unsweetened or sweetened with sugar substitutes. Lean meat, fish or fowl was permitted at luncheon and dinner, along with buttermilk, pot cheese vegetables and lettuce with special dressing.

At a mid-afternoon meal clear soup, fruit and bread substitutes were eaten. At 9:30 p. m. orange juice and patented vitamin foods were consumed.

On the new diet 18 women and children, ranging in age from 10 to 52 years in age and weighing under 160 pounds, lost an average of 11.6 pounds in nine weeks.

STATE POLICE SHATTER ROMANCE

Husband Admits He Fled From Ohio Penitentiary

The romance of a 78-year-old fugitive and a 29-year-old Vandergrift girl was shattered today by the law.

The state police stepped in and took Denis W. Egan, 78, bowed and dejected, from his home in Forbes street, Soho, and left his bride of a year, in tears.

Egan, who adopted the name C. W. Combs, readily admitted that he had escaped seven years ago from Ohio State Penitentiary after serving six months of a one-year sentence for a liquor-law violation.

AIDED BY WIFE

His first wife, he said, insisted he escape, and she helped him. Later they were divorced.

Today his second wife had returned to the home of her parents in East Vandergrift. Egan was being held in Greensburg by the state police pending his return to Ohio.

Of his second wife Egan said:

"She is heartbroken over this affair. However, it didn't come as a surprise, for I had told her about my penitentiary sentence."

RECOGNIZED

Egan said a foreigner he had known in Canton, O., recognized him on the streets last week in Pittsburgh.

A trusty, he escaped from the penitentiary after his wife had threatened to take their son west, Egan related. He said:

"She told me she would be waiting with an auto for me in front of the penitentiary hospital. About midnight I made my way out of the hospital to the auto."

They moved then to Washington, Pa., and a year later she divorced him, after which he moved to Pittsburgh, Egan added.

NOME, Alaska, July 11.—(INS.)—Poised on the runway of the airport here, the Jimmy Mattern relief plane was ready to hop off at a moment's notice today for Anadir, Siberia, where the American 'round the world flier is stranded.

William Alexander, pilot of the relief plane, declared "everything was ready" for the 300-mile trip across the treacherous ice-studded Bering Straits to Anadir.

The relief aviator and his companions were anxiously awaiting official permission from the Soviet government to land their plane on Siberian soil. Pending permission plans for the rescue party were at a standstill.

Alexander and two companions, Fred Feterman, mechanic, and Thomas G. Abbey, arrived at 4:17 p. m. last night (Pittsburgh time) in a chartered Lockheed seaplane of the Southern Alaska Airways from Juneau. The seaplane was flown here by Robert Ellis, Alaskan aviator.

LOS ANGELES, July 11.—(AP.)—Dr. Eugene C. Nelson, the Negro physician who married Helen Lee Worthing, Follies actress, faces a $100,000 alienations of affections suit by the husband of another white woman.

But close upon the heels of the damage suit by Leo F. Desmond, Long Island (N. Y.) oil machinery salesman, Mrs. Desmond filed action for dissolution of her marital ties.

Mrs. Desmond said of the doctor:

"I knew he was of Negro blood, but it made no difference. I loved him so much that I was afraid of losing him.

"I never loved my husband. I tried to but I couldn't. We separated two weeks after we were married. I went back to him, but it couldn't last. My husband knew that Dr. Nelson and I were going together. I met Dr. Nelson in May, 1932, and went to work for him six weeks later."

Secretary to the physician whose marital affairs with Miss Worthing visited two courts, the wife of the machinery salesman alleged in her suit for annulment that Desmond had threatened her life if she told he was not a citizen of this country and menaced her with a knife.

LINDYS DELAYED AGAIN BY FOG

NORTH HAVEN, Me., July 11.—(INS.)—Fog again today hung over this little island, 15 miles off Rockland, threatening to balk Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh from continuing their air mapping tour over Greenland, Labrador and Iceland.

The low winged monoplane bobbed on the calm waters of a cove near the summer home of Mrs. Dwight W. Morrow, mother of Mrs. Lindbergh, ready for the second leg of the flight from New York to Halifax, N. S.

After repairing a damaged cable to the pontoon-equipped red monoplane, the "Flying Colonel" and his wife spent the night with Mrs. Morrow, Mrs. Evangeline Lindbergh, mother of the flier, and their 11-months-old son, John.

It was Lindbergh's intention to continue today to Halifax. The couple arrived here yesterday after being forced down on South Pond at South Warren Sunday night by fog.

WATER IN GAS DELAYS BALBO

REYKJAVIK, Iceland, July 11.—(INS.)—Plans for resuming the flight of the Italian air armada, bound for Chicago, before tomorrow were definitely abandoned at 10 a. m. today (7 a. m., Pittsburgh time) as fresh difficulties beset the fliers.

The pilots of the 24 seaplanes, poised here for the next hop to Cartwright, Labrador, claimed the gasoline with which their planes had been refueled here was impure.

One report was that water had been mixed with the fuel placed in the plane of Gen. Italo Balbo, commander of the flight.

Decision to postpone the take-off at least until tomorrow followed an unsuccessful attempt of the armada to take off early this morning. This attempt failed when lack of wind made it impossible for the craft to rise from the water of Reykjavik harbor.

Doctor Confirms Story Of 'Synthetic Babies'

Detroit Man Tells of Being Present at Operation

DETROIT, July 11.—(INS.)—Dr. L. B. Brietenbach, one of the most prominent medical men in Detroit, today placed the stamp of truth on the amazing story of Mrs. Kate [illegible]ley Hommel, of Los Angeles, that her three attractive daughters were "synthetic babies," whose father she did not see until after their birth.

Dr. Breitenbach revealed that it was under his direction that Dr. John Franklin Dunwoody, who died in 1919, performed the "marvelous operation" described by Mrs. Hommel in the records of a Los Angeles court.

Dr. Breitenbach said:

"Every word of her story is true, and there is no 'miracle' about the affair at all. I know it is true because Dr. Dunwoody was my associate and I was with him both at the operation and the birth of the three girls later.

"It is not as unusual as you imagine. I believe this method is better than adoptions. You can choose your stock and produce healthy, normal children.

COUPLE UNHAPPY

"Dr. Dunwoody had for his patients a Mr. and Mrs. James Gardner Shelley. The Shelleys were unhappy. They had been married for some time and both wanted children badly.

"Just before Shelley, an employe of the Packard Motor Company, was sent to Russia and India during the World War, the Shelleys conferred with Dr. Dunwoody and asked what could be done. He told them of the scientific method which they both agreed to.

"Another of Dr. Dunwoody's patients was a young man of 19, clean, of fine old stock and the friend and admirer of the doctor. Dr. Dunwoody asked him to aid in the scientific birth. Neither the boy nor Mrs. Shelley, who was then about 28 or 29, knew the other's identity.

"The operation was successful. Shelley went to India and when he returned his baby daughter was just a few weeks old. He was wild with delight and anxious for a son."

THRICE REPEATED

The experiment was twice repeated with the same success, he said.

"The children, all girls, grew and prospered. Shelley brought them to my offices frequently, and I never saw a real father more devoted than he was. We talked about it often and we agreed it was better than adoption.

"It was about this time, I understand, that Mrs. Shelley became acquainted with the real father of the children, who, as fate would have it, had taken up residence next door to the Shelley home. Afterward, all three became the best of friends. I doubt very much if the young man, the real father, had anything to do with the breakup of the home.

"I kept in touch with the Shelleys until about 10 years ago, and then they left town. I read Mrs. Hommel's testimony that there had been a divorce."

Mrs. Hommel testified that she and her husband "made the mistake" of permitting the children's real father to come into their home and enjoy them. She said, simply:

"We fell in love. I guess it was only natural."

The Shelleys then were divorced, she said, but instead of marrying the children's father, she married Dr. Wesley Hommel. Her strange story came out during her suit for a division of Dr. Hommel's $500,000 fortune. She was recently divorced from him.

ELY TAKES LEAD IN PARIS TEST

PARIS, July 11.—(AP.)—The American team headed by Ely Culbertson took a slim lead of 36 points at the end of the first day's play in an international playfond contest with a French team captained by Pierre Bellanger.

The French captain contends that any system is unnecessary in bridge. The tournament was arranged to test his theory that individual brilliancy is equal to system in plafond, from which contract bridge is an offspring.

Thirty hands were played yesterday instead of the 36 scheduled for the first three days of the week. The six remaining hands will be added to today's schedule.

The American score at the end of the day was 9,668 and the French count 9,632.

Holmes, who had confessed he was a companion of Mrs. Coffey on a night last May when she was shot, and that he became frightened and threw her body into the Little Miami River, will not be prosecuted, officials said.

Authorities indicated they were willing to accept Holmes' claim that the shooting was accidental.

TWO BOYS HELD IN OHIO GIRL'S DISAPPEARANCE

Youths Tell Conflicting Stories of Aiding Former Co-ed

WILMINGTON, O., July 11.—(AP.)—Wilmington police officials today announced that George McCoy, of Peebles, O., and Chester Baldwin, 22, of Ottway, are being held for questioning in the disappearance of 18-year-old Marian Buckley, daughter of a Cleveland school official.

McCoy, 25, is being held in the Lawrence County Jail at Ironton pending further investigation, it was said, and Baldwin in the jail at Portsmouth, O.

STORIES CONFLICT

Chief of Police Ben South, of Wilmington, said the men were being held for questioning because stories they told of giving a ride to a girl hitch-hiker answering Miss Buckley's description did not tally.

No formal charge has been placed against either, however, he added.

McCoy early last week told officials and relatives of Miss Buckley here that he gave a girl he identified as Miss Buckley a ride in his automobile to the Kentucky end of the Ohio River bridge at Ashland, Ky., on July 3.

SEARCH PUSHED

Subsequently, Chief South said, it was learned that Balwin was McCoy's companion on the trip, and decision to hold them came, he said, when questioning of the two separately revealed differences in their stories.

Miss Buckley disappeared from her Cleveland home July 1 after she had told her parents she was "going for a walk." A former Wilmington College student, it was first believed she would come here, and search was concentrated in this region. McCoy's report, however, directed the search to the vicinity of Ashland, Ky. H. M. Buckley, the girl's father, has expressed the opinion that McCoy's story furnished the most definite trace to the girl's whereabouts.

'MOTHER' DIES OF BURNS

Judge Benjamin Lencher two weeks ago that, despite her poverty, he gave the boy back to her, with conditions.

But Andy and little Billy felt that her clothing caught fire while she tried to light a carbide miner's lamp. He and Billy had walked up to a garage not far away about 9 last night to buy kerosene. Their supply had been exhausted. When they came back, she was lying on a mattress, her arms and body seared by burns.

CLOTHING IGNITED

She had, as Billy suggested, gone to feed the pigs, returned with the lamp and then accidentally let its flame ignite her clothing.

Billy's screams attracted Mr. and Mrs. William Peterman, neighbors. They hurried down and called a physician and ambulance. She was rushed to the Columbia Hospital.

But she was still conscious and called constantly for Billy, her charge.

They had to move her out on the mattress—which was all ready to be taken to the new house.

HALED INTO COURT

Two weeks ago Mrs. Mitchell was haled before the court with Billy. Welfare workers reported poor sanitary and living conditions. Billy didn't have a chance to grow up and be somebody in that environment, they said.

But environment meant nothing to the boy. His "Mammy" did. And the old woman protested, saying:

"I've had him ever since he was a baby. If you take him I'll die."

Judge Lencher had to decide between the values of deep affection and environment. He sent the boy back with her on condition that she provide better living conditions.

Her plight was met by kindly neighbors, who built a new stone hut for her.

DASHING WOOER DISAPPEARS

on a $4,200 spending spree, but he paid off in checks which will start bouncing back today.

They met a few days ago near Jordan's beer garden, where Lillian served the 3.2. So pleased was Leonard that he bought a second-hand auto for Joe Hosko, McKeesport cabbie, who had introduced them. Unfortunately for Joe, Urban gave a $175 check for the car.

Then Lillian and Leonard started out. Leonard told her all she had to do was live with him for six months after their marriage, as stipulated in the will of his aged grandmother whom he loved very much.

From store to store they went. For furniture they spent $1,615; for the first month's rent on an apartment, $35; for an auto, equipped with radio, a mere $1,160; for a diamond-studded engagement ring, $320. And so forth.

With each generous purchase Leonard tore off another check, which was signed in the name of "Nathan L. Smith, trustee for Martha Van Getz." The checks were drawn on the Mellon National Bank.

Martha Van Getz played the role of the departed grandmother.

Lillian went to the police last night when Leonard failed to appear. They were to have driven to Cumberland, Md., yesterday morning to tie the knot.

So the police would like to find Leonard. So would a half-dozen merchants, who were too smart to send the stuff until the checks cleared the bank, which will be in a long, long time.

Three years ago one Leonard Urban concinced Ruth Locy that he'd inherited $60,000 from an aunt if he married. He promised her $12,000. They were married. Leonard failed to produce the money, so Ruth had him arrested.

Film Man Denies Marital Parting

HOLLYWOOD, July 11.—(AP.)—Edmund Goulding, noted film director, today denied reports that he and his wife of less than two years, the former Marjorie Violet Moss, stage dancer, have separated. He said:

"We are living happily together and have no thought of separating."

Deserting Wife Returns To Aid Slayer Mate

ST. LOUIS, July 11.—(AP.)—Aid to John T. Traylor, former rug company proprietor, who admittedly slew the man who stole his wife, was promised today by Mrs. Traylor.

Traylor was arrested as he waited for a car to Alton, Ill., by Police Sergt. Elmer Morrision, one of two officers in St. Louis who knew him. He had been a fugitive for two years.

He is held on a temporary warrant charging the murder of Timothy Lahart, restaurant proprietor, and Mrs. Ruth Lewis, wife of LaHart's partner. Mrs. Lewis allegedly was killed by a stray bullet.

Mrs. Marie Traylor visited her husband at the jail last night. She said:

"James was a wonderful husband, and I'm all to blame for this. I don't know why I ever left him.

"But I'm going to stand by him now. I'll help him all I can."

Traylor said Lahart wooed and won his wife while he was in a hospital recuperating from injuries received in France during the World War.

GIRLS, WOMEN TELL SWEATSHOP PROBERS OF LONG HOURS

MEN REPLACED AT LESS PAY, WITNESSES SAY; HARD TOIL TOLD

she testified get 30 cents an hour, but the girls get only 18 cents, and some are raised to 22 cents an hour. The plant employs 600 girls. A friend of hers planned to testify, she said, but didn't come because she feared she'd lose her job.

A letter written by a woman employe of the Aluminum Company was put into the records of the committee. It said in part:

"Some days make as little as 75 cents or less. Work at piece work. Best ever made was about $10 a week. Some weeks make as low as $5 or $6. This is due either to poor piecework or lack of work altogether. Very hard to wait around. Work at power machine in cooking utensils department. Stand at work. Seventeen girls in department. I worked there almost eight years."

NIGHT TURN

She explained that men also worked in the place and added this:

"Sometimes, when men are out, the girls operate the same jobs at the same machiens, but get the reduced rate. By July 15, they expect to put the girls on all night turn. That's from 3 to 11 p. m."

A representative of the United Garment Workers, local No. 51, testified girls in the garment factories here were intimidated and afraid to appear. She said the average pays were between $5 and $7 a week.

Her testimony followed that of a little white-haired woman, who said she had been sent to testify by the owners of the American Trouser Company. She said she earned as much as $19 a week, and was chairlady over 170 girls. The lowest wage was $5 a week, she said. The union representative then declared the other girls were afraid to appear.

She said:

"Some places are using union labels although they've thrown unions out."

PROBERS MEET

The State Legislature's Gallagher commission assembled for its first Western Pennsylvania hearing at the Courthouse. Employers will be heard tomorrow.

Members of the committee called for employes of a number of other companies, but there was no response.

Statements were received from the William Penn Hotel, Hart Trouser Company, National Casket Company, Pittsburgh Garter Company, according to Stephen Raushenbush, representing the State Labor Department.

The charge of low wages was not confined to the commercial establishments. Among the lowest wages are those paid domestics, according to Miss Frances Zoglmann, clerg in the state employment office. She said the average wage paid domestics is $3 a week and board. She has 1,000 applicants without jobs, she said.

Some told of humiliations they were compelled to suffer. A young girl who said she had been employed by a McCrory 5-and-10 cent store at Canonsburg said that during a sales contest girls who failed to sell an average amount of goods were compelled to carry unwrapped nursing bottles to and from work.

LONG HOURS RELATED

The committee questioned the witness at length after she testified the employes worked an average of 60 hours a week. She said she was paid $7 a week and quit after working a year and a half. They worked Sundays preparing the stock, she said.

Another witness, still in her teens, testified she was employed by the Russian Beauty Shop as cashier and bookkeeper 11 hours a day and six days a week for $4 a week. She was fired last Saturday, she said, after $1.25 was missed from the cash register. She said the money was taken from her wage.

She said she was glad to get the job, whereupon Mrs. Gifford Pinchot, wife of the Governor and member of the commission, leaned forward and asked:

"Do you still want a job?"

The witness, tremulous, said:

"I'd love to have one."

She said operators in the shop worked longer hours than she. Their employer rented a water cooler and the employes bought the ice, she said.

TELLS OF 'NAGGING'

A pert little girl who said she worked three or four months as a packer for the Hardie Brothers Candy Company said she quit because she couldn't "stand the nagging of the floorlady." She was paid $1.25 a day, she said.

John Salvin, representing the Milk Ice Cream Salesman, Drivers and Dairy Employes' Local Union No. 205, told the commission that women were being hired in the Otto Milk Company to do the work formerly done by men. The women are being paid $12 a week, which is less than half the amount the men received for doing the same work, he said.

Among the first to testify was a very young girl, who said she had been fired from the Milton Manufacturing Company Saturday on the pretext she had not done her work right. She said her range in pay was from $4 a week to $10—and the week she made $10 she worked from 8 to 5 without lunch hour. She said the plant had no rest room for the girls.

CITES LOW WAGE

Another girl, a former employe of the National Mirror Specialty Company, Springdale, said wages were now $5 a week.

Mrs. Pinchot said:

"While there are many fine employers throughout the state who have borne through the depression and continued to pay a decent living wage, we have thoroughly shown that sweatshop conditions do exist. Pittsburgh is not exempt from this condition. I have received many letters from Pittsburgh district workers.

"There is no question that a state minimum wage law will have to be passed. However, I expect the Industrial Recovery Act to do much to improve the conditions during the next two years."

HIGHER PAY HERE

Stephen Raushenbush, representing the State Labor Department, said that wages generally are higher in Pittsburgh than they are in the eastern part of the state, where it was disclosed children and women work for a few cents a day.

He said, however, that the conditions are virtually as bad and that the number of sweatshops is as great in this district as in the East.

The commission will not hear a succession of witnesses from one shop, but usually hears only one or two from each. Those appearing personally will be only from Pittsburgh or its immediate environs.

The bill creating the commission to study labor conditions among women and children and recommend new legislation was sponsored by Representative Thomas J. Gallagher, of Pittsburgh. Several members of the Legislature are members. Senator G. Mason Owlett, Tioga County, is chairman.

GLASS WORKERS STRIKE

At the same time, 450 employes of the United States Glass Company at Glassport were on strike for higher wages and better working conditions. Two hundred of them were women.

The glass workers picketed the plant this morning. They claim the girls are paid a minimum of 14 cents and men a minimum of 25 cents an hour. They work work seven hours a day, one shift 7 to 10 a. m. and 2 to 6 p. m. and the other 10 a. m. to 2 p. m. and 6 p. m to 10 p. m., they say.

A strike committee presented its demands to the employers this morning.

Strike leaders said that in Factory M, girls pack glassware for 14 cents an hour. They are required to lift boxes weighing 60 pounds over their heads, according to the strikers. This particular factory, they said, is called "the glory barn sweatshop."

The workers are asking a minimum wage of 25 cents an hour for girls and boys and 40 cents for men, including laborers, packers, shippers and electricians. About 150 union glassworkers did not strike, but leaders said the plant was closed by the walkout of the others.

A committee of 12, six men and six women, conferred for nearly an hour with Andrew Granger, assistant superintendent of the glass works. Spokesmen told the crowd of strikers that the company men had told them to stay out as long as they wished, that there would be no increase. Strikers booed the statement and averred they would remain on strike.

Members of the strikers' committee chased from the group a man said to be a communist representative.

Man Loses Pulpit, Prayer Books; Gets Broom

NEWPORT NEWS, Va., July 11.—(AP.)—R. V. Alford, who laid claim to a pulpit, an altar railing, 100 prayer books, five electric light bulbs and a broom, will get the broom—or its equivalent in cash—under an order entered by Judge John W. Massey in civil court here.

Alford claimed the items listed belonged to him when the Pentecostal Holiness Church was located in the North End and that they were carried along when the congregation moved to the East End. After 20 witnesses had been heard during a trial lasting two days, his contention was upheld only as regards the broom, which was valued at $1.

Labor Probers Continue Investigation Here

With a strengthened belief in the necessity of industrial codes ordered by the National Industrial Recovery Act, members of a seminar of the National Religion and Labor Foundation were to continue today their investigation of labor conditions here.

The seminar yesterday inspected plants of the H. J. Heinz Company and the Aluminum Company of America.

Expressing disappointment that more information was not forthcoming at the Heinz plant, members of the seminar nevertheless learned by furtive questioning of some girl employes that they were receiving 20 and 22½ cents an hour.

Officials of the Heinz company refused to give out information on wages without a written request. In view of the Gallagher hearings, they were unwilling to risk possible misue of such figures, they said.

At the Aluminum Company plant members of the seminar talked freely with workers. Women workers questioned said their wages ranged around 20 cents.

Wages in both plants conformed more or less to the average standard of the district, Dr. Jerome Davis, of Yale, one of the leaders of the seminar said. Stating they showed the struggle to which industry had been subject in the past years, Dr. Davis envisaged the labor codes as the best solution.

The seminar will visit coal mining districts today. Dr. Davis will speak over KDKA at 4 p. m., and KQV at 6:15 p. m. An open meeting will be held tonight under the auspices of the League for Social Justice at the Hiland Presbyterian Church, Perrysville.

COMPENSATION ABUSES TO BE AIRED HERE

Individual complainants were urged today by the Governor's Commission on Workman Compensation and Insurance to appear at its public hearings, beginning tomorrow, to reveal abuses and evils of the law's administration.

The hearings, which will continue through Thursday, are to be held in the Allegheny County Bar Association Auditorium, ninth floor, City County Building. The testimony will be taken at two sessions daily, beginning at 10 a. m. and 2 p. m.

LABOR INVITED

C. A. Kulp, of Philadelphia, chairman of the committee, said invitations have been issued to labor, social and employer groups. He stressed:

"It is the individual complainant that we want to appear. The committee is seeking to learn what abuses and evils have grown from the administration of the law. So far, we have seen many examples where red tape and undue delay are defeating the purpose of the act."

HEARINGS BEGIN

Hearings are being held in four cities. Pittsburgh is the second. The complaints will be investigated later, as will 1,500 cases settled before the board during 1932 and this year, Kulp said.

The charge made by the Medical Society of Pennsylvania before the Philadelphia hearing that the Self-Insurers Association of Pennsylvania, composed of large employers of sufficient capital that they do not operate under the compensation law, was failing to settle medical accounts, will be answered tomorrow. Kulp said the Self-Insurers will have a representative appear.

Blouse Makers Ban Workers Under 16

NEW YORK, July 11.—(AP.)—The National Association of Blouse Manufacturers today joined the ranks of those who have completed codes of fair competition under the provisions of the new Industrial Recovery Act.

The code was forwarded to Hugh S. Johnson, administrator of the act. It provides for a maximum working week of 40 hours, excludes workers under 16 years of age, and fixes a minimum salary of $14 per week in cities of 250,000 or over and $12 in cities under 250,000.

Fear Ball Teams Wouldn't Elude Douglas' Ax

WASHINGTON, July 11.—(AP.)—Quite a reputation as an expense cutter is Lewis W. Douglas, budget director, building up for himself.

He went up in a White House elevator with a young woman secretary. They began talking baseball, as do many people here these days, what with Washington being at the top of the American League.

Opined the young woman:

"I'll bet that if you went out to see them, you'd want the teams to play with six men."

He probably wouldn't because he has done enough pitching in college and for the House Democrats to appreciate how much good the other eight can do.

JOHNSON HITS COAL DISPUTE

WASHINGTON, July 11.—(Universal.)—Leading coal operators will be summoned here by the industrial recovery administration in the next few days and forced to adopt an agreement to raise wages and reduce working hours, it is learned.

Hugh S. Johnson, administrator of the Recovery act, decided on this course after becoming impatient with dissension within the coal group, it was made known.

His action came simultaneously with a blunt threat from the recovery administration to set its own dates for hearings on the codes of other industries unless the industries speed up the pace on their programs.

Rail Men Confirm Continuation of Cut

CLEVELAND, July 11.—(INS.)—Proposal for the continuation of the 10 per cent wage reduction for railroad workers until June 30, 1934, has been confirmed by employes of the various rail classes, A. V. Whitney, chairman of the Railway Labor Executives' Association, announced here today.

U. S. THREATENS WHIP OVER INDUSTRY

By T. N. SANDIFER
International News Service.

WASHINGTON, July 11.—The federal whip today threatened those industries deliberately slow in meeting the conditions of the National Recovery Act and submitting codes designed to put men back to work and raise wages.

Faced with a race against time in putting the nation's recovery machine at top speed, Brig. Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, administrator of industrial recovery, was considering a deadline, after which industries failing to comply with the provisions of the act will be informed that a code will be supplied them by the President, acting through Johnson.

TO SET DEADLINE

He said it would be several days before he came to a decision on this point. Once a deadline is set, it was indicated, the margin of time would be only sufficient for the industries concerned to show their intentions.

The difficulties of the coal operators are causing him concern, he said, and warned that he would ask them to bring their various codes to him and have them ironed out very shortly, if they fail on an agreement. There are four such codes pending from as many coal groups.

ANTI-TRUST LAWS

The full powers of the anti-trust laws will be brought against recalcitrants.

Meanwhile, Secretary of the Interior Harold I. Ickes announced that millions of jobs for now idle workers in the first objective of the $3,300,000,000 public works program. The newly-appointed director of public works promised swift action.

Dispute Convinces 'Fence-Viewers' They'll View

AMESBURY, Mass., July 11.—(AP.)—Two newspapermen and a plumber who have basked in the glory of being fence-viewers—a town office dating back to colonial times—and have filled their posts with dignity and inertia, today had discovered that the supposedly obsolete job was no joke after all.

A dispute has arisen between two property owners over fenced land and for the first time within the memory of the oldest resident, it appears likely that the fence viewers may have to view fences.

WORK ON STEEL CODE PUSHED

WASHINGTON, July 11.—(Universal.)—A promise that the steel industry will unite promptly on a code of fair competition was given to President Roosevelt yesterday by Myron S. Taylor, board chairman of the United States Steel Corporation.

This key group presents one of the most difficult problems of the 10 major industries which the industry recovery administration is seeking to unite under agreements for shorter working hours and higher minimum wages.

Three tentative steel codes and one for the oil industry already have been received and rejected because they did not conform to the spirit of the act, Administrator Hugh S. Johnson said.

RAIL WORKERS GAIN 20,200

WASHINGTON, July 11.—(AP.)—Employment on Class I American railroads increased 20,200 men in June as compared with May. Statistics released today at the offices of the Interstate Commerce Commission showed 957,330 men working on the railroads in June as compared with 937,103 in May. The figures do not include employes of switching and terminal companies.

Almost all of the increase is reflected in train and engine service employes, this category showing an increase of 1.39 per cent.

3 MORE STATES RATIFY REPEAL

HARTFORD, Conn., July 11.—(AP.)—Connecticut today became the twelfth state to ratify a resolution to wipe out national prohibition.

Acting on a mandate given them by an overwhelming majority in a special election June 20, 50 men and women, delegates to the state's constitutional convention, voted unanimously for the resolution reepaling the Eighteenth Amendment.

Gov. Wilbur L. Cross told the convention after the resolution was ratified:

"I look forward to the time, not far off, when it shall be completely gone, leaving only the memory of it behind."

IOWA JOINS PARADE

DES MOINES, Ia., July 11.—(INS.)—Iowa, bone dry for 16 years, had formally joined the parade of wet states today.

The Hawkeyes became the eleventh state to formally ratify the Twenty-first Amendment to the Constitution yesterday, when wet delegates from 90 counties voted unanimously to put Iowa on record in favor of repealing national prohibition.

MEETING IN N. H.

CONCORD, N. H., July 11.—(INS.)—Ten delegates to a constitutional convention gathered here today to officially vote New Hampshire as the thirteenth state to formally ratify repeal of prohibition.

SOUTH HOLDS FATE OF REPEAL

WASHINGTON, July 11.—(AP.)—The real tip-off to the probable fate of prohibition, most all the interested agree, will come a week from today in the Alabama and Arkansas referenda.

So sure is Postmaster General Farley that favorable action on repeal by those states would mean "it's all over" that he is taking the administration's drive into the deep South.

At Memphis, Tenn., on Saturday, he will plead for the erasure of the Eighteenth Amendment. His speech will be transmitted to Alabama and Arkansas, which vote July 18, two days before Tennessee.

VOTE IN OREGON

In the next month, Oregon passes on the repeal resolution July 21 and Arizona August 8. Twelve other states have set these election dates this year:

Texas, August 26; Washington, August 29; Vermont, September 5; Maine, September 11; Maryland and Minnesota, September 12; Idaho and New Mexico, September 19, and North Carolina, Ohio, Pennsylvania and South Carolina, November 7.

Florida, Missouri, Montana and Utah are expected to hold elections this year.

FERGUSON IN SOUTH

Meanwhile, "Jim" Ferguson, of Texas, was in Washington to confer with Postmaster General Farley. Ferguson wants the national party's aid in sarrying Texas for repeal.

ATLANTA, Ga., July 11.—(AP.)—W. W. Gaines, Atlanta attorney and chairman of the Consolidated Forces for rPohibition in Georgia, today said, "We do not have to turn liquorites in order to be Democrats," replying to President Roosevelt's recent letter to Leon McCord, Democratic national committeeman from Alabama.

The President threw his influence behind the repeal movement by reiterating his position of standing 100 per cent on the platform adopted at the Chicago convention, which declared for outright repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment.

Electric refrigerators, like everything else, went to unprecedented low prices during the recent decline. Now with advances in costs of materials and labor, prices are going up. Everyone considering an Electric Refrigerator should look into this opportunity without a moment's delay. The Dayton successfully meets every test that can be applied to modern home refrigeration. DELAYS NAMING PENNA. HOME LOAN CHIEF

WASHINGTON, July 11. Admitting that Democratic Leader Joseph F. Guffey two weeks ago had made his recommendations for the Pennsylvania set-up of the Home Owners' Loan Corporation, Chairman William F. Stevenson, of the federal board, said today he was not ready to announce appointments of the Keystone State manager and his staff.

The federal chairman at the same time admitted his knowledge of the precarious situation of thousands of Pennsylvania home owners who face foreclosure, but insisted that more time would be required to select thoroughly competent officials.

HINTS OTHER CHOICES

Regarding Guffey's recommendations Stevenson declared:

"We may require other recommendations beside those of Mr. Guffey."

He said that appointments were suggested by Senators and Representatives of the various states, but could not recall that Pennsylvania Senators had been consulted. Asked whether Republicans would be considered for the positions he made it plain that persons friendly to the Democratic administration would be favored.

STATE'S NEED GREAT

Stevenson continued:

"In the work of the Home Owners' Loan Corporation Pennsylvania is the most important state in the Union. More people in Pennsylvania stand in jeopardy of losing their homes, and more applications from Pennsylvanians are anticipated. The loans in Pennsylvania will run into hundreds of millions.

"There will be a state manager in charge and at least four district offices will be set up.

"To carry on this vast enterprise we require competent officials and trained staffs of experienced men. The board is doing everything that is humanly possible to launch the corporation in Pennsylvania."

AWARDS GIVEN TRUCK DRIVERS

Fifty-three truck fleets and 3,000 no-accident drivers were given recognition last night for safe driving records established in a six-month contest sponsored by the Better Traffic Committee and the Western Pennsylvania Safety Council.

Plaques and certificates were awarded winners at a drivers' rally in the Moose Temple by Thomas Fitzgerald, president of the safety council. Speakers were J. Russel Craig, safety director of the Pennsylvania Indemnity Company; Councilman Frank L. Duggan, chairman of the traffic committee, and George E. Clarkson, manager of the safety council.

Speaking on "Why Commercial Drivers Are Better Drivers," Mr. Craig drew the distinction that "truck drivers are dumb while commercial drivers are intelligent." He said:

"On the basis of an analysis of some 20,000 accident claims in Pittsburgh, we found that truck drivers are 'hopeful drivers'—they hope that the intersection is clear—while commercial drivers realize that courteous driving builds good will and creates new customers."

JAP PREMIER ESCAPES PLOT

TOKIO, July 11.—(AP)—Official residences of Premier Saito and other cabinet members were guarded by armed police today, reportedly in connection with the discovery of an assassination plot.

Nine leaders of the Seisanto organization, composed of farmers and laborers, were arrested. Police questioned and later released 40 others. Two members of a patriotic group were arrested in Osaka.

Leaders of Seisanto denied to police they planned any assassinations.

JOSEPH B. KEENAN

KEENAN SPEEDS WAR ON CRIME

WASHINGTON, July 11.—The federal government is starting a far-flung drive to rebuild the broken morale of its crime detection forces shattered by 13 years of activity in the field of prohibition enforcement, it is announced by Joseph B. Keenan, special assistant attorney general in charge of racketeering prosecutions.

With revival of public confidence in law enforcement, which he anticipates with prohibition repeal, the government again can get control of gangsters and racketeers, he thinks.

Keenan is conducting a broad study of how available investigating agencies can co-ordinate their work with that of state and local prosecuting groups to drive the racketeers from the country's industry and commerce.

ROPER, HOAN -:- Commerce Secretary, Milwaukee Mayor -:- ON THE AIR

Capone Foe's Inside Story Broadcast

Secretary of Commerce Daniel C. Roper discusses the Industrial Control section of the National Recovery Act over WCAE at 10:30 tonight.

Roper, chairman of the Cabinet advisory committee appointed by President Roosevelt to supervise the functions of the Industrial Control section, is expected to outline developments of his conferences with the President last week.

Also in the realm of public affairs is KDKA's 7:15 bill, "You and Your Government," featuring Daniel W. Hoan, mayor of Milwaukee who is accredited with keeping his city out of debt, and Louis Brownlow, director of the Public Administration Clearing House. Their topic: "Mr. Taxpayer versus Mr. Taxspender."

Capone Drama

Undeterred by the knowledge that most men who defied Al Capone and his gang had been dealt "last rides," District Attorney George E. Q. Johnson, of Chicago, determined to bring Public Enemy No. 1 to punishment. And while three prominent Chicagoans armed with search warrants raided places of which Capone admitted ownership only to be shot, beaten and persecuted by gangsters, they helped weave the chain of evidence that finally sent Capone to the penitentiary as Convict No. 40886.

The inside story of how it was done is dramatized over WCAE at 10 tonight during "Lives at Stake."

Local Highlights on WJAS Tonight

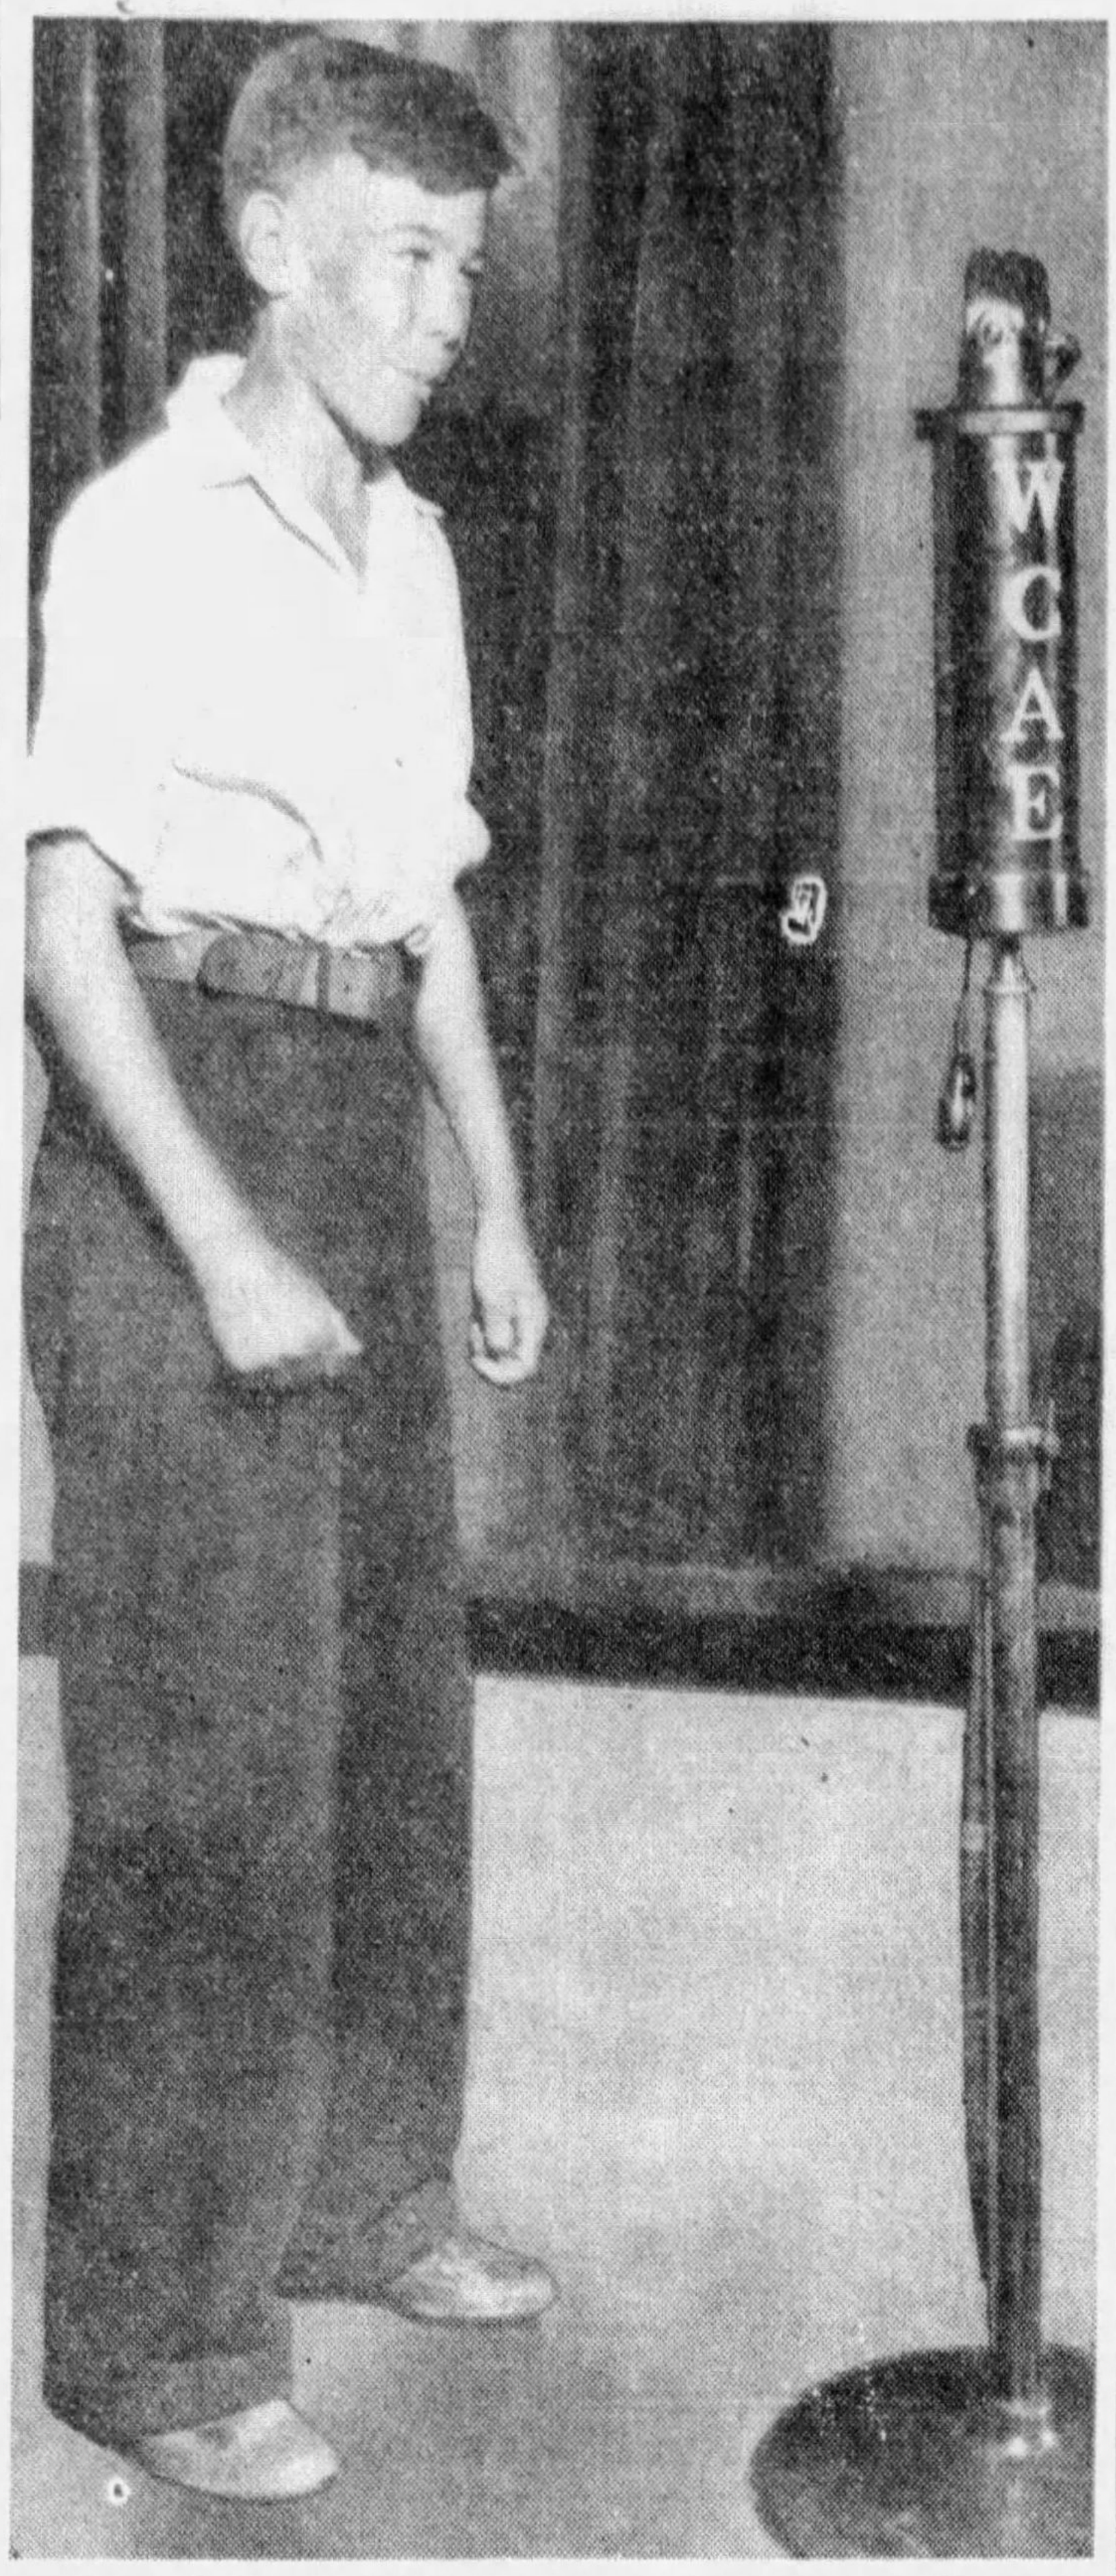
Paul Gannon offers "The Far Away Bells" in his "Songs at Eventide" broadcast at 6:45.

Add Brickell returns at 6:15 with his song and piano interpretations.

Lewis Munnell promises some old and new favorites at 7:30.

Eddie Peyton plans another Ted Lewis number at 11:30.

One of the Gang



Percival, the "real feller" who popped into Quin Hall's comic page feature and the weekly WCAE Junior Patrol program recently, as portrayed aerially by George Weimerskirch, 14, of Verona. Tomorrow's broadcast, at 4:45, brings Spike's sea-minded brother, Bill, to the air in the person of Fred Lester. Uncle Ted carries on.

Jury of 15,000 Radio Listeners 'Acquits' Man of Murder Charge By 10 to 1

By "VOICE OF EXPERIENCE"
(Pinch-Hitting for Absent Aircaster.)

In the eight years that I have been conducting a radio question and answer period, I have received a little more than 2,000,000 letters. Numbered among them, have been five signed confessions of murder.

The last of these confessions to reach me arrived six weeks ago, and was used in one of my broadcasts. The letter reads as follows:

"Dear Sir—

"As a constant listener to your program, I would be greatly indebted to you if you would clear my status quo, how society and the law would regard me if my past was revealed.

"I, with my wife and three children, was a member of a band of Greek refugees who had escaped the Turkish knife at Nicomedia. Weeks of constant travel reduced our supplies and the babies that were saved were constantly wailing for food. This noise endangered the whole band, because the Turks were still hunting for survivors. We traveled at night and hid in caves during the day, after wading for miles through streams to throw the pursuers off our tracks.

"A hurried conference among us decided that if we were to be saved, the little children would have to be killed. Without ceremony, some twenty-odd children were poisoned. I had to poison one of my children. When I refused to poison the other two, I was ostracized from the band and had to continue alone with my wife and two remaining children to reach the border, which we did after unbelievable hardships and privations.

"The thing I want to know is: Am I a murderer in the eyes of law and society or not?"

(Signature and address withheld.)

I stated, in my broadcast of his appeal, that I would appreciate it very much if a number of my listeners would mail me at once an answer to the question:

"Is this man guilty of murder, or was this a case of justifiable infanticide?"

15,000 Replies

About 15,000 replies have been received, analyzed and cataloged. Many of these letters came from judges, lawyers, doctors, ministers, college professors, college students, engineers, journalists, housewives—in fact, I cannot conceive of a more cosmopolitan symposium than we have obtained in this matter.

Here are some figures which interest me very much and, I think, will be interesting to the readers of this column: for every 100 persons who considered this man a wilful murderer, there were 975 who declared his action justifiable.

Fifty-six replies came from judges, 28 of which were for acquittal; 28 pronounced him guilty.

One hundred and nine letters from attorneys were divided; 58 for acquittal; 51 guilty.

One hundred and thirty-four ministers sent in replies, of which number 93 said guilty; 41 justifiable infanticide.

Of the 58 physicians who replied, 51 were for acquittal and only seven pronounced him guilty.

The women (whose letters numbered almost 10,000), were far more unanimous than any group of men except the psychiatrists. Their vote stood ten-and-a-quarter to one for acquittal.

Seibel Discusses Henry Irving

George Seibel, Sun-Telegraph literary and dramatic critic who on August 13 will broadcast a 25-minute address in German from the World's Fair to Germany, speaks on "Henry Irving and 'The Merchant of Venice'" during his weekly "Great Actors and Great Plays" broadcast over WCAE at 7 tonight.

Going on the air direct from the editorial rooms, Louis L. Kaufman, Globe-Trotter of the Sun-Telegraph and Hearst Metrotone News, flashes the latest bulletins over WCAE-WJAS daily at 9:05 a. m., 12:15 p. m., 2:15 p. m. and 6:30 p. m.

Globe-Trotting

—By LOUIS L. KAUFMAN—

Hello Ladies and Gentlemen:

At the urgent insistence of the members of the family, we mention that Mrs. Fred Drake makes good lemon pies. In fact her husband and sons claim that her pies are, oh, so good. I'm all for a contest if I can be judge.

Evidently two out of three buddies, who served three years together in the army are planning a reunion. The third one is missing. His name is Russel D. Clark, A Company, 23rd Infantry. Frank Storar, of Baden, Pa., and Roy Wineland, of McKeesport, write that Russel was one of the best buddies a man ever had. They'd like to hear from him.

Johnny Jones, the enterprising dance man, is buying a ring, furniture and looking up a preacher. For himself? Oh, no. For the south of the river couple who will get married at the "South Side Day Basket Picnic and Outing," on August 16.

Johnny reasons out that there can be no wedding without a bride and groom and asks the globe trotter to find the couple.

This is Cupid broadcasting.

Anna Day, of Verona—Nice picture you took, Anna, but not big enough to print well in the paper. Thanks, though.

Betty Whisner, of Verona, submits pictures of Popeye and Wimpy. The Trotter is no judge of art, Betty, but they look okay to me.

"A FREAK REDUCING FAD ALMOST RUINED MY HEALTH"

I looked perfectly ghastly..
I was dieting, following one of those freak reducing fads. True, I was losing weight, but at what a price! My color was sallow; my skin drawn and lifeless. I was on the verge of a complete breakdown. With dizzy spells, heart palpitation, energy gone, I was headed for a serious collapse..

Until I met Mary..
My husband's sister, a graduate nurse, told me I was crazy. "Dieting," she said, "doesn't mean starving yourself to death. Calories make weight. Be sensible and substitute Welch's Pasteurized Grape Juice for high calory foods. Then you'll lose weight, but keep healthy."

I couldn't believe her..
"But Welch's Grape Juice is sweet and sweets are fattening," I said. "Not always," she replied. "Welch's simple grape sugars are quickly absorbed and used, and hence not stored as fat. Besides, its potassium tends to remove unnecessary water from the body's tissue."

Just look at me now..
I bought Welch's, drank it freely. Following the Welch Way to Weight Control was simple and easy. I lost pound after pound and never felt better in my life. Today my weight is normal, my figure girlishly slender. Why don't you try the "Welch Way to Weight Control" too?

the Welch way to weight control

The Welch Way is quite the most pleasant reducing method known. Physicians endorse it because Welch's satisfies that craving for sweets and rich fattening foods. Taken in connection with proper diet, fat disappears, energy increases. People everywhere report that the Welch Way to Weight Control has made them more vigorous and alert than they had felt in years.

Start right in today. Get a bottle of Welch's from your dealer; drink a glass before breakfast, once or twice during the day, and before retiring. Because of its purity, Welch's may be diluted with one-third water, and many prefer it so. Continue—and in a few days you will experience the wonderful difference.

IMPORTANT: Be sure to insist on Welch's, because it is the Welch Process that retains in the bottled juice the healthful properties of ripe grapes so essential to the system. Only Welch's is Certified-Pure and Pasteurized. It contains no adulterants, no synthetic flavors, no artificial coloring, no preservatives, no water, and above all, no tartaric acid. Lowest price in 35 years.

FREE! Mail coupon for booklet "Keeping Your Weight Down." It gives full particulars of the Welch Way to Weight Control, tells you how to reduce healthfully, delightfully.

Parents: Mail coupon for booklet "Red Blooded Children." It tells how Welch's helps amazingly to restore rosy cheeks and buoyant energy to run down anemic children.

TELL IT TO ELSIE -:- -:- Follow This Unusual Feature Day by Day -:- -:- By ELSIE ROBINSON

Men Long for Carefree Days Of Their Youth

Suppose you'd been happily married for two wonderful years—

Certain that your love would last forever—radiantly sure of your man—

And then back into his life came his childhood sweetheart—and his school day romance revived—

What would you do about it?

Babine would like to know.

Dear Miss Robinson:

I am hoping that you can help me. Honestly, I am just about crazy. I don't know what to do.

I have been married for nearly two years to the most wonderful man in the world. I have every reason to be happy, I suppose, but I am not.

You see, before we were married Bob told me that he had been in love with a girl in his home town ever since he could remember, but on account of their difference in religion his mother objected to the marriage, and he didn't want to displease her.

He told me then that he loved me, but that he could never feel just the same toward me as he does toward the other girl. Well, last October his mother died. We went down to his home town in Georgia and I met Joan, and I must admit that she is about the sweetest girl I ever met.

I overheard Bob's sister ask her why she had never married. She replied, "I have loved Bob ever since I can remember. He used to fight for me when I was a kid, and somehow he is the only man who comes up to my expectations. I find myself comparing all the boys I meet to him. There is something missing in all of them. It's no use. I'll never love anyone but him."

DOES NOT COMPLAIN

Bob has not made one word of complaint. He wouldn't. But he hasn't been the same since we've been home. He tries to be his old self, but I know Joan is enshrined in his heart. He talks of her in his sleep.

And what hurts most of all is that he is crazy about children—and I can never have any. If there were only something I could do for him! I do love him so! I love him better than anything on earth.

Should I give him his liberty? Let him go back and marry Joan, and have the son he wants? I know he would never ask for his freedom. But should I step out and let him go? My mind is in such a turmoil I don't know what to do. Please help me.

BABINE.

Yes I know, my dear, how bewildered and heartsick you must be. But before you get too tragic about all this, let me tell you a secret.

Every man carries a dream love in his heart.

He thinks it's a dream of the girl he first loved. But it isn't. It's a dream of a youth—and of all the wonder and glamor and eager young curiosity that went with his youth.

It's also a dream of carefree days before he had any responsibility; before he had to meet the cruel competition and criticism of a crowded world. And, oh, how he wishes those days were back again! How wistfully he thinks of that lost ease and sweetness!

So, whenever he can, he brings those days back. In his secret thoughts; in his discontented comparisons with the things of Today; even in his sleep.

DON'T GIVE UP

And all the time he believes he's mourning and longing for his Lost Girl. Whereas, he's really longing to be a lazy, happy kid again, and rebelling because he has to grow up.

Why does a man so often seem to turn against the wife he really loves and reach for the girl who has gone? That's why—because the wife represents the difficult Today, and the Dream Girl represents the safe, sweet Yesterdays.

So think of all that before you decide that your home is wrecked and map out your course accordingly, my dear. It's really glamor he wants. Then give it to him. Stop grieving and brooding. Let him nurse his Secret Sorrow if he must; but do all you can to make your marriage a shining adventure. And don't give up until you have done that.

As for that little son he wants—there are scores of grand little chaps who are looking for a Dad, and who'll fill your home with love and laughter as surely as if he were your own. Why not have one waiting for your husband some night when he comes home?

And if all that doesn't hold your man? Don't cross that bridge until you come to it, child. Play the other hunch first.

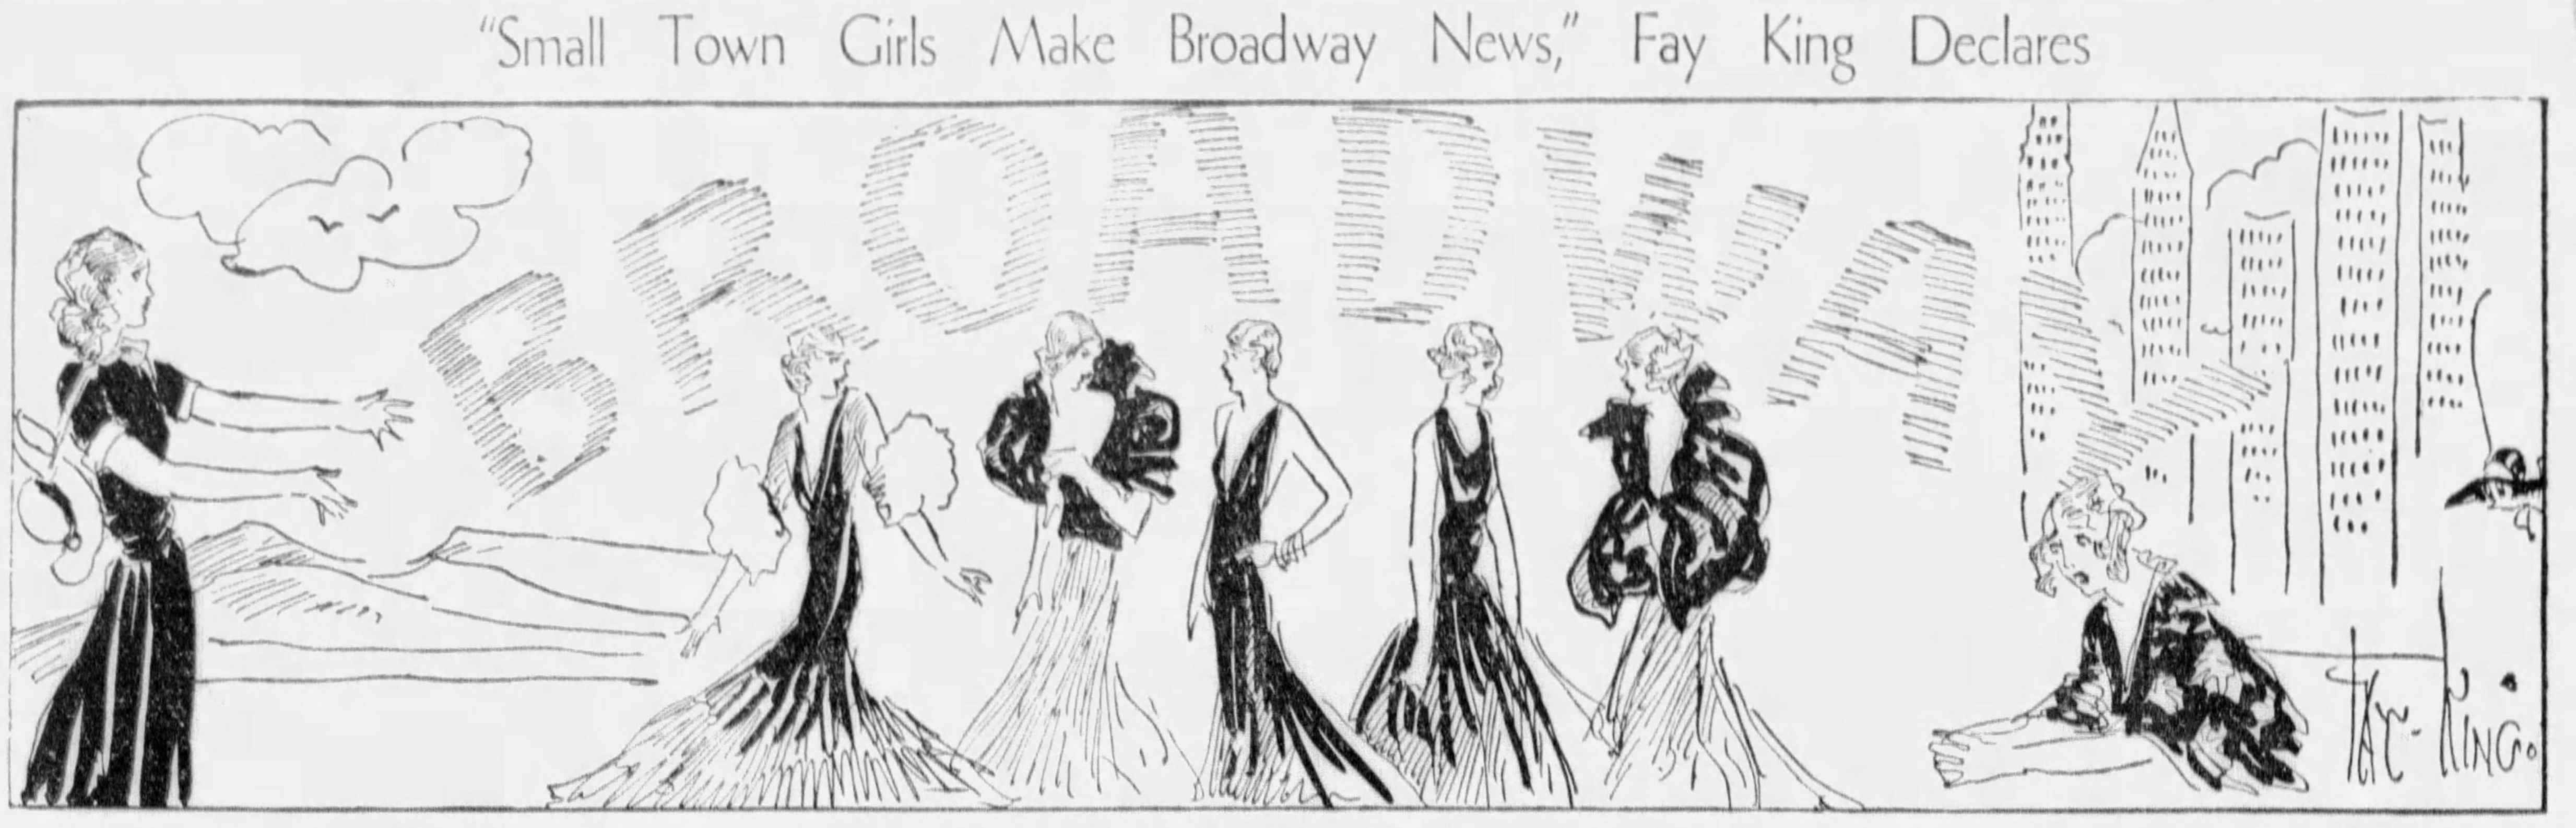
"Small Town Girls Make Broadway News," Fay King Declares



By FAY KING

Another beautiful Broadway girl went back to her little home town—in a coffin.

She was only 22. In her room they found 5 cents, an ermine wrap, smart gowns and a bank book with $30 balance.

There was publicity about her departure because she had jumped from her hotel window.

She left heartbroken letters telling of drink, and an affair with a married man who had tired of her.

Countless other Broadway girls have slipped quietly away, back to home towns, broken in health and spirit. How quickly these beautiful village belles learn their Broadway.

Yet thousands of gorgeous girls, born and raised in New York City, have not the slightest ambition for Broadway.

Small town girls make Broadway news!

Woman's Insolence Leaves Madge on Verge of Collapse

"I'll give him your message," I said composedly, in answer to the request of the mysterious "Floss" that the "Dicky-bird" be told that she had called. But my calmness extended only to my voice, and to my horror I found my hands trembling as I put up the little French telephone, after I had heard the click telling me that "Floss" had hung up her receiver.

If anyone else save Lillian had been in the room my chagrin and humiliation at thus betraying my agitation over the message to my husband would have been unbearable, but this more-than-sister to me and life-long friend of Dicky's is set apart from all other persons, where confidences are concerned.

Dicky owes her so great a debt of gratitude for a sacrifice she once made for him in his boyhood that he never can repay it, and he listens attentively to her counsel and obeys her with alacrity when, once in a blue moon, she gives advice or exercises authority; while for myself, she knows all my actions and reactions, but, characteristically, never forces nor anticipates a confidence.

Her sympathy, her understanding, were like warm wrappings swathing me, but she said nothing until I turned to her and said with a voice that I had to force to quiet composure:

LILLIAN INTERESTED

"It's a person who answers to the name of 'Floss,' and who appears to feel that she has cause for complaint because 'the Dicky-bird,' as she calls him, has been 'holding out on her' about his being a married man."

I tried to keep my voice light and mocking, even essayed a laugh at the end of my little speech, but to my horror it was only a nervous cackle, and I felt myself shaking all over as with a chill.

"Steady, girl" Lillian's voice came to me as if she were far away. Then I felt her arms go round me for an instant's warm assurance of her nearness, her readiness to help me. The next second she crossed to the door leading to the rest of the suite and locked it.

"The members of this family knock and then barge in, imagining they've heard 'Come in,' she said. We'll just make sure of a little privacy. Now, tell me about this 'Floss' broadcast. I'm interested, and I only got one end of the telephone conversation. She asked for Dicky. She calls him the 'Dicky-bird.' She asked if you were his mother. She was astonished and sore when you told her you were his wife. That much I gathered. What's the rest?"

"Nothing much. You have practically everything. But she was so insolent! Her voice is so—so common, and there was such an air of authority, of possessiveness about her! Oh, Lillian, what does it mean? A girl of that common, vulgar type with the right to speak of Dicky in the way she did, and he denying his marriage! Oh, I can't bear it!"

WAITS FOR ADVICE

"Whoa!" Lillian imitated an excited teamster to the life. "Hold everything! How do you know that Dicky 'denied his marriage,' if you must put it thus melodramatically."

There was just enough mockery in her voice—premeditated, I knew—to prod me into sane composure.

"I'm sorry," I said. "I am over-emphasizing the thing, I know. But—"

"Don't talk about it!" she admonished. "Just let me tell you a few things for the good of your soul, in words of one syllable."

There was authority in her voice, but there was something else, I thought—or was it only fancy, borne of nerves?—a hint of secret uneasiness. Suddenly a conviction forced itself into my consciousness. This "Floss" person was not wholly unknown to Lillian. She had seen her, or heard of her, in connection with Dicky!

But I could not speak this thought aloud. That would be unthinkably crass. So I caught back the hysterical question upon my lips and looked at Lillian attentively, waiting for the sapient counsel I knew she meant to give me. But my heart was crying, "Who is 'Floss'?"

Immediate Operation Only Cure for Glioma

Dr. Copeland

Recently nation-wide interest was aroused by the story of 2-year-old Helen Vasko. This child was the victim of a disease called "glioma," a malignant tumor of the eye. The parents of the child hesitated to allow the surgeons to operate. They feared she would not survive the operation and it was their belief that the malady might be cured without an operation.

But they were told the child's life was doomed if operation was delayed. I am glad to say that consent was finally given and little Helen is now comfortably convalescing. The operation was successfully performed and there is every reason to believe the life of the child has been saved.

Glioma is rarely seen in adults, almost always appearing in infancy and early childhood. The tumor involves the retina of the eye and grows rapidly. In its growth it spreads to the brain along the course of the optic nerve. The opposite eye may become affected.

The tumor is of the malignant variety. It grows rapidly and like true cancer, may find its way to remote parts of the body. Little hope for cure can be held when the optic nerve is seriously involved, even when surgery is applied.

It is for this reason that early recognition of the disease and early removal of the afflicted eye is imperative. When recognized in its early stages and proper surgical measures are taken the life of the victim can be saved. If overlooked or neglected, the afflicted eye is soon destroyed, the tumor rapidly spreads and the disease is then beyond the control of the surgeon.

The operation consists of prompt and complete enucleation, or removal of the eyeball. Of course, this is a drastic operation, but it is the only means of saving the life of the young sufferer.

After removal of the eye, the child is fitted with an artificial eye. This may be so perfect that it is often difficult to distinguish the normal eye from the artificial one.

I can appreciate and well understand the hesitancy of a mother who is asked to give permission for this operation. I hope it may never be necessary for the reader to make this decision. But if you are confronted with this problem there is only one decision to make.

Immediate operation will save the vision of the normal eye. It will permit normal growth and development of the child and prevent ultimate misery and anguish. This statement is borne out by many letters sent to Mrs. Vasko from mothers whose children had been afflicted in a similar manner.

Answers to Health Queries

E. J. S. Q.—What do you advise for blackheads? 2: I am 14, 5 feet 1 inch tall, how much should I weigh?

A.—Diet and elimination are important in the correction of this disorder. Send self-addressed, stamped envelope for further particulars and repeat your question. 2: You should weigh about 108 pounds. This is about the average weight for one of your age and height as determined by examination of a large number of persons. A few pounds above or below the average is a matter of little or no significance.

G. A. L. Q.—What do you advise for constipation?

A.—Proper diet is essential. Get plenty of outdoor exercise. Send self-addressed, stamped envelope for further particulars and repeat your question.

Contract Bridge -:- HOW TO PLAY and HOW TO WIN

By JOSEPHINE CULBERTSON

Trouble in the Balkans

European statesmen and European journalists in days when things were quiet along the frontiers of France and Germany and other Western European countries, used to scan the eastern horizon with anxious eyes, anticipating "trouble in the Balkans." It was in the Balkans that the spark which set the world aflame in the World War was fanned into conflagration.

If the Balkans are still regarded as a storm center, their people seem little affected by it. They, like people elsewhere in the world, are turning their minds and leisure time to the play of Contract Bridge, and according to information I have received, the Balkans have developed some very fine Bridge players.

Recently a match was held between players representing the cities of Zagreb and Belgrade, Jugoslavia. One of the most interesting hands was the following which was played by Mr. W. V. Marsano, of Zagreb, at a contract of six notrump. Other teams reached the contract of six clubs but failed to make it.

North, Dealer

Both sides vulnerable

♠ K 10 9
♡ Q 10 9 6
◇ 10 9 7 4 3

Mr. Marsano

♠ A Q
♡ J 8 5 2
◇ K Q J
♣ A J 10 6

North
West East
South

♠ J 6
♡ A K 4
◇ A 8 5
♣ Q 8 7 5 2

♠ 8 7 5 4 3 2
♣ K 9 4

Against Mr. Marsano the Opening lead was the fourth-best spade and the hand was made through first playing the Ace of spades on the first trick, finessing clubs and, this having been successfully accomplished, stripping the North hand of diamonds and forcing him to lead away from the heart Queen. This was the plan of play followed by M. Marsano, which would have been equally effective at the contract of six clubs. The chance of the spade finesse winning the first round is too remote to justify taking it, as it is quite apparent that barring the most exceptional luck, at least 1 trick must be lost in some other suit later.

It will be noted that after the finesse succeeds, North's plays are practically forced. He must retain the spade King and three hearts; hence he is forced to part with his long diamonds.

TODAY'S QUESTION

North-South are vulnerable; East-West are not vulnerable.

The bidding

West	North	East	South
Pass	Pass	Pass	1 ♠

You, East, hold:

♠ 5 ♡ A 7 6 3 ◇ Q J 6 4 ♣ 10 9 5 3

What do you bid?

Answer: Five diamonds. You are not vulnerable and your opponents are; therefore, if you allow them to make their four-spade contract, they will win a 700 rubber. It is certainly worth a set of 450 points to prevent them from making this rubber. Even though your partner has overcalled at only two diamonds, you have the strength and distribution to almost guarantee his not being set more than 3 tricks at five diamonds. In addition, although your hand offers very little hope of defeating four spades, you may conceivably push the opponents to five and defeat them at that contract. A sacrifice looks very inviting with your 4-4-4-1 distribution.

Household Hints

Sandwiches with melted cheese and a dash of cayenne pepper have a zestful quality.

Grease stains on leather may be removed by applying the white of an egg. Dab lightly on the stains and allow to dry in the sun.

Use a stiff brush every week to clean over-stuffed furniture or reed and rattan furniture. Draperies and other hangings should be similarly brushed.

Correct Manners

By Mrs. Cornelius Beeckman

The Gentleman Assists

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

A contends that a gentleman does not offer to help a lady on or off a street car if she is able to help herself. B claims a gentleman will help a lady and will also offer his arm to her when crossing a street.

M. D.

B is right about this.

Mother's Invitation

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Is it proper for a young lady to ask her young man friend to her home for dinner, or should the girl's mother invite the young man?

B.

The girl may properly suggest the invitation first, but the girl's mother should follow up this indirect invitation by a direct one from herself, the hostess of the home. A short note of invitation, or a telephoned invitation, if the mother knows the young man, is the way to do it. This sort of social gesture is very important to a girl . . . gives her a background of breeding and politeness.

TYPHUS RAGES IN MOSCOW

THE HAGUE, July 11.—(AP.)—Reports from Moscow today said the red capital is suffering from an epidemic of typhus of alarming proportions for this time of the year.

Official health statistics were said to have been withheld, but foreigners in Moscow were quoted as saying there were hundreds of cases and that there have been many deaths.

Hospitals were described as being so crowded with victims of the disease that they now have room only for the most serious cases, while the supply of camphor, with which typhus is treated, is running low.

Typhus is usually prevalent in Russia during cold weather, but rarely breaks out in the warmer months. It is caused by the bite of lice, producing poison which attacks the blood stream.

COURT UPSETS BEER RULING

GREENSBURG, Pa., July 11.—Judge C. E. Whitten ruled that James E. Cheris residing in Parks Township, Armstrong County, but in business in Vandergrift for 14 years was entitled to a beer license, as he was a "resident" of Westmoreland County under the meaning of the beverage act. The county treasurer had refused to grant a license. Anyone who is "habitually present," in a community for one year may obtain a permit, the court held.

Tardy Applicant Refused in Beaver

BEAVER, Pa., July 11.—a decision of County Treasurer Frank R. Holt refusing to grant a beer license, applied for June 13, was upheld in an opinion by Judge Frank E. Reader. Harry Karas, Ambridge, sought the license and appealed from the decision of the Treasurer. Judge Reader said:

> "Provisions of the act are so specific and unmistakable that construction by the court is not necessary."

Feet Hurt Him, Man Pulls Fire Alarm

Because Edward Stoltz, 37, of 3424 Spring way, had trouble with his feet early today he wanted service, he told police after he had been arrested for pulling a fire alarm box in Lawrenceville.

Previously he tried to arouse a watchman in an industrial plant in the neighborhood and then rapped on several doors.

'Spot' Victim Dies, 3 in Car Hunted

CONNEAUT, O., July 11.—(AP.)—Three men riding in a large sedan are wanted for the murder of Emil Notti, 40, who died early today of a shotgun wound in his side.

Police said the trio shot him and then sped off in their car.

MURDERS BRIDE, SHOOTS SELF

CHICAGO, July 11.—(AP.)—A husband shot and killed his 19-year-old bride of five weeks, wounded his brother and fired a bullet into his own head today as the tragic climax of domestic quarrels dating back to his wedding day.

The victim was Mrs. Edward Officer. The slaying occurred after her husband, age 26, a postal clerk, returned home and struck her with an iron bar. He dragged her into the hallway of their apartment and fired a shot into her face.

The brother told police Edward cer, 30, attempted to interfere and Edward shot him in the back. Then the husband went to the street in front of the apartment and attempted to end his own life. Physicians say he probably will die.

Things I Never Knew About Hollywood

(Until the Peasants Told Me)

That there is no such place as Hollywood, California! Hollywood is a pet name for a sector in Los Angeles, and it has no government or post office or anything but actors.

That there is a Los Angeles River here, but there isn't any water in it! (Yet there are bridges over it!)

That all the palm trees in California are imported.

That in Los Angeles there are six all-night movie theaters—and you can see features for a nickel! (Old ones you dope!)

That the safest place during an earthquake, they caution you, is standing in your doorway—if it's on a street level.

That there are no one-way streets here, and the first car to any corner has the right o'way. (Suicide-dizzy!)

That there are two cashiers at the Vendome, on Sunset boulevard, who are lovelier than the stars who dine there!

That the best oranges are shipped to the East. At least that's what you hear after you squawk about the sour ones you get.

That if you drink tequilla (Mexican laughing soup) and you drink water the next morning, you get drunk all over again.

That though it is legal—it is against the law to sell Indians 3.2 beer. (Will Rogers says it's because the Govinnmint don't want to take 'em off whisky—too quick!)

That the sun out here bleaches everything—which is why most of the houses are painted white.

That a driver's license costs nothing. (Any size car or truck license, incidentally, costs only $3.)

That in the five weeks I've been in Los Angeles—I've encountered only one mendicant. (Panhandler, to you!)

That the gas station attendants polish your windshields, fill your gas and water tanks, look over the car and make themselves useful—yet they won't accept your tip! (They sell service, they're not lackeys!)

That the movie studios have to build their own electric generating plants. The city cannot generate enough light to supply the need of the various studios, which waste more than they use.

That the largest out-of-town newsstand in the world is in Los Angeles—it is almost half a block long!

That on the Fox lot they've built a copy of a transatlantic liner, and everytime you see one in a picture—you see the same boat, with different names on the life preservers. (It attracts seagulls!)

That Fox rents it to other studios at $1,500 daily.

That Sam Goldwyn has the best "New York Street Scene" of them all—which is rented to rivals at fancy fees.

That now they can take your moving picture walking down any foreign street while you're in Hollywood! (Via painted glass.)

That most of the dignity, the real stuff, not the phony, is to be found only among the Japs and Chinese here.

That you can rent a lovely home (in Beverly Hills, the residential sector) with a swimming pool, trees, shrubbery, statues (and with a gardener!) for less than it costs you a month for a room and a bath at any moderate-priced hotel in New York City. (No foolin'!)

That a man seeking justice has rented a long stretch of land on a street here to erect signs urging Mooney's freedom.

That those air crashes you see on the screen are not real planes cracking up. You see a real plane now and then to keep you fooled, but the crashes are made by toy airplanes which travel on the ground—and are wrecked only after coming in contact with a planted toothpick.

That you are not allowed to bring fruit into the state.

That the sheriffs along the way between Chicago and the far west won't permit hoboes to get off in their town. Los Angeles isn't that fussy, it lets them dump here—but I haven't seen one yet.

That they mustn't put a hobo off a train at any spot in America where there is no water.

That when Mae West first arrived in Hollywood the town buzzed with how she would certainly fail. If not that, she surely would be jailed, "she was so tough." (Mae has broken not only the commandments, but all the recent boxoffice records, and is the "money" thing in flickers!)

That George Bancroft once walked off the set while making a newspaper story because he feared making the press sore at him.

That when Charles Ray was a star and all his flickers were hits (before he tried his own direction) a man named Jerome Storm directed them and was ace man in his time. (Then he became property man for Hal Roach).

That in Los Angeles the late afternoon papers give you more baseball results than the bulldog editions of the A. M. papers!

And that Hollywood's real name was Gardener Junction!

McCormacks On Way To See Daughter Wed

BALBOA, Canal Zone, July 11.—(AP.)—John McCormack, the Irish tenor, accompanied by his wife, arrived yesterday aboard the steamship California en route to New York and London.

They said they were going to London to attend the wedding of their daughter, sailing on the steamship Majestic from New York.

Enrollment Drops In Summer Schools

A drop of 1,345 from the last year's enrollments for summer courses in seven Pittsburgh public schools was reported yesterday by W. D. McCoy, statistician of the board of education. The enrollments total 6,140, with the Bellefield Trade School showing the only increase.

Arliss Again To Portray Idler

By HARRISON CARROLL

HOLLYWOOD, July 11.—The first George Arliss picture for Twentieth Century will not be "Rothschild" but a modern story about a millionaire, who attacks the problem of unemployment.

Mr. Arliss

This was decided yesterday, when Darryl Zanuck ordered that the scenario of "Red Tape," written by Sam Mintz and Maude T. Howell, be sent to England for Arliss' approval. As a result of his work on this story, Mintz also was put under long-term contract and assigned to work on the scenario of "Rochschild."

Arliss' role in his new vehicle again will be that of a rich idler. It is only when he comes into actual contact with the tragedy of unemployment that he goes to work to improve conditions.

As matters stand now, the English actor will not return to Hollywood until September. His contract with the Schenck-Zanuck Company calls for two pictures a year, and he hopes to complete both of them by the end of December.

Lynn Farnol, publicity man for Samuel Goldwyn, has rented an imposing house in Hollywood—so imposing in fact that a star might well be satisfied to occupy it.

The other night he was giving a dinner for some of his friends, including Ed Finney, a United Artists representative from New York.

Finney took in the massive dining-room set, the spotless linen, the shining silver.

"By the way, Lynn," he said, "Do you have the whole house?"

An epidemic of rumors has bobbed up about Clark Gable. Each one grows wilder: "He was seriously injured while training for the boxing picture"—"it will be months before he returns to the screen." For the comfort of Gable fans, Clark played 18 holes of golf a week ago. And he is improving steadily.

Mr. Gable

The place Ann Harding disappears to over week-ends is a cabin hideout up above the old Noah Beery trout farm . . . Boyish Katharine Hepburn swings a golf club to the tune of the low 80s . . . Add Marie Dressler to the stars who have taken beach places. Ignoring Malibu and its social life, Marie has taken a small cottage at Playa Del Rey. Fay Wray and John Monk Saunders are her neighbors.

Lola Lane is not mourning. She was dancing to Abe Lyman's music the other night with Bill Cagney . . . Saw Dorothy Lee with her aviator, Dick Kropss, at the same spot.

They're to make a picture called "Sweetheart of Sigma Chi." Scenes of the college crew races here will be incorporated in it . . . LORETTA YOUNG IS THE FEMININE LEAD IN 'MIDNIGHT MARY'

Plays and Players :: By WILLIAM J. LEWIS

Summer evidently is the time for playwrights to approach the Theater Guild, which recently has acquired title to "The Purple Testament," by John Haynes Holmes and Reginald Lawrence; "No Good End," by William Judson, Jr.; "Gentlewoman," by John Howard Lawson; "Jig Saw," by Dawn Powell; "They Shall Not Die," by John Wexley, and "We Forgive Our Debtors," by Tillman Breiseth.

Alexander Hall, a movie director, dispels the general idea that there is a clash of temperament when many stars are in one picture cast, citing "Grand Hotel," "State Fair" and "If I Had a Million" as multiple-star casts in which there was harmony instead of discord. In the latter picture there were not only a number of prominent players, but seven directors, each of whom had a hand in working out the completed film.

When Ed Wynn arrives in Hollywood, as he is expected to do some time this month, to begin a picture there, it will be his first movie experience in the film capital. His only pictures, 'Rubber Heels" and "Follow the Leader," were made in the East. Ed expects to embody in his coming film some of the ideas he has found popular on the air.

Norman Foster, Richmond, Ind., boy who studied art and drama at Carnegie Tech, toured much of the world on a tramp schooner, accompanied by his wife, Claudette Colbert, and Covarrubias, the caricature artist . . . "John Ferguson," by St. John Ervine, second play produced by the Theater Guild, was revived in New York last night . . . Charles Laughton has returned from London to play opposite Dorothea Wieck in her first American film, "White Woman" . . . A new version of "Ruy Blas," by Brian Hooker, will head Walter Hampden's repertoire next season, two other plays in it to be "Hamlet" and "Othello."

Written With Champagne, 'The Second Man' Is Sparkling

By GEORGE SEIBEL

Just as smooth and happy an unprofessional performance as has ever been given in Pittsburgh or Fox Chapel was seen last night when the Summer Playhouse put on S. N. Behrman's comedy, "The Second Man," in the Shady Side Academy Theater. It is one of those plays that deal playfully with serious passions, and though there is a revolver in the third act no one is even grazed by the bullet. The epigrams fly much faster and nearly always hit the mark. The marksmen and markswomen last night made a nearly perfect score.

Both Polly Rowles and Dorothy Devlin gave delightfully credible portrayals of women in love. That they were in love with the same man, and for no very good reason, did not impair the delight nor the credibility.

Mr. Seibel

Perhaps the blank dismay of Miss Devlin when the man is reading Bertrand Russell to her, perhaps the joyous tolerance of Miss Rowles at the piano, perhaps the personal charm and natural diction of both combined, made the problem of the man seem a real problem. The critic afflicted with masculine susceptibility would be just as loth to decide as Clarke Storey, played by Robert Gill with fluent flippancy.

Perhaps a little too fluent—that is the only fault to be found with this performance. The players, especially Robert Gill, are so spontaneous that one asks whether people can be so infernally clever without ever a pause to think.

A little hesitation here and there might help the illusion that these people are real, that they had not learned these lines and knew beforehand what they were going to say. Henry Patterson as the chemist came nearest to convincing realism in this respect—one felt sorry for his tongue-tied sincerity.

But why cavil at a performance so smooth and happy—so well staged and so professional in its whole atmosphere? Author Behrman would have been proud of his pretty comedy if he could have been there.

"The Second Man"—the title refers to the man "inside" of the slightly caddish hero—is one of those things written with champagne for ink. There is a great deal of verbal ping-pong and literary passion as Monica tries to catch a literary husband instead of her scientific adorer.

If her lie at the close of the second act is believed too implicitly, and if the characters come back too conveniently in the third act, that is overlooked in the effervescent humor of the whole thing. Directed by Chester M. Wallace with admirable artistry, it required merely a touch of unpremeditation to make it an undiluted joy.

All in a Day

By Mark Hellinger

The Chump.

THE CLOCK pointed to four o'clock. The last patron had just let the small gambling room. "Old Man" Swift, proprietor of the establishment, motioned to his manager.

"Walk down to my room with me, Max," he said, "I want to have a little talk with you."

The two men walked through the narrow corridor and entered the boss's private room. Max flung himself into a chair and yawned mightily. "Old Man" Swift produced a bottle of his special rye and poured two drinks. He raised his glass.

"Good luck, Max," he said.

"Good luck, boss," said Max.

They both drank. Swift put down his glass, sat himself in another chair and smiled at his manager. The latter man regarded him curiously.

"What's up, boss?" he asked. "Something on your mind?"

Swift nodded.

"Yes, Max, there is. Let me see. You've been with me now about five years—and all you know about me is the fact that I pay you your salary for managing my little gambling room. Is that correct?"

The manager shook his head.

"Not quite, boss," he replied. "I know more than that. I know that you're square and decent and honest, and that you're the best boss I've ever worked for."

Swift reached out and tapped the other man's knee.

"Good of you to say that, Max. Swell. Especially in view of the fact that I have paid you your last salary."

Max straightened with a start.

"What's that?" he cried. "You mean—you mean I'm fired?"

Swift grinned.

"In a way, Max. You're not working for me any longer. I suppose that, in that direction, you are fired. But, in another direction, you are far better off. Because you are now working for yourself. I am giving you this place as a present. From the moment I leave this morning you are the new owner."

The other man blinked in amazement.

"Am I going crazy, boss? I—I don't understand."

Swift said nothing more for a moment. He reached out, poured two more drinks, raised his glass in a silent toast—and both men drank. Then...

"Max," said Swift, "I was never cut out for this kind of work. It was more of an accident than anything else that drove me into it. Perhaps you might say that I got into it because I'm such a chump. Because that's what I am, Max—a chump. Always was, and always will be.

"No, wait a minute. Pour another drink if you want it, but let me keep talking. I'm giving you this place, and the least you can do is to listen to the story that goes with it.

"About 10 years ago, when I was 45, I was the proud possessor of some $25,000 in cash. I hadn't found any of this money and I certainly hadn't inherited it. As a matter of fact I had worked doggone hard to earn it. But the game was worth the candle. The cash, coupled with a few lucky investments, left me sitting in a pretty sweet spot."

He paused to light a cigaret. Max leaned forward, intensely interested.

"I met two friends," Swift went on. "No use going into details about how I met them. Enough to tell you that they seemed to be regular fellows and that we got along fine together. I hadn't played much in my life, and they seemed to know all the ropes. They took me to spots that I never knew existed. And I thought I was having a grand time.

"After a few weeks, the three of us moved into one apartment. One of my pals bought a roulette wheel and, while I didn't like the idea at first, I soon grew accustomed to it. A number of friends would come up to play, and there was always a party of some sort going on. You can imagine what that meant to a chump like me.

"Well, it was the old, old story. It wasn't long before I was playing the wheel myself for small sums. I won steadily. But when my bets grew larger, I began to lose Then I plunged. And inside of two weeks—aside from a few hundred dollars—I was broke.

"Broke. Imagine what that meant at my age. All the dough it had taken me so long to earn was gone in less than fourteen days.

"I can tell you, Max that I was heartbroken. I had planned to play for the rest of my days—and now I only had enough left for my immediate needs. You don't know what that meant, Max, and I hope you'll never know.

"My two 'friends' of course, disappeared as soon as I told them all my money was gone. But I wasn't suspicious. I was chump enough to believe that I had simply been unlucky, and that my friends had merely gone away for a short vacation.

"I didn't know I had been cheated until an old pal of mine examined the roulette wheel a few days later. And he told me then that, even though the wheel was crooked, the crooks could have taken me over without going to that trouble. The wheel, he explained patiently to me, always gives the banker 7 per cent the best of it. And all they had to do was to chisel along and take 7 per cent of my big bets until I was broke.

"What, what could I do? I couldn't call the police because I was probably just as guilty as the others. So I began to figure things out.

"Why not get a roulette wheel of my own? That 7 per cent angle sounded like a good business proposition. In fact, I knew of nothing better. I was fortunate enough to be able to borrow enough money to open a little place of my own, and it wasn't long before I was making money. No fortunes, of course, but enough to keep going.

"Within five years, I was making enough to hire a manager. You came along — and you brought me luck by the carload. I have plenty of dough now; enough to last me in comfort until I die. And all because I was such a chump in the first place.

"And that's all there is to it, Max. You've worked hard, and I appreciate it. So the place is yours from top to bottom, and I wish you all the luck in the world."

Max said he understood. He thanked Swift in a thousand different directions. But he was vehement in his denial of one statement that Swift had made.

"You're not a chump, boss," he cried. "You've got to stop saying that. No chump could make the money you've made."

"Old Man" Swift leaned back in his chair. He smiled softly.

"That's where you're wrong, Max," he murmured, "and I see that I'll have to prove it to you.

"That wheel inside is the same one that cost me all my money 10 years ago. And, chump that I am, I've never been able to get it to run honestly!"...

FORTUNE FINDS GOLD HUNTER

ROMEO, Mich., July 11.—(AP.)—All of the time that J. W. Fowler was prospecting for gold in Mexico, California and Canada, a New York law firm was seeking him with word of a legacy from the estate of his mother.

Age and approaching blindness finally forced Fowler, now 73, to give up his search and the legacy, worth $15,000, has caught up with him.

Now Fowler intends to resume his prospecting for gold. He said:

"I know of a wonderful mining country in Canada where a man can make a fortune. I'm going to have my eyes taken care of and I'm going there."

ELLIOTT'S WIFE TO REPLY

RENO, Nev., July 11.—(INS.)—While the time, place, and method of the Elliott Roosevelt divorce remain more or less a secret, it was learned today from reliable sources that Mrs. Elizabeth Donner Roosevelt probably will file an answer and cross-complaint to the complaint of the son of the President, which is expected to be filed within the next week.

Should this procedure be adopted, Mrs. Roosevelt could take the decree without appearing personally, merely mailing her testimony in support of whatever charge is contained on her cross-complaint.

Young Roosevelt would only have to appear in court long enough to establish the fact that he has been a bona fide resident of Nevada for more than six weeks.

Attorney Samuel Platt, representing Roosevelt, has steadfastly declined to reveal any of the divorce plans, but has promised to outline the details on Wednesday.

MARKLE, RICH COAL MAN, DIES

NEW YORK, July 11.—(AP.)—John Markle, millionaire Pennsylvania anthracite operator who retired in 1927 to devote the rest of his life to philanthropy, died yesterday at the age of 74. He had been ill of heart trouble for five weeks.

Death came to the philanthropist in the enormous apartment on Fifth avenue which he occupied alone except for servants. The apartment, which cost $1,000,000 and includes two floors, has 18 servants' rooms, 24 baths, three kitchens, four elevators and 26 telephones.

Mrs. Markle, who was an invalid, died in 1927.

Markle's principal philanthropy was the John and Mary R. Markle Foundation, through which the Markle millions were dispensed for medical research, hospitals, welfare institutions, libraries and educational agencies.

The foundation financed a $500,000 hotel for working girls in Greenwich Village under the supervision of the Salvation Army which opened in 1930.

Markle was born in Milton, Pa., December 15, 1858, and graduated from Lafayette College as a mining engineer in 1880. He then entered the Jeddo Highland Coal Company founded by his father, George B. Markle.

The Markles had no children. Funeral plans are indefinite but burial will be here.

COUZENS MAY HEAD TREASURY

WASHINGTON, July 11.—(Universal)—Searching for a successor to Secretary of the Treasury Woodin, President Roosevelt is giving serious consideration to Senator James Couzens, independent Republican of Michigan.

This was learned as reports of the impending resignation of Woodin were revived on the eve of his return here after three weeks in New York undergoing treatment for a throat infection.

Woodin will relinquish the post in the fall, according to latest reports, because of ill health, although demand for his resignation started with the disclosure he was on J. P. Morgan's "favored list."

Couzens is in London as a member of the American delegation to the Economic Conference.

Harmony Seekers Get Setback

—By MARK SHIELDS—

Gentlemen seeking harmony behind a unified mayoralty candidate against Mayor John S. Herron, have been set back on their heels, pawing for air by the renewed declaration of Judge Frank P. Patterson that he would not run for the nomination.

Mr. Shields

The reincarnation of the Patterson boom springs from a restricted political area which for the past few weeks had been bent toward Register of Wills Joseph N. Mackrell. Indeed, it does not spread to the professionals and the hard-boiled of politics, who are still faithful to Mackrell.

It originates, rather, among some fair weather friends of the Register of Wills who have gotten buck fever because of the suit Joe Engelsberg, Hill district character, filed against Mackrell last week. These elements are anti-Coyne and anti-Herron, and their motto is any old port in a storm against a continuance of the existing administration.

As soon as Engelsberg sued Mackrell for an alleged debt growing out of Mackrell's 1921 mayoralty campaign, a suit which in itself is not regarded as much of a hurdle, except for the attachment of the name of Engelsberg, there was a hunt for an alternate. The first call was Patterson.

The judge himself appears to have closed that door. Last month he said with unqualified emphasis he would not consent to run, realizing that he was merely being made a vehicle, that he would be transferring his activity—if successful—to a field in which he was not interested from one in which his future is bound up.

Judge Abruptly Halts Attempt to Open Door

An attempt to open the door has been abruptly halted by the Judge's reiterated refusal to run. Yesterday he wired the Sun-Telegraph:

"I have no intention of reconsidering decision."

This succint message was in reply to a telegram from the writer outlining the new situation, including the Engelsberg suit, and asking if the Judge had revised an apparently irrevocable decision, passed along to the writer some weeks ago, and printed in this and other newspapers.

Pressure upon the Judge probably will continue. His yielding is doubtful. He has made up his mind. He has stated his inclinations. He has canvassed the whole situation. he has been apprised before this of the principles which those pressing him explain are involved. No new light could be given him.

Should he change now there might spring up a suspicion that the Judge had been actuated by politics solely, and there are few who believe that he could be so motivated. And another thing to be considered is that a change of mind after a decision so apparently unalterable might cause some voters to wonder the quality of the judge's firmness, a quality which heretofore has not been questioned.

Of the other anti-administration candidates so far mentioned, the only one who has indorsed the Patterson candidacy is Mr. Mackrell. Mr. Malone most patently did not do so. Neither did Mr. Witherow, and Mr. McArdle says he sees no reason why he should invite Judge Patterson to run, figuring he is a pretty fair candidate himself.

The present position of Mr. Mackrell is in contrast to his attitude when the Patterson candidacy was broached some weeks ago. At that time Mr. Witherow's friends intimated they would support the Judge could there be unity behind him. But Mr. Mackrell made no such declaration, having very much in mind at the time his own candidacy.

Indeed, it was this silence of Mr. Mackrell then, together with the interpretive opposition of Mr McArdle, which actuated Judge Patterson in determining not to be a candidate, at the same time asking his friends to support Mr. Mackrell.

Some Thought Might Be Given Voters

The Citizens' Committee group which had been dickering with Judge Patterson did not adopt Mr. Mackrell, though one of the leaders had a conference with him. The Citizens' Committee began to center its support on Mr. Witherow and is doing so today.

The present cry for Judge Patterson is a cry born out of panic and ineptness, and not founded on any settled principle. It is based on the skittishness of some of Mr. Mackrell's supporters, who scare at the cars they should always have known were on the track.

This does not apply to all of them. Mr. Mackrell has his friends today who are insistent he shall run, and who believe the Engelsberg suit is a barrier which can be swept aside. They are willing to go down the line for him, just as the friends of Mr. Malone, Mr. Withcrow and Mr. McArdle have the same faith in their champions.

Any one of these candidates, could there be unity behind him, might serve as well as a challenge to Mayor Herron as would Judge Patterson.

And, while all this predigested thinking is being done, perhaps some thought might be given to the voters who will have to make the final decision, and who should have some say in affairs. Voters don't like hand-picked candidates, whether they bear the stamp of purity and independence or the gang and the machine.

It looks like a fight in November.

ERK RECALLED AS VOTE QUIZ NEARS END

Witnesses From Two Congress Districts Before Jury

The Federal grand jury conducting the probe of election fraud charges today was examining witnesses summoned from the Thirtieth and Thirty-second Congressional districts. More than 100 men and women reported from the Twenty-ninth Ward and from Stowe and Scott townships. Indications are the probe will close Thursday.

Former Congressman Edmund F. Erk, Republican, defeated for re-election by Twing Brooks, Democrat, in the Thirtieth Congressional district, late yesterday afternoon was recalled by the grand jury. He was in the jury room 30 minutes.

Bank records and telephone calls of Erk were asked for in subpenas issued following his first appearance late Wednesday before the jury.

Among witnesses who followed Erk into the juryroom was his nephew, Earl W. Hunnell. Mrs. Audrey Wignall, of 12 East North avenue, was also a witness.

A large majority of the 125 witnesses who appeared yesterday before the jury were from the Seventh District of the Fifteenth Ward.

CITY CONSIDERS PARKING BAN APPEAL

$4,500,000 Work on River Not Hit, Benner Says

The decision of Judge Thomas M. Marshall against the parking of automobiles on the Allegheny River Wharf will not affect the city's $4,500,000 wharf improvement plan, in the opinion of Assistant City Sollictor Thomas M. Benner.

An appeal to the State Supreme Court from Judge Marshall's ruling is also being considered, Benner declared.

TO FIGHT INJUNCTION

In the meantime, parking on the waterfronts is being carried on as usual.

Benner said:

"There is no injunction at present against the parking, and if one were sought, an appeal by the city to a higher court would hold it up."

Judge Marshall's opinion states that parking of private automobiles on the Allegheny wharf is illegal in that the city has no right to authorize the use of a public landing for parking purposes.

2 LEVELS PLANNED

The city's wharf plan would provide two levels, one for the use of boats and the other for automobiles.

If upheld, it is believed Judge Marshall's decision may mean the end of a large part of the city's wharf parking.

In the opinion, Judge Marshall held that a limited use of the wharves for parking which did not interfere with navigation might be allowed, but that in a visit to the wharf and from photographs he received the impression that the space was entirely taken up for parking purposes.

BOAT BUILDERS UPHELD

Judge Marshall, in a nine-page opinion, upholds the contention of James Rees and Sons Company, boat builders, that the city has no right to use the Allegheny River wharf for automobile parking. Judge Marshall states the wharf was dedicated to the public in 1784 and should be used for wharf purposes just as a street is used for street purposes.

The property is set aside "forever" for a public landing, according to Judge Marshall, by an act of 1836.

TO HIT ALL WHARVES

Although the judge's opinion refers directly only to the Allegheny wharf, lawyers are of the opinion that if it is upheld the effect will be to ban the 10-cent parking which has prevailed on the wharves.

A rush of business for the private parking lots and downtown garages is forecast in that event, but a long legal battle is expected to intervene.

An act of Legislature in recent years provided that the city might change any property owned by it from one public use to another, but the question would then arise, it is declared, whether the parking of private automobiles would be considered a public use.

HORSE DRAWS BRIDAL PAIR

George Stiefvater, 26, of Milroy street, and Katherine Ehrhardt, 23, 86 Luella street, were married today at St. Boniface Roman Catholic Church, East street. And then the fun began

When plans were being made for the wedding, the bridegroom's friends decided to take a hand.

They said:

"Since weddings are so few and far between, with the depression and all, we ought to make this a special occasion."

With this thought in mind, they racked their brains for ideas. After racking for some time, they hit on a novel plan. Why not celebrate in old country style? And so they set to work.

And you might imagine the surprise of the newlyweds when they stepped out of the church and saw a surrey (a carriage which was used as a touring car before the advent of the automobile) drawn by a gallant, spirited ice wagon horse.

Also imagine their amazement, and that of the bridesmaid, Miss Mary Winghart, and the best man, Edward Reigner, when all four were rushed into the rear seat, and the driver, Ed Herman, majestically brandishing his whip, drove the party up East street amid blaring of horns and shouting of voices.

WILL ROGERS SAYS

SANTA MONICA, Cal., July 11. To the Editor, Sun-Telegraph:

It is certainly gratifying to read about one conference that got somewhere. The Navajo Indians held a conference and decided that they could get along without the services of about 25 white office holders that had been appointed to help look after them.

Will Rogers

The Indians said they were doing it to save the white man money. Who said the Indian didn't have any humor? The London Conference votes today to see if they meet tomorrow. If they meet tomorrow, it will be to find a reason to split up to keep from meeting the next day. Then we send white people to take care of the Navajoes.

Yours,
WILL.

Accused Foreman Shot By Enraged Husband

Workmen See 'Boss' Riddled by Six Bullets

SCOTTDALE, Pa., July 11.—Gideon Hostettler, 66, of Everson, shop foreman of the Pennsylvania Railroad, was shot six times today by an enraged neighbor while he was at work with a road gang at the Chestnut street crossing, according to a police report.

Hostettler was removed to the Frick Memorial Hospital, where his condition was reported as critical. Bullets lodged in his back, forehead, shoulder, and neck.

An hour after the shooting police arrested Jesse Tressler, 52, of Everson. Police reported the shooting was the aftermath of Tressler's arrest several days ago when Tressler, they said, accused Hostettler of making advances toward his wife.

Tressler fired four shots without warning into Hostettler, who was standing a short distance away from his workmen, police said. Workmen came running to Hostettler's aid, but were held off by Tressler, who threatened to shoot them all, authorities declared.

Tressler turned in his flight to fire two more bullets into the inert Hostettler, both of which took effect, police said they were told.

The men are related by marriage, Hostettler's son having married Tressler's daughter, according to the report to officials.

P. O. WORKERS IN NEW STRIKE

Union workers quit work on the new postoffice at noon today, according to labor officials. Plumbers, cement finishers, electricians, sheet metal workers, and laborers, the only union workers who were still on the job, came out on strike.

Workers gathered, several score strong, near the Aronberg-Fried Company offices at Bigelow boulevard and Seventh avenue this morning in protest, they said, against the hiring of men termed non-union plasterers. The plaster contractors, the Hachmeister-Lind Company, they allege, are paying the 8 or 10 plasters and their helpers now on the job less than union wages.

Today's walkout followed that of the tile setters, marble setters, bricklayers, and terrazo floor setters five weeks ago, caused, the workers say, when the tile setters' union and the roofers' union could not agree which one was entitled to lay the tile roof for the building.

The iron workers and elevator constructors struck in a similar occupational dispute with the carpenters' union eight weeks ago over the question as to which union should build metal mail conveyors.

California Has Garden Tools on Gold Standard

—By ARTHUR 'BUGS' BAER—

Are we on or off the gold standard?

President Roosevelt presses a gold button that blew the hinges off the Golden Gate. Mr. Hoover jabbed an eighteen-karat spade into the earth and Gov. Rolph turned over the first divot.

And as the sun set in the Golden West nearly seven thousand men went to work. Gov. Rolph passed the gold spade over to Gov. Balzar, of Nevada.

If that's the kind of garden implements they use in California we'd like to bust into the tool house.

If we can't get the spade we will borrow the lawn mower. That's probably silver.

Just shows you how California grabs prosperity by the ears. They're building an eight-mile bridge over a five-mile bay.

JUMP IN BEER PRICE LOOMS

The rise in grain prices has made the "bulls" rejoice, but the "bears" and the beer drinkers will mourn together if the price of barley continues to go up.

According to Fred Klussman, president of the Pennsylvania Brewers' Association, brewers will have to increase their prices if barley continues to advance. He said:

"Grain prices have been going up right along. If they rise another 15 cents we will undoubtedly have to increase the prices of brews."

Pair Held as Parents Of Mystery Foundling

Mother Confesses Abandoning Baby When Penniless

Christine Bloom played happily with her toys at the Rosalia Maternity Hospital and Foundling Asylum today, unaware that her mother and father have been arrested for abandoning her.

The chubby 8-months-old baby girl was left in a basket January 3 on the porch of Mrs. John Vandermiller, of 4566 Friendship avenue.

Attached to the chip basket in which she was found on that cold morning was this terse note:

"God will reward you some day for your kindness to this poor little baby. God bless you all."

Mrs. Catherine Schriver, 27, admitted to Miss Ethel Patterson, Humane Society agent, that she was the mother of the abandoned child and to signing the note as "Unhappy Mother." She said:

"Her real name is Dolores Jean Grief. She was born in St. Margaret's Hospital November 22, 1932, and was baptized in St. Kieran's Church.

"I didn't have enough money to keep her—that's the reason I gave her away."

Constables E. C. Weaver and Richard Orlowski arrested Mrs. Schriver yesterday at 11 Freeport street, Etna, where she said she was living with Edward Grief. Both were lodged in the County Jail on misdemeanor charges to await hearing today before Alderman F. T. Halloran, of 4205 Penn avenue.

Living with the pair at the Freeport street address was another child, Paul, 1½ years old, who was taken to the Juvenile Detention Home.

Grief and Mrs. Schriver, according to the constables, were living together under the name of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Miller. Mrs. Schriver said that her husband left her almost five years ago and that she has four other children in St. Paul's Orphanage.

Mystery regarding the identity of the abandoned brown-eyed girl was cleared by chance. Miss Peterson linked together the child's past while investigating charges that a small boy by the name of Paul Miller, of 11 Freeport street, Etna, was being abused and mistreated.

FOLEY SEEKS JURY POST

Robert A. Foley, of Mt. Lebanon, has announced as a candidate for the Republican nomination for jury commissioner, his petitions already being in circulation. In the last election for director of the poor Foley ran fourth in a field of 25, without the support of any faction in organized politics. He missed election by only 481 votes.

Allen D. Kerr has announced as a candidate for the Democratic nomination for sheriff. In his announcement Kerr says he is running as representative of the younger element in the community upon which rests the responsibility for cleaning up politics. An independent, he says the Democratic Party at present is merely an adjunct of the Republicans in Allegheny County and needs rebuilding along the lines laid down by President Roosevelt.

SYRIA LARGEST IN PARADE

ATLANTIC CITY, July 11.—(AP.)—Parading Shriners put on a gala show today for the crowds thronging the flag-draped boardwalk.

For an hour and a quarter the jaunty red-fezzed tide moved along the seashore to the auditorium, where the red, green and yellow uniformed nobles stepped through intricate drills in a spectacle that preceded the formal opening of the fifty-ninth annual session of the imperial council.

Earl C. Lills, of Des Moines, Ia., the imperial potentate of Shrine, who retires with the close of the convention, headed the Shrine legions, while 50 odd bands and drum corps supplied the martial music for the 15,000 marchers.

Crescent Temple, of Trenton, the official host of the convention, headed the parade.

Pittsburgh's Syria Temple had the largest division in the procession. Its brigade of two bands and a bugle corps, drill team, patrol and other uniformed bodies totaled more than 800.

Police said the elder George was angry because he believed his daughter-in-law was persuading her husband, Christ George, Jr., to cease aiding him after financial reverses.

When a hit broke the tie at the end of the ninth inning, more than 5,000 youngsters, the guests of the Pittsburgh Baseball Club, stampeded down the ramp to the left field gate.

Down the steep ramp came the crowd, and those leading the flight from the field stumbled and fell at a point where the ramp straightened out.

BOYS IN PILE

The boys were piled high at the gate, and a squad of special police, assigned to keep order among them, were unable to check the rush.

With the exit blocked, more than a dozen boys escaped serious injury when they leaped 20 feet to the ground from the rear bleacher wall. More than 500 leaped 10 feet to the field from the front wall.

ASKS EVIDENCE IN TUB DEATH

SAN JOSE, Cal., July 11.—(Universal.)—E. O. Heinrich, Berkeley criminologist, retained by the defense attorneys representing David A. Lamson, accused of the "Stanford bath tub murder" of his wife, Allene, will demand permission to examine 20 exhibits introduced by the prosecution at the preliminary hearing in San Jose, he had said today.

These exhibits consist of bloodstained clothing, a length of pipe, and other articles taken by Santa Clara County investigators from the Lamson home. Heinrich will examine these to confirm or refute the findings of the prosecution expert, Dr. Frederick Proescher, of Los Gatos.

John L. McNab, leader of the San Francisco bar, refused to confirm or deny a report that he would be associated with Attorney Edwin M. Rea in the defense. McNab is expected to come to a decision this week.

TRIPLE MURDER QUIZ HOLDS 4

FORT WORTH, Tex., July 11.—(AP.)—An investigation of the apparent slaying of three men has resulted in the arrest of four members of a gang believed implicated in a $72,000 mail truck robbery here last February.

The bodies of the three men, who officers theorize were killed because they gave information to police concerning the robbery, have not been found. The three are Jack Sturdivant, J. B. Rutherford and Harry Rutherford, all Texans. Clothing identified as belonging to the three was found in the Trinity River, blood stained and weighted with rocks.

Murder charges for the suspected slaying of the three have been filed against O. D. Stevens, W. D. May, M. T. Howard and M. D. (Blackie) Howard.

The same four defendants and Weldon Routt also have been charged by federal authorities with conspiracy to rob the United States mail and robbery with a deadly weapon in connection with the mail truck holdup.

within reach of all!

★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★

ON Friday, July 7th, we made an announcement of far-reaching importance to anyone who drives a car.

For nothing could be more important than an announcement which brings AMOCO-GAS--the original special motor fuel--and the finest fuel in the world--within reach of all.

For almost two decades millions of gallons per year of AMOCO-GAS have been sold at a 5¢ premium. AMOCO-GAS cost more to make; it does more; it is worth more.

BUT . . . we want more AMOCO-GAS users in addition to the many, many present devoted ones. Changed economic factors in industry, combined with the advantages resulting from our recent big expansion program, make it possible:

....to REDUCE the premium on AMOCO-GAS by 2¢ a gallon!*

....without in any way changing its ingredients or famous quality! It's the same matchless AMOCO-GAS.

And that means bringing the finest within reach of all. There is nothing else like AMOCO-GAS. It has often been imitated--never equalled. It is in a class by itself--the aristocrat of motor fuels.

AMOCO-GAS furnishes a luxury in riding that is a real delight--a freedom from repair worries that is amazing--an extended life and use of motors that is surprising--and an economy of operation that means you pay nothing for its many extra advantages.

Present users know AMOCO-GAS always was the greatest value--and know it is now greater value than ever before.

To all others we say, "Use AMOCO-GAS and you'll agree we have brought the finest within reach of all. So why use anything else?"

FRENCH BANKER AND WIFE SUED BY RECEIVER

How a French banker and a financier from the Argentine pulled the wool over the eyes of American bankers has been revealed in recent testimony regarding the Duquesne Gas Corporation, Western Pennsylvania concern.

A judgment for $1,554,779 was obtained against Maxime H. Furlaud, of Paris, in Federal Court in New York, May 11, by George W. McCandless, of Pittsburgh, receiver for the corporation.

Through his attorney, former Mayor William A. Magee, McCandless now has entered suit in New York Supreme Court against Furlaud, his wife, Eleanor Mortimer Furlaud, and his business associate, Carlos Reuter, an Argentinian.

STOCK BLOCKS INVOLVED

It is charged substantial blocks of stock in subsidiary companies to which the court held money of the Duquesne Gas Corporation had been diverted are held by Mrs. Furlaud.

Furlaud, who is a member of the firm of Dupont and Furlaud, Paris bankers, is in France now, it is stated. He carried on some French financing in this country during the World War, according to Magee.

Furlaud and his friend, Reuter, promoted the sale of a $5,000,000 bond and stock issue of the Duquesne Gas Corporation and paid out approximately $2,500,000 for gas and oil properties in Southwestern Pennsylvania and Northern West Virginia, Magee states.

SECURITIES SOLD

The $5,000,000 was raised, it is alleged, through a syndicate in which a number of investment bankers co-operated. The securities were offered to investors all over the country and were for a time listed on the New York Curb Exchange.

New York money largely financed the venture, however, according to Magee. The money that was diverted, he said, was funds left over after the sale of the securities and before the taking up of options on oil and gas properties.

The company in 1931 had 156 gas and six oil wells as well as rights on 35,000 acres. Its home office was listed as Washington, Pa.

McCandless was appointed receiver in January, 1932, and since that time attempts at reorganizing the company have been made. The concern has sold considerable quantities of gas to industrial concerns and public utilities.

REED UPHOLDS GOLD STANDARD

WASHINGTON, Pa., July 11.—(AP.)—Speaking at a testimonial dinner in honor of former Representative Henry W. Temple, a member of Congress for 20 years, United States Senator David A. Reed last night asserted this country should have remained on the gold standard.

Pennsylvania's senior Senator told about 350 persons from Greene and Washington counties that the United States sold securities, such as Liberty bonds, on a gold basis during the war and that the contract having been entered into should not have been broken.

He lauded the service of Dr. Temple, a member of the House from 1913 to 1933, and praised his knowledge of foreign affairs.

POSTMISTRESS BELIEVED SLAIN

GALLIPOLIS, O., July 11.—(AP.)—Neighbors of Mrs. Frank Ihle, postmistress at Addison, eight miles east of here, whose body was found in a cistern near her home Sunday, told officials yesterday they believed the woman was slain.

They reported they saw a man and a woman enter the Ihle home Saturday and drive away later. Mr. and Mrs. Ihle had been separated several weeks, according to authorities.

Coroner James T. Hanson withheld his verdict pending further investigation.

Seeking Divorce

MRS. ELDA BELLE SNYDER

HERSHMAN KIN SEEKS DIVORCE

The trials and tribulations of Mrs. Elda Belle Snyder, socially prominent daughter of the late Col. Oliver S. Hershman, were aired in the divorce courts in Reno today.

Mrs. Snyder testified that her husband, Herbert B. Snyder, whom she married in June, 1932, gambled away all but $10 of his money on their honeymoon at a Mexican resort and had to pawn a ring of hers to pay the hotel bill.

Also, she added, he once threatened to kill himself, leaving a suicide note.

Mrs. Snyder's mother, Mrs. Belle C. Hershman Martinek, society woman and music patron, died at her home in Bellefield avenue in May. She named her daughter as one of the heirs of her $1,050,000 estate. Col. Hershman was once an owner of the Pittsburgh Press.

M'GOVERN SEES PLOT IN NEW TAX PLAN

Col. C. C. (Buck) McGovern's dander soared today. The chairman of the County Commissioners revived some of the heated adjectives that used to roll off his tongue so readily when he was the denouncing minority Commisioners a few years ago.

The Colonel denounced a plan which he felt was a scheme to add a lot of names to the vote lists and a lot of payrollers to the public burden.

SUGGEST COLLECTORS

The plan was revealed in a letter from D. A. Jones, chief clerk of the Board for the Asessment and Revision of Taxes. Jones reported that representatives of the board, of County Treasury Robert Cain's office and Solicitor J. P. Fife's office had decided it would be a good idea to send the tax collectors to the people instead of waiting for the people to come to the tax collectors.

Let deputy tax collectors set up headquarters throughout the city and county on certain days to assess the citizens for personal poll tax, the planners suggested.

DECRIES PLAN

But McGovern declared otherwise, and Commissioner W. D. Mansfield supported him. Declared McGovern:

"They were very unmindful and discourteous. The plan's out of reason. It looks like a political plot. Our elections are rotten enough now. We have a lot of schemers around here who are continually hatching out plans to deceive the people.

"The history of our elections and what is going on now in Federal Court is enough to make us go careful.

"They'll want a gang of payrollers on to put this through."

HUNT MISSING ALDERMAN

HARRISBURG, July 11.—(AP.)—Search turned to Harrisburg today for Alderman A. K. Spurrier, of Lancaster, reputed oldest member of Pennsylvania's minor judiciary.

The 86-year-old magistrate of Lancaster's Fourth Ward, disappeared late yesterday after sending his wife a note in which he intimated plans to commit suicide.

He has been a magistrate for 54 years. Recently he appeared before the federal grand jury in Delaware County which later returned indictments against State Senator John J. McClure and 95 others.

FESS TO RUN, DEFIES VETS

SPRINGFIELD, O., July 11.—(INS.)—Defying the war veterans who have threatened to defeat him because of his vote on the bonus, and the wets who have boasted that they would swamp him for his stand on liquor, U. S. Senator Simeon D. Fess, veteran Ohio Republican, today announced that he will run for re-election in 1934.

In making the announcement, Fess, a life-long dry and friend of the Anti-Saloon League, conceded that the Eighteenth Amendment is about to be repealed, and said he wants to return to the Senate to draft laws which will "prevent the return of the saloon."

It had been expected that Fess, one of the Republican party's "elder statesmen" and former national chairman, would retire at the end of the term. The Senator said:

"I never have submitted to threats in voting on any piece of legislation and I do not propose to let threats of veterans regarding bonus legislation and my stand on the question to influence my action."

'Only Homesick,' 'Kidnaped' Nurse Explains

NEW YORK, July 11.—(Universal)—The pretty young nurse for whose safety fears were felt since her disappearance from Addison Gilbert Hospital, at Gloucester, Mass., last Friday on the eve of a theater "date," turned up at the home of her parents at Kings Park, L. I., last night.

"I was just homesick," Helen C. Nichols, 21, explained, disposing of other questions with a wave of her hand. Helen said she had become homestick last Friday and decided to return home. She stopped over the week-end at the home of a girl friend in Brooklyn. Reading accounts of her disappearance, she finally telephoned her mother saying she was safe.

SLEUTHS TO GET DEATH SUSPECT

Long Beach (Cal.) detectives were en route to Pittsburgh today for Lee Daniel Murphy, alias James Callahan, 41, wanted in that city for the alleged murder of his third wife in November, 1926.

A warrant charging Murphy with murder was received by Detective Inspector Frank R. Boyd. He was arrested Friday in a Race street apartment house.

The charge against her husband had not shaken the loyalty of Mrs. Bertha Hindman Callahan, whom he wed in Rockville, Md., more than two years ago. She said she had no knowledge of the alleged murder until her husband's arrest.

Mrs. Callahan is awaiting decision by the City Welfare Department on her appeal for transportation funds for herself and her 15-months-old son, Bobby.

EX-NEWSPAPER EMPLOYE DIES

Hugh D. Anderson, 73, of East Aurora, N. Y., veteran Pittsburgh newspaper employe, collapsed and died while chatting with his sister-in-law, Mrs. Olive Anderson, and other relatives in an automobile in front of Mrs. Anderson's home, 14 Oakland square, late yesterday, according to a Coroner's report. He was pronounced dead by his nephew, Dr. John Anderson.

Mr. Anderson, a former Pittsburgh resident, spent more than 40 years in newspaper work, part of it on the old Times and Gazette Times.

He was a member of McKinley Lodge No. 318 F. and A. M., the Almas Club, of Dormont, and Typographical Union No. 7.

Besides his widow, Mrs. Imogene Anderson, he leaves a daughter, Mrs. M. V. Curtis, of East Aurora.

Patricia Pitt's Comment on Pittsburgh Society Happenings

In Mayfair

-With-

Patricia Pitt

Pittsburgh—and Sewickley—society went nautical yesterday. And all on the Steamer Washington on an afternoon and evening trip up the Ohio River. It was a Dutch treat affair arranged by Mrs. William B. Trainer and Mrs. Clinton Childs, with some of the passengers boarding the ship in Pittsburgh and the remainder in Sewickley.

Mrs. Trainer wearing a yellow novelty weave cotton dress with cap sleeves and a white hat, stood at the gangplank collecting the price of passage. She told me that 160 reservations had been made.

Striking Passenger

Boarding the ship in Pittsburgh was Georgianna Collin wearing a green and white figured crepe frock having a cape with a natty linen Ascot tie. Mrs. Oliver P. Nicola chose beige boucle, and Mrs. John Blair Sutton (the former Helen Murdoch) chose blue boucle.

Over a white crepe frock, Mrs. Clinton L. Childs wore a blue crepe jacket. A white hat completed her costume.

Attractive blonde Collie Jennings—another Sewickley girl who came to town to board the steamer after a morning in town—chose a smart, bright yellow suit of diagonal weave and a perky yellow hat.

More Sailors

Louis D. Trainer boarded the boat with Harriet Fickes, who wore a dark blue linen dress with a red string belt for accent. And around the neck of the dress were triangular insertions of white linen. With her costume she wore a white pancake hat.

Others on the trip were Mrs. John P. Hoelzel in a white boucle two-piece dress with the jumper embroidered in pink and blue. Mrs. Clement M. Giles in yellow crepe, and Mrs. Joseph Dilworth in white crepe, over which she wore a stunning coat of bright blue sheer wool, woven in an openwork block design.

Mrs. James M. Magee was one of the voyagers, and so were Mrs. James Verner Scaife and Mrs. W. J. Crittenden.

Sewickley Travelers

Among the many who joined the travelers at Sewickley were Mrs. William Christopher Robinson, the Alexander Laughlin Robinsons, the junior William Christopher Robinsons, Mary and Althea Robinson, the Henry Olivers, the Grant McCargoes, the junior George M. Laughlins.

Still others were the junior William Penn Snyders, Laura and Betty Childs, Margaret and Fredericka Holdship, the three Doyles, Rebecca, Nancy and Virginia, and Maitland Alexander, Jr.

Betrothed In East

At a luncheon in Sherry's, New York, yesterday, the junior Jacob Manneschmidts, of Brooklyn, announced the engagement of their daughter, Lucia Manneschmidt, to John H. Coulter, son of the late Lieut. Col. and Mrs. Henry W. Coulter, of Greensburg, Pa.

The bride-to-be is a graduate of Packer Collegiate Institute and Vassar, class of '32; Mr. Coulter of Exeter Academy and Princeton, '30.

Lucia has been a Greensburg visitor—when here she was the guest of Miss Margaret Coulter.

Announce Betrothal

The Caspar A. Millers, of Foxburg, Pa., announce the engagement of their daughter, Marion Frances Miller, to Archibald R. Robinson, Jr., son of the Rev. Archibald R. Robinson, of Bryant street.

SISTER HELPING LORRAINE TAYLOR WITH BRIDAL GOWN

MISS LORRAINE TAYLOR MRS. WILLIAM B. RODGERS

Mrs. Rodgers, her sister and matron of honor, helping Miss Taylor, daughter of the Clyde C. Taylors, just before she passed down an aisle of white satin ribbons, became the bride of George Smith Fichtel. This is a Sun-Telegraph picture.

Mrs. Jean M. Roll Weds The Rev. E. P. Harper

Announcement is made of the marriage of Mrs. Jean Morrison Roll, of Coraopolis, to the Rev. E. P. Harper, pastor of the First Methodist Episcopal Church, of Carnegie, formerly pastor of the Lincoln Avenue Methodist Episcopal Church here. The ceremony took place Friday night with the Rev. R. W. McKenzie, district superintendent, officiating.

The Rev. and Mrs. Harper are visiting the Chicago Fair and will go to Wisconsin Dells. After July 25 they will reside in Washington avenue, Carnegie.

Gossipy Chat

—By NANCY JANE—

One of the most attractive bridal tables I've ever seen was that at Lorraine Taylor's wedding yesterday. She became Mrs. George Smith Fichtel yesterday afternoon in Longue Vue Country Club.

The huge square table was covered with sky-blue satin, interestingly draped, and further decorated with ivory candelabra and bowls of blue and white flowers—all in blue and ivory.

And the bride was lovely—tall and slender with her delicate brunette coloring set off by bridal ivory satin.

One man at the wedding parked his hat in the tub holding a bamboo, muttering that he guessed that was as good a place as any!

The many-tiered wedding cake was topped with a miniature bride and bridegroom.

Tense moments for the bride and her retinue—the final fifteen minutes before she walks down the aisle on her father's arm.

Speaking of weddings, makes me think of anniversaries. The recent entertainment Mrs. W. J. Crittenden gave in her home for the Pittsburgh Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution was a wedding anniversary present from her husband.

Longue Vue Country Club is a lovely place for a wedding. But why doesn't someone have a garden wedding there? Longue Vue has the most charming garden of any of the country clubs roundabout.

Plans are going forward for the first of Junior Hadassah's projects of the new season—a theater party and dance to be given at the Willows on Thursday evening, August 3, in conjunction with a presentation of the Stage Guild. Following the curtain, and between acts, the guests will dance in the Willows ballroom.

Those in charge are Miss Gertrude Holtzman, chairman, and Miss Florence Miller, co-chairman. In addition are Miss Della Zionts, chairman of hospitality; Miss Dorothy Bloch, chairman of tickets, and Miss Kitty Gordon, chairman of telephone. Miss Esther Rogow is head of the financial department.

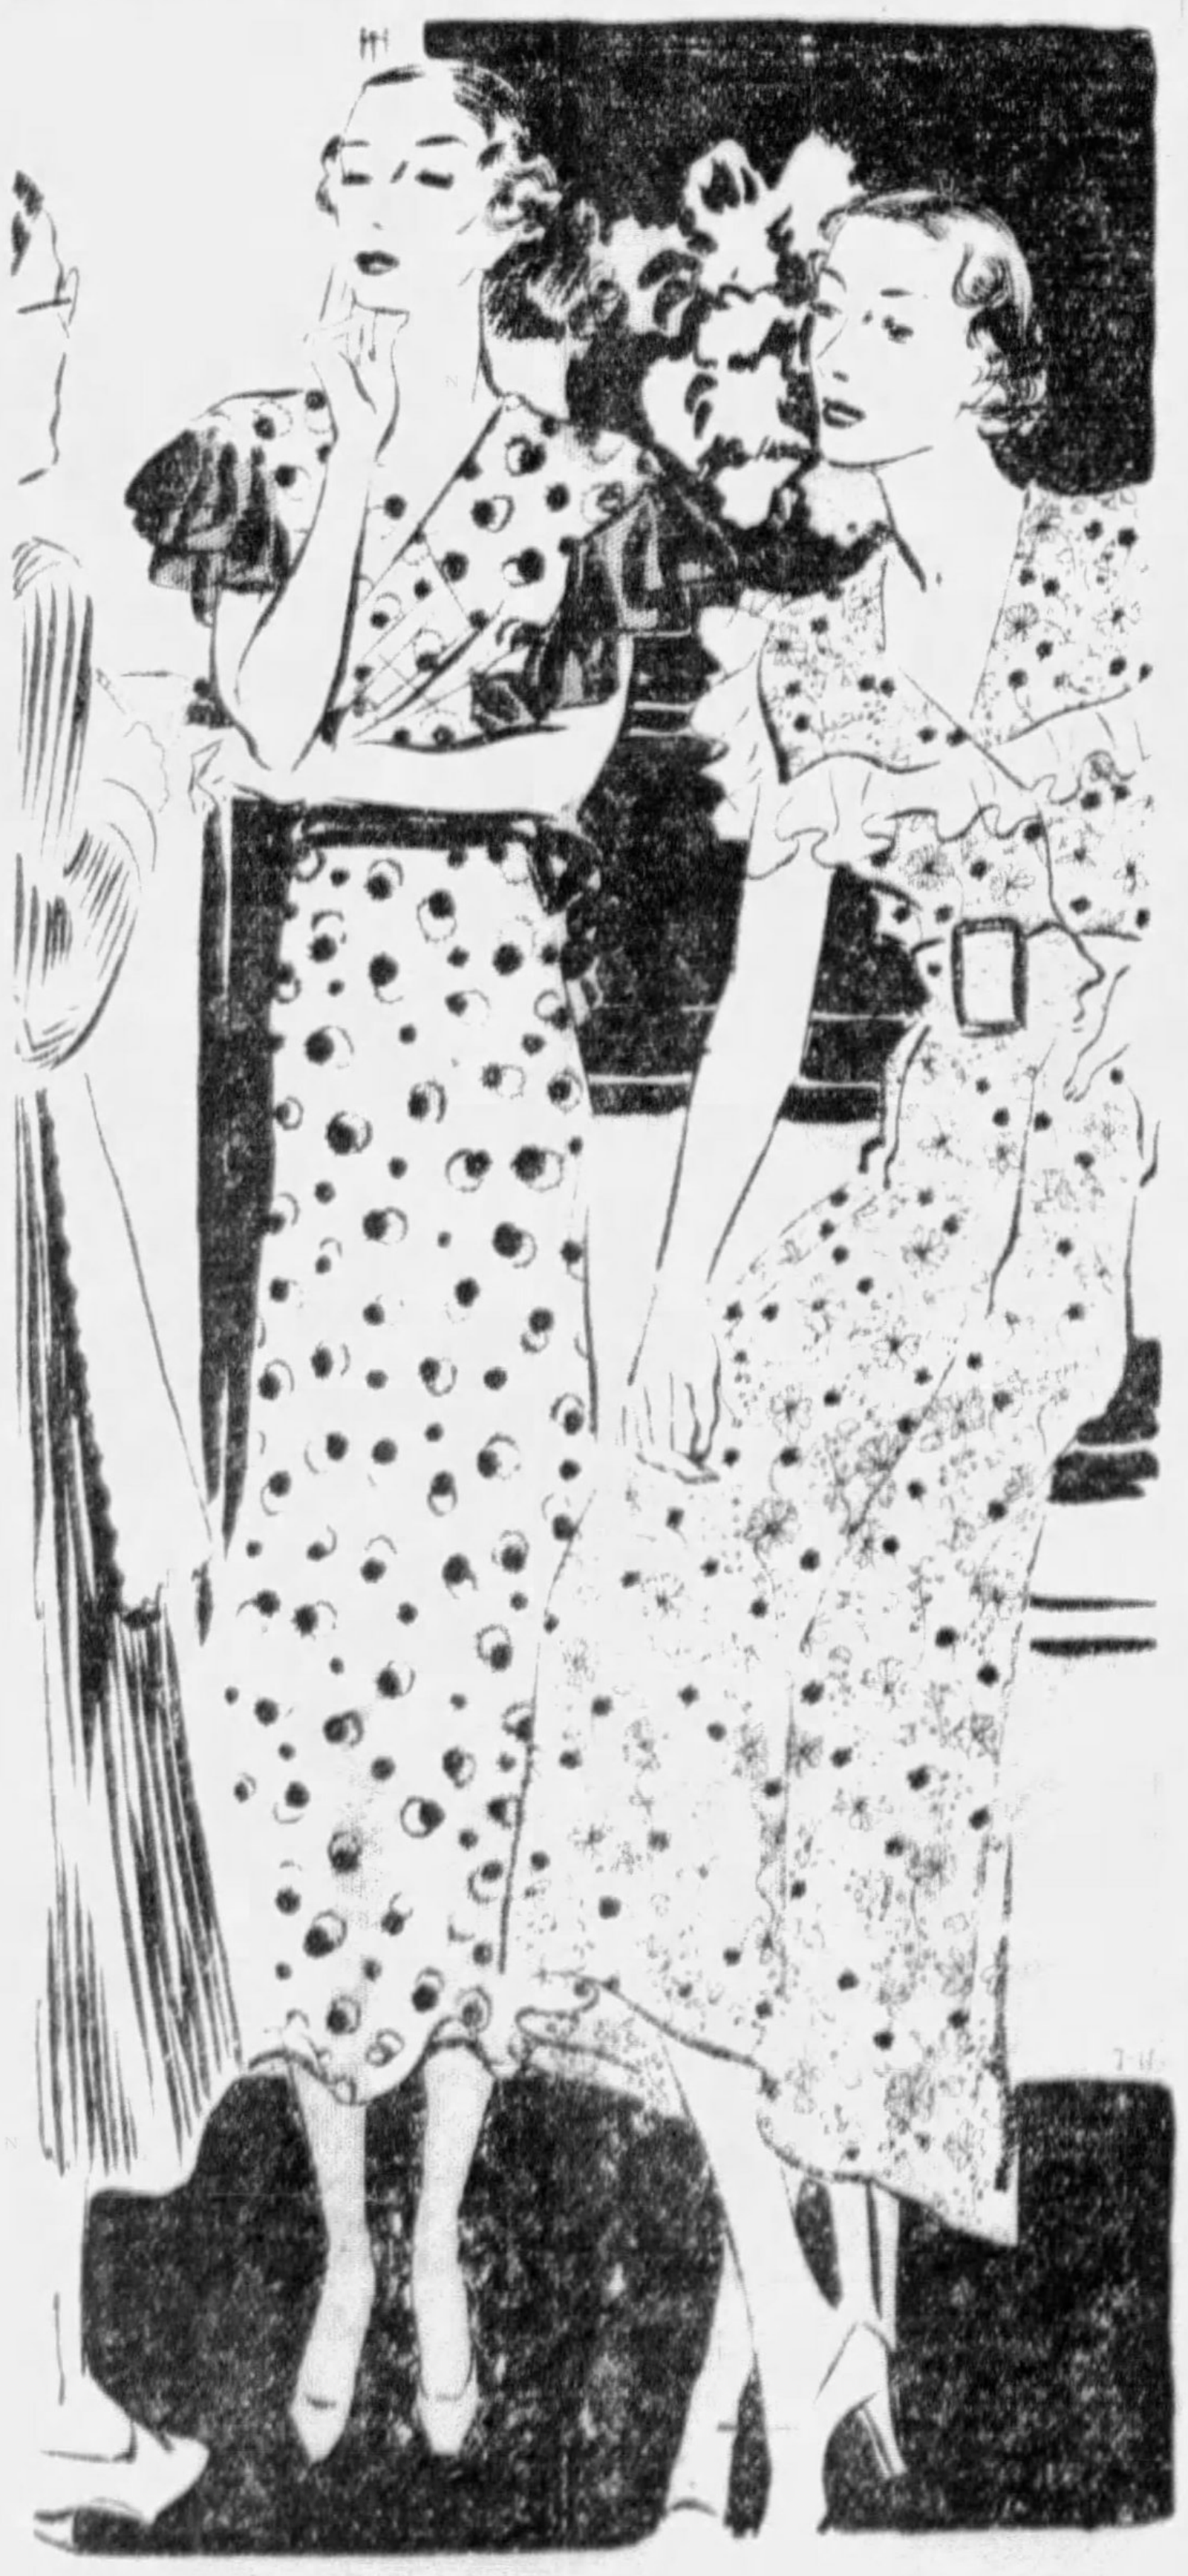
CRISP MORNING DRESSES HELP START THE WORK DAY RIGHT



A SUCCESSFUL day, as every woman knows, starts with breakfast in bed. When that luxury is denied one, it is a good idea to come down to the table in crisp, fresh clothes, just as the two women have in the accompanying sketch. Like the maid receiving orders for the day, they too wear cotton. The difference is in the prints—these are as gay and youthful as a child's first party frock!

SINCE every smart summer wardrobe is almost entirely of cottons, it is fitting and legion that morning dresses should be too. The joy of it is that women have such a flock of materials to choose from. There are batistes, dotted swisses, calicos, piques, voiles, linens and muslins—these removed from former sugar-sacking homes! With the new fashion for shirtmaker dresses of plaid organdies, the cotton possibilities are further augmented.

THE polka-dotted dress worn by the figure at the left of the sketch is a very fine example of the type of morning dress developed this year. Brown dots are scattered over a white pique voile ground. Brown organdy ruffles wind around the becoming fichu that turns into a sash in back. This same model could easily go to tea or to country club dances if made in dotted swisses or the new matelasse organdie.

THE OTHER dress will appeal to women who prefer flowers—nice, neat little bouquets of field flowers, for instance. Red, white and blue daisies, pansies, asters and all sorts of blooms are printed over a black batiste ground. The white organdy sailor collar has a girlish ruffled edging. The whole thing is as summery as can be—and flattering!

* * *

IF MARKETING is in the day's work, both of these dresses are eminently suitable. Top the lighter dress with a floppy white country hat and cotton accessories. A tailored linen hat, linen gloves and white shoes would be style-proof with the flowered dress.

SPORT COMMENT

By James J. Long

Lindstrom Finds Stride. Buc Season Half Over. Hard Climb to Pennant. Coast Regatta Costly. Kilpatrick Real Boss. McLarnin Going Abroad.

FREDDIE HITS .338 SINCE HIS RETURN

Freddie Lindstrom

FREDDIE LINDSTROM is beginning to look like Freddie Lindstrom. After a disappointing showing during the first part of the season, when he was unable to get going, on the offensive, the ex-Giant star appears finally to be rounding into the batting form of his best days, the form that caused his acquisition last winter to be hailed throughout baseball as a step certain to make pennant contenders of the Pirates. In punching home the winning run in the ninth inning yesterday with his third hit of the afternoon, Lindstrom was only keeping up a greatly improved gait at which he has been traveling since he got back into the lineup on June 23.

Freddie's average for the season still is far below normal, being only .274, but it is mounting steadily, and for the immediate present, which is all that matters, the Buc centerfielder is not a great distance behind the leading hitters of the league. Right now he is considerably better than a .300 hitter, as in 16 games from the time of his return up to today he socked out 25 hits in 74 times at bat for the highly satisfactory average of .338. He was held hitless in only four of the 16 contests. Seven times he made two hits and three times he connected for three safeties. That's one break in the Pirate clouds.

The Bucs completed the first half of their season yesterday with the playing of their seventy-seventh game. That they won only five more than they lost during that period was disappointing, but it isn't too late to make amends, with first place only four games away. There will have to be a great improvement in the Rovers' play, however, if they are to get anywhere. If 90 victories are required to win the pennant, as is probable, the Gibsons will have to win 49 games against 28 defeats during the remainder of the season. That calls for .636 ball, or more than 100 points better than the brand played in the first half.

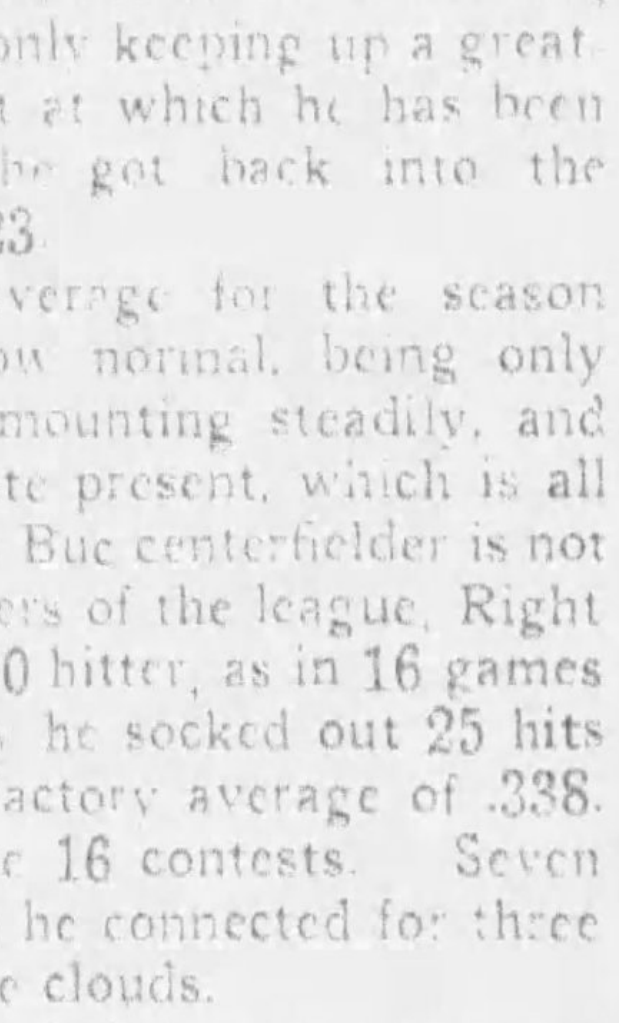
ANOTHER VETERAN PLAYER has reached the end of the baseball trail, the stage at which he can't hold a job even in the minors. Old Charley Jamieson, now 40, who signed with Jersey City when Cleveland turned him loose, has not been able to find another berth since the Skeeters released him unconditionally. Following him is Bob Fothergill, discarded by the Red Sox.

Jamieson was dropped by both the Senators and A's after he first came up, late in 1915, but for the Indians he developed into one of the greatest outfielders and most dependable batsmen in the big show. In 17 years of major league service he played in 1,761 games, scored 1,062 runs and made 1,989 hits for a grand batting average of .304.

THOUGH THE GIANTS admittedly got all the better of that Leslie-O'Doul-Watson trade with the Dodgers, perhaps to the extent of making them possible pennant winners, it didn't put the New York club in a generous mood.

The officials wouldn't let Leslie take his pet bats from the Polo Grounds with him, which would have made a difference of about three bucks at the end of the season. Sambo had to get a new shipment from the Louisville factory, and his hitting improved immediately.

NOW THAT IT is clear the Yankees are not to walk away with the American League pennant again, if they win it at all, New York scribes are giving Manager Joe McCarthy credit for having shown greater foresight than their own at training camp in the spring. Most of the writers thought the Yanks would win again as easily as in 1932, and so predicted. One of them tried to get McCarthy to proclaim it as his belief that his team would win by 15 games. But Frank Graham recalls that Joe shied away from it, almost in horror. The manager admitted he thought the Yanks would win again, but insisted that victory would come only after a terrific fight. Many of McCarthy's listeners figured he was speaking only for the benefit of players within hearing distance, so that they might be warned against over-confidence, but now it looks as though he knew exactly what he was talking about.



Fred Fussell

IT ISN'T OFTEN that a pitcher once discarded by a major league club is picked out of the minors again by the same club after an intermission as long as 10 years, but that is true of Fred Fussell and the Cubs. Chicago brought Fussell up for his first big league trial in 1922 when Bill Killefer was manager, and dropped him in 1923.

The signing of Fussell, who recently pitched a no-hit game in the International League, adds to the Pittsburgh color on the Chicago club by giving the Bruins a fifth former Pirate. The left-hander was on the local payroll in 1929. The other ex-Bucs with the Cubs are Manager Charley Grimm, Kiki Cuyler, Burleigh Grimes and Jim Mosolf.

CHARLEY GRIMM'S club is not the only one that has been struggling along without a left-hand starting pitcher. A southpaw has not started a game for the Dodgers in more than a month, or since June 4, when Watson Clark was sent against the Giants.

Still, it's far from being a record. The Yankees won a pennant in 1922 without a left-hand pitcher, and even when they won their first flag in 1921 Harry Harper was used in only eight games.

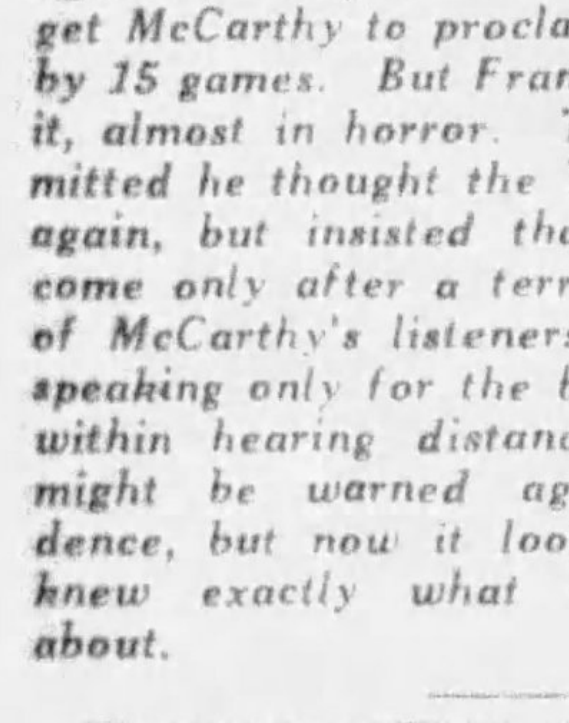
IT ISN'T ONLY college football that proves the handling of amateur sports is decidedly a big business. There was a lifting of eyebrows in some polite tennis circles when it was announced the Australian Davis Cup team had been guaranteed $4,000 to come to this country and meet an American team at Chicago as an added World Fair attraction. But actually, the expense of the trip will amount to all of that. Do you know what it cost to take the Yale, Harvard and Cornell crews out to the Pacific Coast and return for those races of last Friday and Saturday? Not a cent less than $10,000. Railroad fares for the Harvard oarsmen from Boston to Los Angeles and return totaled $2,575.02; for the Yale rowers from New Haven, $2,512.15, and for the Cornell crew from Ithaca, $2,391.05. The spells $7,478.22 for transportation alone.

ADD TO THIS $900 for meals on the train during the round trip, and $1,700 for hotel, restaurant, transportation and entertainment expenses in Los Angeles, and it will be seen that the Pacific Coast sponsors of the event had to pay a five-figure sum for bringing three crews from the East.

And all that expense to put on a two-day regatta in which the crews rowed about a mile and an eighth, or less than seven minutes of competition. In the East, it would be almost a dead loss, but the Coast course is enclosed, and they get much of it back for grandstand and bleacher seats, together with parking space. College rowing, the most amateur of all amateur sports, now is big business.

THE NEW PRESIDENT of the Madison Square Garden Corporation, Col. John R. Kilpatrick, former Yale football player and shot-putter, intimates there is no longer any chance that Joe Jacobs will supplant Jimmy Johnston as boxing matchmaker. Even if friends of Jacobs were to purchase controlling stock, he says, they would not be able to dictate policies as the latter power is vested in five voting trustees.

While not criticizing the methods of Johnston, Kilpatrick makes it known that he intends to have a hand in the making of all the more important matches and will supervise the staging of shows.



Jimmy McLarnin

HIS DEMAND FOR a $50,000 guarantee for a welterweight championship match having fallen on deaf ears in this country, Jimmy McLarnin may do his next fighting in Europe. He has two other offers, though by no means fifty-grand proposals. San Francisco wants a rematch with Young Corbett, and New York suggests Bep Van Klavern if the latter defeats Billy Petrolle tomorrow night. However, Manager Pop Foster admits that the bid most likely to be accepted is one for a fight in London with Jack Hood, English welterweight champion. Hood has cleaned up all the welters in his native land, and British fans are eager to see him get a chance against McLarnin for the world title.

TONY HERRERA WINNER OVER RAYMOND

By HARRY KECK
Sports Editor.

"He's too smart."

Thus did curly-headed Lew Raymond, of Baltimore, nephew of the famous Joe and Vince Dundee, size up Tony Herrera, Mexican lightweight star, of El Paso and Chicago, as their 10-round battle at Hickey Park, Millvale, ran its course last night. The thought undoubtedly lodged itself in his mind in an early round, and he expressed it at the end of the seventh as his seconds implored him to go out and force the fighting. He shook his head and replied:

"Nope, he's too smart."

It was no disparagement of Raymond's own ability to make this concession for many other boxers have found out to their sorrow that Tony is too smart for them. Remember that Tony only recently defeated Wesley Ramey in the latter's home town of Grand Rapids, after the latter had beaten Johnny Jadick, the junior-welterweight champion, there and also Tony Canzoneri while Canzoneri still was the lightweight champion. And recall, too, Herrera's many other fine fights in local rings.

TONY'S HEAD CUT

Tony was too fast circling about the ring in his weaving, bobbing fashion and too clean-cut in the scoring of his left hooks to the head and body and rights to the head for the bulkier Raymond, who recently defeated Billy Holt, of Hollywood, in a whale of a fight in the same ring. The first round was tame with little to choose, and Raymond held his own in the fifth, but in all the others Herrera was well in front. Raymond occasionally hit him with a hard punch, but in the main Tony was doing the pitching.

Raymond's right eye began to trickle blood in the ninth round and Tony had him almost out on his feet as he bore down in the final round only to ease off as the fans yelled to him not to try for a knockout at that stage. Then Herrera came on again to make a blazing finish after having his old tender scalp wound opened.

EXPLANATIONS OF RIPLEY'S CARTOONS OF YESTERDAY: PRIMO CARNERA IS 9,950 FEET HIGH—In Valsesia, Province of Novara, Italy, about four hours from Alagna, there are the two Carnera mountain peaks, (i due picchi Carnera), the principal peak, or il (picco) Primo Carnera, rising to a height of 9,950 feet. The mountain is entirely unrelated to the pugilist, although the latter often is being referred to as the "Italian Man Mountain." THE PARADOX OF THE AQUEDUCT—In large aqueducts formula and practice tend to prove that the conduit will carry more water when only partially full than when full. Velocity and discharge will be at their maximum when the quantity carried approximates about 95 per cent of the full capacity.

TOMORROW: K. O.'D TWICE, BUT WON

PIRATES DEFEAT PHILS, REGAIN THIRD PLACE

By CHARLES J. DOYLE

Larry French's aggressiveness stands out like a beacon in a fog as a somewhat drab Pirate club attempts to regain the prestige it owned in the first month of the National League sweepstakes. Larry's mates today were praising the lefthander for his stand of yesterday, when he carried on in a stedfast manner in the face of what seemed to be an impending one-run defeat. His fortitude was rewarded by a victory of similar dimensions, and as a result of this triumph the Buccos are back in third place and only four games from the top.

FRENCH WINS DUEL

French's willingness to work is in keeping with the spirit of his mound toil. Consider his victory of yesterday. An ordinary sharpshooter might have eased up a bit as the end of the game hove in sight with the Pirates trailing, but the fact of the matter is French had so much stuff in the last three rounds he snuffed out nine Phillies in succession in the three frames. The Buccos, with Fred Lindstrom starring, rallied in the last two rounds and the Pirates copped the "rubber" game of the series, 3 to 2.

The Boston Braves, here for a series with the Bucs, have put in a claim for Bill (Buck) Walters, hard-hitting infielder recently purchased by the Boston Red Sox. The claim has been filed with Baseball Commissioner Landis. The Braves say they had a string attached to Walters when they sent him to the coast in the deal which brought Gyselman to the Tribe.

Lindstrom shared the Pirate honors with French and Arky Vaughan in the pretty triumph of the Buccos yesterday. Lindy came through with a double and two singles, Fred winning the game in the ninth when he singled to left with the bases loaded, two out and the score tied.

HOLLEY RIVALS FRENCH

Ed Holley was just about as clever as French as he pitched the whole contest. Each allowed seven hits. Bartell's triple and Klein's single gave the visitors a score in the first. P. Waner's walk and singles by Traynor and Vaughan forced a tie in the fourth. Klein tripled in the sixth

CLAIR REPOLE BEATEN

COLUMBUS, July 11.—(AP.)—Kayo Morgan, Toledo bantamweight, won a decisive 10-round victory over Clair Repole, of Pittsburgh, in a main bout here last night. Morgan weighed 122 and Repole 125½. In the semi-final, Jack Pacer, Toledo, 136, won a six-round decision over Billy May, Pittsburgh, 135½.

Dykes Plays Golf After Doubleheader

PHILADELPHIA, July 11.—After playing 20 innings of baseball in the Chicago-Philadelphia double header here yesterday, Jimmy Dykes, White Sox third baseman, rushed out to the North Hills Country Club and played 18 holes of golf.

Dykes played the 18 holes in 1 hour and 4 minutes and turned in a score of 86.

Maxie Rosenbloom Beaten by Lewis

SAN FRNCISCO, July 11.—(AP.)—John Henry Lewis, swift-punching Negro schoolboy from Phoenix, Arix., stepped up another rung of the light-heavyweight ladder last night as he outscored Maxie Rosenbloom to win a 10-round decision over the holder of the world championship here. The title was not at stake.

LOCAL NET TOURNEY IN QUARTER-FINALS

THREE MATCHES CARDED FOR TODAY

By PAUL G. SULLIVAN

Quarter-final competition comprises today's program of play in the second annual Fox Chapel Golf Club invitation turf court men's doubles net tournament. Three contests, all of them giving promise of fireworks, make up the bill slated to reduce the field to semi-final proportions. Penultimate frays are listed for Thursday with final fixed for Sunday.

The crack Pittsburgh Golf Club array of McCook Reed and Charley Lockhart opens this afternoon's session at 5 o'clock, engaging the cagy Edgewood Clubbers, John Brown and Eddie Alcorn. Brown and Alcorn hold a West Penn decision over B. F. Arkle and Bill Thompson, powerful Wheeling-Washington outfit, and should provide a sturdy opposition for their slashing, but somewhat erratic, opponents.

BEATTY SHOWS FORM

At 5:30 p. m., Joe Dilworth and Tom Robinson, home club veterans, battle the clever Stanton Heights duo, Jack Beatty and Bill Spindler. Beatty, returning to trim after lengthy siege with a torn ligament, flashed good tennis Sunday, while Dilworth and Robinson were upsetting the fourth seeded crew, Dr. Billy McEllroy and Paul Sullivan, of the P. A. A. Frank Broida and Irvin Goodman, Harvard-Pitt combine that annexed honors of the 1932 Chapel event, go to the wire at 6 o'clock with George Henderson and Carlton Hughes, another Stanton coalition.

Dr. Dave and Dr. John O'Loughlin, Winged Head stars and West Penn-Allegheny County champions, headed the parade into the semi-final bracket by thumping the fast University Club twain, Frank McClintock and Frank White, by 6-2, 6-1 count in one two jousts yesterday. Breaks of Dr. John's service accounted for two of the three games garnered by the losers. Meanwhile, in the last of the second-round tussles, Reed and Lockhart downed Dave Devlin and Charles Kunkle, Jr., Southern Pennsylvania premiers, 6-4, 6-4.

JUNIOR ENTRIES READY

P. T. A. President J. Phillips Davis has announced that, because of the absence of Chairman Hub Rinehart from the city, entries for the Western Pennsylvania junior and boys' singles championships will be received this week by Dr. John L. O'Loughlin. Names may be mailed to Dr. O'Loughlin at the Regent Building, Penn and Highland avenues, or he may be phoned at Hiland 5929.

JEBY WINNER OVER TERRY

NEWARK, N. J., July 11.—(AP.)—A greatly improved Ben Jeby continued to rule a part of the middleweight boxing world today, despite the efforts of a two-fisted Jerseyman to squeeze into the title picture.

Jeby, recognized by the New York Boxing Commisison as the world champion, outpointed Young Terry, of Trenton, in a blistering 15-round combat before 12,000 fans in Dreamland Park last night.

The decision was unpopular, but the referee awarded nine rounds to the champion, four to the challenger and called two even.

Leo Sweeney Beats Ferry at Moose

Leo Sweeney, of the Pittsburgh Boys' Club, showed class in defeating Jimmy Ferry, of the Monon Valley A. C., in the feature bout of the Western Pennsylvania Safety Council and Better Traffic Committee amateur boxing show at the Moose Temple, downtown last night. It was a good fight throughout. The summary:

126-pound class—George Martzo, J. L. Thomas Club, defeated Ben Toboz, Homestead, by a three-round decision. Billy Miller, Pittsburgh Boys' Club, defeated Jimmy Lugar, Linwood Club, by a three-round decision.

135-pound class—Leo Sweeney, Pittsburgh Boys' Club, defeated Jimmy Ferry, Monon Valley A. C., by a three-round decision.

147-pound class—Joe Uhrin, Homestead, defeated Mike Lola, J. L. Thomas Club, by a three-round decision.

Primo Carnera's Life Story

Beaten by Jim Maloney, Primo Turns Tables, Despite Broken Ribs—Schmeling Evades Match. Signed to Box Jack Sharkey.

JIM MALONEY AND CARNERA . . MALONEY BEAT HIM

(This autobiography is a translation from the Italian of Primo Carnera's remarkably clear memories of his career thus far. The new world heavyweight boxing champion can speak English sufficiently to be understood, but, in preparing his life story, he preferred to do so in his native tongue. So far as is possible, the translation preserves the ideas and spirit of the champion.)

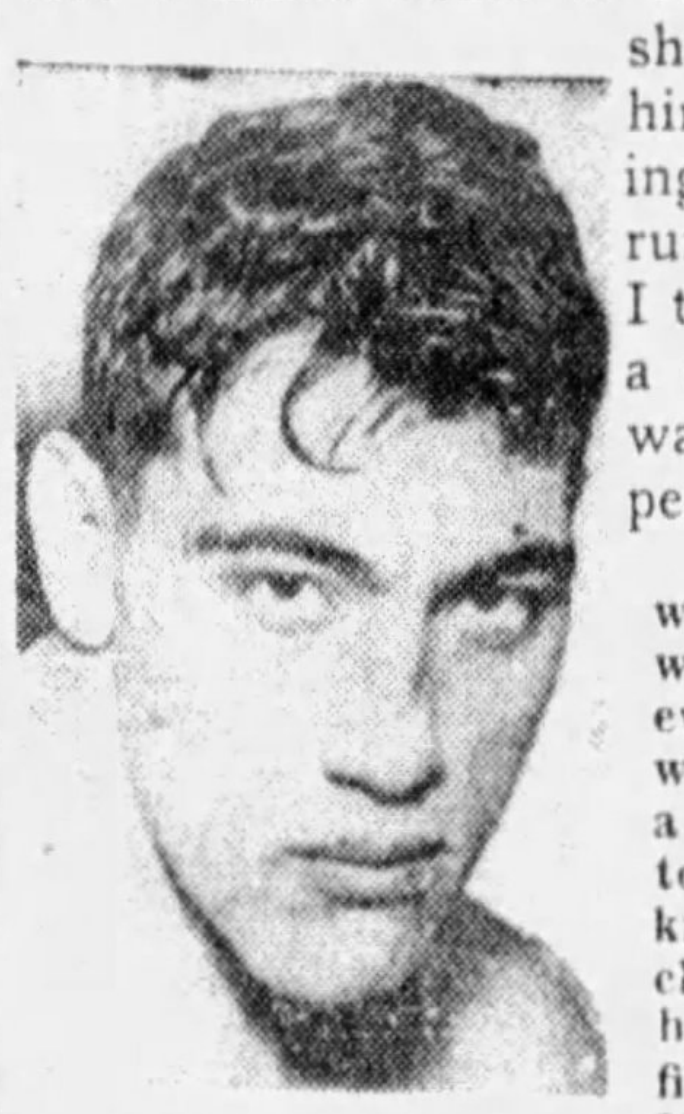
CHAPTER SIX

THE FIRST DEFEAT IN AMERICA—CRITICS HOWL—THE CARNERA CARAVAN MOVES ON

By PRIMO CARNERA, Heavyweight Boxing Champion

(Copyright, 1933, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

It was not until the last fight on my 1930 American tour that I lost, and how the press made merry when Jimmy Maloney won a 2-to-1 decision over me! That bout took place in Jimmy's home town, Boston, on October 7, a few days before I sailed home to Italy. Maloney made such a gallant showing that two of the officials voted him the winner. It was chiefly a boxing contest throughout, with the veteran running away from me most of the time. I thought, and still think, that I won by a comfortable margin, but the verdict was against me, and that is what appears in the records.



Primo Carnera

Maloney had been out of the heavyweight picture for a year or more, and was, of course, a very short end in whatever betting was done. But he had trained well this time, and his long experience as a boxer helped him evade my best efforts to kayo him. I was not able to even knock him down, his many friends cheered him mightily, and the popular home town boy got the honor of being the first to win over the foreign giant in the United States.

Of course, many experts announced that "the Carnera myth has blown up" and they certainly had the first big laugh on me. The howls were dreadful, but—the Carnera caravan moved on.

That Maloney decision made me all the more determined to go on fighting and to show the fans, and critics in particular, that I was not a fraud and a palooka.

Returning to Sequals, I enjoyed another most delightful rest at home, but, within a month, I had to rush training for a battle with Paulino Uzcudun, the Basque, in Barcelona, Spain. More than 80,000 packed the big bull ring there to see us box on a Sunday afternoon (November 30, 1930). Now Paulino was, and probably still is, one of the toughest and gamest of heavyweights. He rightfully boasts that he has never been knocked off his feet in action, and I was unable to do so. But I did batter the way to a win decision in 10 rounds; one of the judges—a native—giving his vote to the Basque. It was chiefly a mauling and slugging battle, and I earnestly believe that I merited the victory. If the Basque were not so marvelously tough, surely some of my hardest swings—especially in the fifth and the ninth rounds—should have floored him for a final count.

MEETS MALONEY AGAIN

About two weeks later, I took on Reggie Meen, a young and promising British heavy, in London. He tried hard, but it was a poor match, indeed, and he was flogged out soon after the second round started. Meen was too small for me and lacked both ruggedness and experience then.

For more than a month, and well into the early part of 1931, I rested, with music hall showings and other such exhibitions breaking the monotony. Late in January, I again sailed for America, a return bout with Maloney as the first object. And that fight gave me the most grueling experience I have known thus far—the agony of battling for several rounds with two broken ribs that hurt horribly every second when the anesthetics had worn away.

That second Maloney melee was held in Miami, Fla., March 5, 1931. About a week before the bout, I broke two ribs when sparring with Walter Cobb, a rough and strong battler. The fractures were slight, but they did interfere with training, and for days I could not spar at all. Leon See, then my manager, tried to have the bout postponed, but it was late in the season at Florida, and so I had to fight on schedule. Some critics even claimed that I was trying to run out of the match, but authentic X-ray photographs and the testimony of reputable doctors showed that those rib injuries were genuine.

FIGHTS WITH RIBS BROKEN

However, I had to fight, so my side was taped up, and, before entering the ring, a local anesthetic was given me. That numbed the side for a time and, while this

Dormont Nine Plays Homewood Club

Dormont, the first half champion of the City League, will be the attraction this evening at the Homewood playgrounds, clashing with Bill Dalzell's revamped Homewood lineup.

Book will travel to Brentwood to meet the Gillespies.

In the City League frays last evening, the Otto Cochran team defeated the Whitaker club, 9 to 6, while Books and Homewood were battling to a 6-6 deadlock.

The Homestead Grays returned from their western trip and hung defeat on McKees Rocks, 11 to 5. They play at McKeesport tonight.

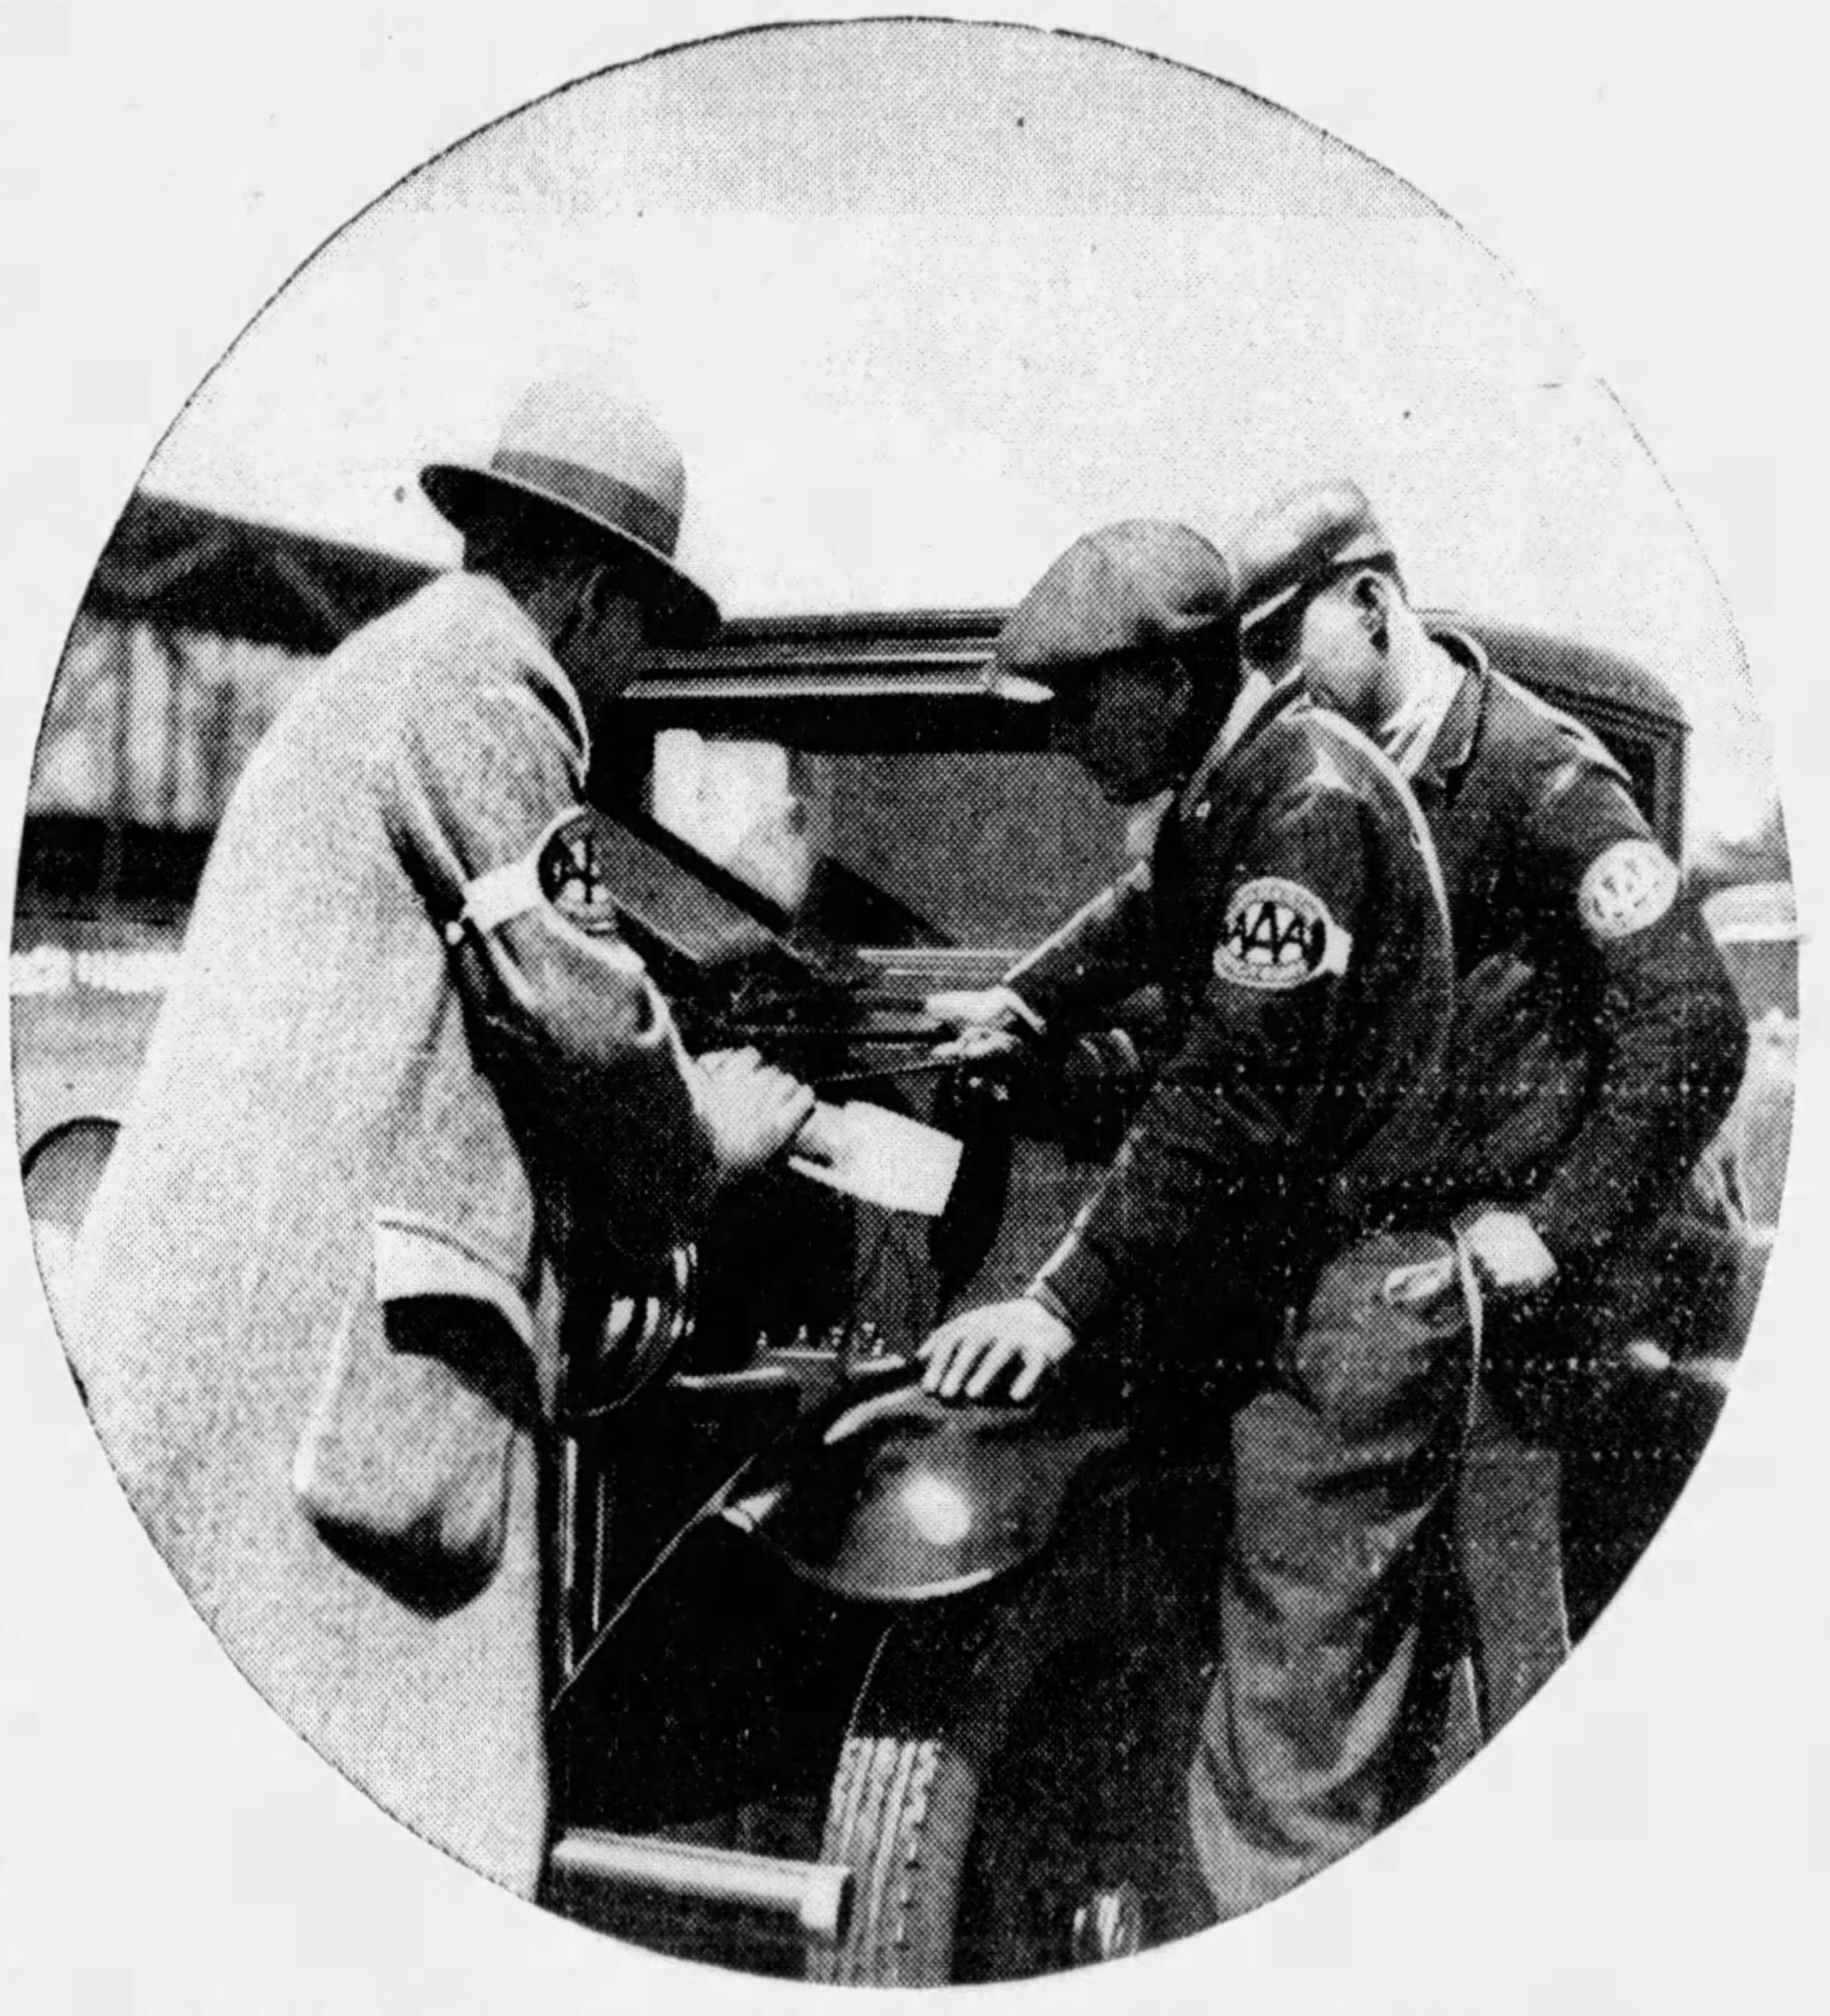
New motor oil amazes Contest Board* in "borrowed car" test



REPRESENTATIVES OF THE CONTEST BOARD of the American Automobile Association halts one of the borrowed cars long enough to note its oil consumption. Leading 25c oils were tested against Gulf-lube in each car—and Gulf-lube stood up 28½% longer before a quart of oil had to be added.

"THEY'RE OFF!"—The start of the test that made motor oil history on the famous Indianapolis Speedway.

MR. PAUL JEFFRIES, foreman of Bowers and Weddel garage, loans his car for the test. Gulf-lube beat every other oil tested in Mr. Jeffries' car hands down!

In old and new cars, Gulf-lube cuts oil costs 28½%

SIX borrowed cars moved off from the starting line on the Indianapolis Speedway—and oil costs dropped like a stone!

In these 6 cars—some with old, worn motors, some almost new—representatives of the Contest Board of the American Automobile Association tested four of America's leading 25c oils, one after another . . . for 4 days, 12 hours a day!

What happened? Here are the facts . . .

Car No. 2—a 1933 Plymouth—used a quart of oil "C" every 652 miles. The same car, using Gulf-lube, consumed a quart every 1447 miles!

In Car No. 3—when oil "B" was replaced with Gulf-lube, miles per quart went up 32.3%!

When the test was over, Gulf-lube had beaten every oil in every car! Based on the grand average of the figures for all oils, Gulf-lube cut the oil costs of the 6 cars 28½%!

Buy less oil—pay fewer repairs

If you want to cut your oil bills and get better lubrication, switch to Gulf-lube now! You'll get the finest motor oil 25c ever bought. At the same time, you'll stop the constant stops to "add a quart!" Drive in where you see the orange Gulf disc!

YANKS TRIP TIGERS, REDUCE SENATORS' LEAD

INDIANS BEAT NATS, 3-2, IN 11 INNINGS

Maybe the New York Yankees aren't the same formidable baseball machine that overpowered all opposition last year, but still it does not do to count them out until the last man has been retired.

Bucky Harris and his Detroit Tigers were sailing along with a 5-1 lead yesterday, when the world champions clubbed over nine runs in the eighth and earned a 10-6 decision that enabled them to cut Washington's American League lead to three games. The Senators dropped a 3-2 decision to Cleveland in 12 innings.

YANKEES WIN IN EIGHTH

For seven innings the Yankees bowed tamely to Carl Fischer, getting only one run and three hits. But wildness and poor support was Fischer's undoing in the eighth when the Yanks sent 12 men to the plate.

Two walks and Tony Lazzeri's single filled the bases with none out and then the Tigers' defense collapsed. There were errors by Billy Rogell and Charley Gehringer; Gerald Walker and Ervin Fox missed signals on a fly and Hank Greenberg picked up a roller and then stood there holding it while Yankees romped around the bases. Sandwiched in with these misplays was a single by Babe Ruth, which drove Fischer from the mound, and a homer by Lazzeri with two on.

Earl Averill's triple with Willie Kamm on base gave Cleveland its triumph over the high-flying Senators. For 11 innings it was a brilliant pitching duel between Mel Harder and Walter Stewart, but the latter went out for a pinch hitter and Bill McAfee was touched for the winning run with none out in the twelfth.

A'S, SOX SPLIT EVEN

Lefty Grove hung up his thirteenth victory as the Philadelphia Athletics nosed out the Chicago White Sox, 3-2, in 11 innings in the first game of a doubleheader, but the Pale Hose came back to take the nightcap, 7-1, behind Milt Gaston's three-hit pitching. Ed Coleman's homer with none out in the eleventh decided the opener. Gaston was supreme in the second game except in the sixth, when the A's bunched their three hits for one run.

The St. Louis Browns scored eight runs in the second inning and coasted to a 9-5 victory over the Boston Redsox.

and Hurst tallied him with a single.

Lindstrom opened the eighth for the Pirates with a long drive to right center. Klein made a circus stop of the ball and held Fred to a single. The Pirate strategy was questionable as P. Waner failed to bunt. His bounder did not advance Lindstrom and Fred was only as far as third after Traynor had been erased for the second out. Vaughan socked a hot one off Holley's glove and then beat Warner's play on the deflected ball. Lindstrom scored.

Suhr reached base on Hurst's fumble in the ninth. Piet sacrificed and Picinich was passed purposely. French popped out, but L. Waner was passed to fill the bases. Lindy then singled to left to win the game.

Pitcher Remy Kremer, recently released by the Pirates, left this morning for his California home, accompanied by Mrs. Kremer and their daughter, Elizabeth. Kremer has several offers under consideration, but he decided to return home for a short rest.

PRIMO WRITES LIFE STORY

interfered with my punching, the ribs did not pain me much until the seventh round. Meanwhile, Maloney had been pounding the rib region as much as possible. Slowly, sharp pains began to spread and all during the eighth round it was inferno for me.

At the bell . . . for the first time in my life . . . I felt like quitting . . . the pain was just too much. But M. See pleaded with me that everything was at stake and that I must go on.

If you ever had a jumping toothache, you can imagine what I had in that side for those last three rounds. Not only when the side was hit or my guard jammed up against it, but every time I threw a punch or moved my legs and hips—the agony was awful. By desperate effort, though, I managed to hold my own with Maloney for those 10 or more final minutes of fighting, and the early lead I had piled up earned me the hardest decision I ever hope to win.

My American trainer for that bout was the skillful Ray Arcel, of New York. He will give good evidence, I am sure, of what I suffered during that contest and how those broken ribs halted my training. It was dangerous in itself, of course, to box at all with such fractures; but luck was with Primo afterwards and they healed completely within a few weeks.

SEEKS SCHMELING BOUT

Most of the press (M. See had a good habit of reading its reports to me) gave me what you call a "panning" for that Maloney showing, many of them charging that Jimmy had been "robbed." A few gave me full credit for making a good effort under a severe handicap.

When the ribs were O. K. once more, my second American tour got under full steam—with the critics still in full cry of "fake!"—Bud Gorman, Knute Hansen, Roberto Roberti and three or four others getting thumped out in from one to three rounds.

Meanwhile my managers were trying to induce Joe Jacobs, manager of the then champion, Max Schmeling, to bring him back from Germany and box me. In July, 1931, the German had stopped Stribling in a title match. Max was signed with Madison Square Garden, and so was I, to fight some time before September 30, 1931. Feeling that Jacobs would not produce his champion, M. See took our Garden contract to court to have it legally tested. Under it I could not fight any prominent contender other than the titleholder until after September of that year. At the time M. See was considering a match with Jack Sharkey. But the court upheld the contract. Schmeling did not return until 1932, and my damage claim because of that is still in the courts, I understand.

MATCHED WITH SHARKEY

Schmeling and Jacobs declared the former was having his eye or eyes treated by specialists in Germany. At any event, Monsieurs See and Duffy decided we were to be the victims of a runout. So they made an October match for me with Jack Sharkey, who had been whipping Max so badly in June of 1930 when that unfortunate foul was allowed and Schmelin became champion. Here was another critical bout for me.

In August, 1931, Sharkey got only a draw with the much smaller Mickey Walker, but those 15 rounds proved a good "tune-up" for his fight with me, two months later.

Still barred in 1931 from boxing in New York state because of that old Bombo Chevalier scandal, there must have been much done to restore me in good graces there, but the late William Muldoon and his fellow commissioners finally relented late in the spring, and, months later, the Sharkey-Carnera match was approved for Brooklyn, early in October.

Madison Square Garden was not friendly with my management in those days, so we did business with James J. Johnston, who became the manager of the Garden right after the Sharkey-Carnera show proved a success. Jimmy was promoting on his own then, and, while he picked Sharkey to beat me both times, I like him very much. His pet name, "Wise Guy," is so amusing—like "Ambling Alp" and others wished on me.

GETS BOXING LESSON

I was trained right up to the minute when that Sharkey contest was postponed for a week because Jack injured a hand. Some often say that was a trick, but I believe his excuse was a good one. His hands certainly stood up under the pounding he gave me on Columbus Day night when we finally clashed before a big crowd (despite cold weather) in the Brooklyn ball park.

Much earlier in 1931, on June 15, I knocked out Pat Redmond, a big Australian heavy, in the same ring. I stopped him with a powerful swing soon after the opening gong, but Redmond was rated as "just another set-up," and the fraud, freak and palooka knocks became heavier than ever. These increased throughout the summer and Sharkey naturally was an overwhelming favorite to win—5 to 1, I believe, were the odds quoted, with few takers.

Everyone expected me to rush and start slugging. Instead I came from my corner hoping to outbox the master. It turned out to be the best boxing lesson in my career.

P. DEL VECCHIO, PATRIZIO WIN

By TOM BIRKS

Perry Del Vecchio, West Penn Open champion, of the Greensburg Club, teamed up with Roger Patrizio, champion of the Butler Country Club, to win the Pro-Amateur best ball tourney yesterday at the Butler Country Club, shooting a sub par 34-31—65 to lead home one of the best fields of the season.

Par evidently meant little to the small army of Tri-State Professional Golfers' Association, the first seven matches were under par figures, with the next two equalling the recognized figure.

Pete O'Hara, of the Westmoreland Country Club, paired with F. A. W. Green, and Andy Velican, of Nemacolin, with S. W. Greer, finished in a tie for second place with a 66.

The best individual score of the day went to Del Vecchio. The Greensburg shotmaker burned up the course for a 69, one under par figures, and a new course record.

Charley Manning and M. A. Berkimer had a 69 for fourth place.

Joe Conners, of the Chartiers Heights Country Club, won the semi-monthly assistant professionals' tourney at the Edgewood Country Club yesterday. He had a 74, two over par, to lead the field by four shots.

The Schenley Park Golfers' Association will give a testimonial dinner this evening to Director of Public Works Edward G. Lang on the clubhouse porch.

causing blood to bathe his face just before the final bell.

Herrera weighed 138½ pounds against 140¼ for Raymond.

ZIVIC STOPS ASTO

Fritzie Zivic, Lawrenceville lightweight, won by a technical knockout over Don Asto, of Uniontown, in the third round of their return bout in the semifinal. Fritzie had a good night and dropped Don for a count of one with a right to the jaw soon after the opening bell and for two with a left hook in the second round, and had him bleeding from the left eye and nose in the latter session. Referee Jack Henderson stopped the bout to save Asto from further punishment in the third, despite Don's violent protests.

Al Becker, of Sheraden, back after a long layoff, received the referee's decision over Max Elling, Hill welterweight, in the six-round second bout, a slugfest in which Max appeared to outfinish the winner. Judge Mike Moran voted for Elling, but Judge Frank Brown and Referee Al Grayber were on Becker.

BARTO DROPS DECISION

The fans jeered the referee's decision in favor of Johnny Durso, of Oakland, over Mike Barto, southpaw, of New Kensington, in the opener, another hard-fought affair, in which Barto floored his man for a count of eight with a left to the jaw and had him in trouble several other times. Durso was the aggressor most of the way, however, and it was a close battle. Judge Brown voted for Barto, and the other two officials for Durso.

It was announced a card of 10 four-rounders will be offered at Hickey Park next Monday night, with Mose Butch and Ross Fields in the windup.

Between Rounds

Ralph Martzo is looking for bouts for Dick Ambrose, former local amateur welterweight champion, who defeated Pete Fleming in his professional debut. He also has under his wing Bill Hambrick, Negro light-heavyweight.

Tommy Loughran may get a return bout with Jack Sharkey at Madison Square Garden, New York, September 8. Sharkey knocked him out in their first meeting.

The card is complete for the show in the North Braddock Bowl Thursday night, with the signing of Red Bruce to box Bruno Sala in an eight-rounder. Frankie Simms, of Cleveland, boxes Sunny Jim McVey and Frankie Ryan takes on Lloyd Clements in two 10-round bouts, and Tony DiPiero and Lee Peer are in the six-round opener.

Sala, by the way, wants to meet McVey again. McVey knocked him out in one round in McKeesport in 1931, but Sala won an eight-round return bout at Motor Square Garden.

Norman Conrad, New Hampshire light-heavyweight, who holds victories over Tony Shucco, Harry Ebbets, Adolph Heuser, Dave Shade, Odonne Piazzi, Leo Larrivee and Frankie O'Brien, among others, wants to show here. He can make 162 pounds, but has had to box the 175-pounders to get action.

Jimmy Gilligan is in training at South Heights for bouts, with Joe Sorg handling him.

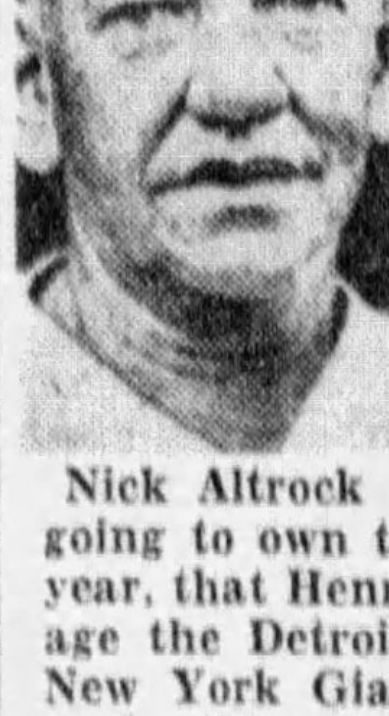
Ray Eberle, the amateur boxer named for the announcer, is champing at the bit for matches.

Teddy Movan, of McKeesport, and Freddie Len, of the Frawley A. C., box in the main bout of the semi-monthly amateur show in the St. Peter's A. A. arena on the North Side tonight. Other bouts are: Steve Levandowski vs. Bill Schwerin, Tarzan McGivern vs. Frank McLaughlin, Johnny Tirpak vs. Frankie Karnash, Lenny Burkenelli vs. Herman Burner, Matt Oznik vs. Al Martini, Gigi Carrabba vs. Gene Gibbons and Tommy Brown vs. Al Pillick. The show gets under way at 9 o'clock.

Davy Abad boxes Johnny Nichols in a return bout of 10 rounds and Chick Rains meets Morgan Lingenfelter and Carl Shafer tangles with Elmer Savage in eight-rounders in St. Louis tomorrow night.

BASEBALL COMEDY

—By NICK ALTROCK—



Nick Altrock

WASHINGTON, July 11. — I haven't seen Miss Frances Perkins' statistics on this, but from what I can gather the rumor factories are now running full blast and have called 300,000 men back to work.

Before the autumn leaves have been shaken down, or even before the tops of those rubber bathing suits have been revulcanized, you will hear that Babe Ruth is going to own the Red Sox next year, that Henry Ford will manage the Detroit Tigers and the New York Giants are going to trade three outfielders to the Metropolitan Opera Company in exchange for the sextet from Lucia. And, in addition to that, the St. Louis Browns' franchise will be moved to Keokuk, Iowa.

And even if none of them is on the level, it'll still help out the nation's unemployment problem. For after the three years of unemployment it's nice to see some of the rumors working.

CAN FAULTY SHAVING CAUSE SERIOUS SKIN TROUBLE?

YES—emphatically yes—faulty shaving can cause serious skin trouble. This is the statement of the Gillette Skin Clinic as issued by its head, an eminent dermatologist.

In fact, the prevalence of skin troubles caused or aggravated by improper shaving methods, prompted foundation of the clinic. It is the clinic's purpose to conduct original research in the practice of shaving and to help assure men greater comfort and convenience.

"If you would keep your skin clear and free from troubles, be sure to use a sharp blade," states the clinic. "A sharp blade is non-irritating to tender skin. There is far less chance for cuts and scrapes that open the skin to infection."

This is the reason why the "BLUE BLADE" is made with such extreme care and stropped to the keenest edges we can produce. By actual test in competition with several other "makes" of blades, the "BLUE BLADE" proved from 23% to 42% sharper.

When you shave with this blade you get the benefit of supreme technical knowledge and experience. We firmly believe that no other shaving instrument can compare with the "BLUE BLADE". Try it and see for yourself. Gillette Safety Razor Company, Boston, Mass.

RECOVERY ACT FACES TEST IN FALL

By MERRYLE S. RUKEYSER
Universal Service.

WASHINGTON, July 11.—Astride of the whirl of excited activity at the national recovery administration here, Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, the chief, seeks to maintain the detachment and objectivity of a scientist.

Mr. Rukeyser

His recent formula suggesting how business might avoid a premature collapse of the recovery movement was based on a reading of significant statistical charts. He saw disturbing evidence that the line measuring price times volume was running ahead of the other related line reflecting wage rates time hours of employment. Usually, he recognizes, there has been such a lag of purchasing power behind price advances, but the General feels that the machinery of the National Recovery Act gives business an opportunity to deal forehandedly with the menace.

AID TO BUYERS

Gen. Johnson's researches have revealed to him that in an inflationary movement only two out of eight benefit directly from having to sell at advanced prices, whereas four times as many are called upon to bear the burden of higher prices. The administrator as a practical economist believed that a rise in basic commodity prices was necessary to get business off the dead center, but he now wants enlightened business to organize to support the higher price structure through rapidly augmenting consumer purchasing power.

In suggesting a price armistice, the General had in mind avoiding mark-ups in anticipation of actual increases in cost. He fully recognizes, however, that when costs of production have gone up that it will be necessary to make certain price revisions. Nevertheless, he hopes that business managers will seek to absorb part of the increase in raw materials and wages, with the idea that increased volume of business will be an offsetting cost reducing factor. Otherwise, he fears that excessive zeal to exploit the consumer will kill the goose that lays the golden egg.

CITES PROGRESS

As we chatted, Gen. Johnson made it clear that he does not argue that the act has already proved its worth. He expects to know more about that in 60 days after more codes are in, but the administrator does feel that the older system of inflexible law has demonstrated its weakness and that the new partnership between business and government is an interesting gamble.

When questioned as to whether the farm price advance was not itself an important factor in restoring purchasing power, Gen Johnson indicated that at the moment farmers had little on hand to sell except hogs. He is not concerned so much with the ultimate catching up of purchasing power with prices, but wants to shorten or eliminate the menacing time lag.

Johnson, pointing out that the act has been on the books only three weeks, thinks good progress has been made toward getting up codes for business. He hopes that under the proposed self government of industries with government supervision that industries will make progress in attuning production schedules to consumption.

OIL PRICE RISE MODIFIED

TULSA, Okla., July 11.—(AP.)—A compromise was reached in the midcontinent crude oil price tangle today and the Continental Oil Company, leader of the group that posted a 33-cent advance to 85 cents a barrel peak last week, droppd back to a 75-cent top.

Barnsdall Refineries immediately met the reduction, and E. B. Reeser, Barnsdall president, predicted the dozen companies that joined Continental will agree to the new figure.

The new Continental-Barnsdall scale is the same as that posted last week by the Magnolia Petroleum Company, of Dallas, a subsidiary of Socony-Vacuum Corporation.

The announcements came less than two hours after the Tidewater Oil Company sided with the Standard group and other companies that resisted the full advance, but settled on a 10-cent increase to a peak of 62 cents.

TULSA, Okla., July 11.—(AP.)—Scattered increases brought the crude oil production of the United States up 21,840 barrels to 2,738,060 barrels daily last week despite a reduction of 40,235 barrels in Oklahoma output, the Oil and Gas Journal reports.

Chesapeake Corp. C. & O. Sales End

CLEVELAND, July 11.—The Chesapeake Corporation has disposed of slightly more than 200,000 shares of Chesapeake and Ohio Railway common stock, and does not contemplate selling any more of the stock, it is learned in authorative quarters. The corporation realized slightly in excess of $9,000,000 from the stock sold and this has been applied to reducing the corporation's bank loans.

Higher-Priced Stocks Pay Larger Rates Of Dividends

—By LEWIS HANEY—
Professor of Economics New York University.

NEW YORK, July 11.—A little study of dividends and prices now prevailing on the Stock Exchange brings out some points of interest.

I find that the largest group of dividend-yielding common stock pays at the rate of $1. Since the prices in this group range from 14 to 67, the yield ranges from over 7 per cent down to 1½ per cent.

The two most common price groups in the $1 dividend list around 30 and 40. So we may say that the typical yields are 2½ per cent and 3 per cent.

ANOTHER COMMON dividend rate is 60 cents. In this group, prices range from 21 to 43, which makes the yields run from 2.7 per cent down to 1.4 per cent. Since the most common price is about 23, the typical yield in this 60-cent group is about 2.6 per cent.

A considerable number of common stocks pay $3. Such stocks range in price from 40 to 93, so the yields run between 7.6 per cent and 3.2 per cent. But as the prices of the $3 stocks tend to group around 40 and 66, we may say that the typical yield is between 4½ per cent and 5.4 per cent.

THIS BEGINS to suggest that the lower-priced issues pay smaller dividend yields. This conclusion is borne out by the following:

Dividend	Yield Range Per Cent	Typical Yield Per Cent
$ .40	1.3—2	1.6
.60	1.5—2.8	2.5
1.00	1.5—7	2.8
1.20	3.3—5.7	4.8
1.50	2.7—4.5	3.4
1.60	4.1—5.8	4.5
2.00	3.5—6.3	4.5
2.50	3.5—4 5	4.5
3.00	3.2—7.6	5.0
4.00	4.3—10	4.5
5.00	5.3—6	5.5

It seems that as we get into the higher dividend stocks, we also find a tendency to higher yields.

IN THE low dividend groups the yield tends to be 2½ per cent or less. This suggests a yield closer to the cost of carrying the stocks and less than savings bank rates.

In the group paying between $1.20 and $4. the typical yield is clearly around 4½ per cent. This is in the neighborhood of the banks customers' loan rate. Such stocks more than carry themselves.

The $5 dividend stocks appear to yield about 5½ per cent.

THIS TENDENCY is largely to be explained by the trend toward speculation in low-priced issues. The prices of such issues have been bid up so that the yields are low.

In fact, one can say that from an investment point of view, most of the better buys seem to lie in stocks selling at upwards of 50. This, however, is a very rough statement, since it makes no allowance for earnings and the possibility of increased dividends.

IF WE assume that the average company can ordinarily pay out about two-thirds of earnings as dividends, we may set up the following hypothetical figures:

A 60-cent dividend should correspond to a hypothetical average earning potential of about 90 cents a share. Similarly, $1 suggests earnings of $1.50, $2 suggests $3 in earnings, etc.

ON THIS basis of figuring (admittedly rough and hypothetical), we may say that the low-priced dividend payers are selling for many times their earnings per share.

My guess is that many stocks paying 50 cents to $1 are selling for 20 to over 30 times probable earnings in sight. Stocks paying around $2, perhaps, sell for 13 to 20 times immediate earnings prospects. Those paying over $2 to $5, probably sell for 12 to 15 times.

Clearly the speculative discounting of the future has gone far, especially in the case of cheap stocks.

I have not considered non-dividend payers, or stocks selling for 30 times deficits.

GRAINS ROCKET TO NEW PEAK LEVELS

CHICAGO, July 11.—(AP.)—A furiously advancing market, the wildest of many in recent weeks, took all the leading grains to new high price records today.

What chiefly set the markets on fire was a government crop report showing a wheat yield under domestic requirements by more than 100,000,000 bushels and the smallest in 40 years as well as a corn crop smaller than any harvested in 30 years.

Every wheat future went far above the dollar mark, and for the first time rye also passed the dollar a bushel line, soaring more than 10 cents a bushel on top of an 8-cent gains the day before.

It was not a shouting market, wit hthe joyous roar that first showed recovery from the bank holiuday, but one of deadly speed, with every nerve of traders strung to the highest pitch for instantaneous deals.

Rye prices were especially stimulated by the fact that the government forecast pointed to a rye yield substantially below domestic requirements. In addition, was increasing belief among traders that use of rye would be enlarged as a result of new taxes on wheat.

All the markets closed flurried, rye 8¼-9 cents above yesterday's finish, wheat, 3½-4⅛ up, corn, 2½-2⅞ advanced, oats at ⅝-1¼ gain, and provisions showing a rise of 17 to 40 cents.

SOCONY SOVIET DEAL UPHELD

ALBANY, N. Y., July 11.—The Standard Oil Company of New York and the Vacuum Oil Company won their case against M. Salimoff & Co., and others involving Russian oil rights, in a judgment handed down by the court of appeals today.

The suit hinged upon the validity of nationalization decrees whereby the soviet may confiscate property of its nationals. The plaintiffs were former owners of oil lands in the Baku district and charged that the soviet government in 1917 wrongfully seized all oil lands and oil-producing properties in Russia. They sought an accounting from Socony and Vacuum for oil alleged to have been bought by the defendants from the government as agent for the plaintiffs. Socony and Vacuum had won in the lower court.

ALLIED BARES STOCK COST

NEW YORK, July 11.—(AP.)—Orlando F. Weber, president of the Allied Chemical & Dye Corporation in a letter to stockholders, made public today, disclosed that the company held 187,189 shares of its own common stock and 47,309 shares of preferred on June 30 last.

This information was given in connection with the agreement recently made with the stock exchange in which the company promised to report more fully on its financial affairs.

The common shares, Weber said, are carried on the company's books at cost amounting to $25,837,300. The market value at the close of business on July 8 was $24,334,570. The preferred was carried on books at cost amounting to $5,640,485 comparing with a July 8 market value of $5,700,735.

The company's holdings of U. S. government and other marketable securities carried at a stated cost of $92,404,341 had a market value on December 31, of approximately $28,000,000 less than cost, Weber reported. At the close of business July 8 the market value was approximately $2,400,000 under cost. The letter said:

"In 1931, in view of the extraordinary economic conditions then prevailing, $40,000,000 was transferred from surplus to contingency reserves principally for the protection of the company's U. S. government and other marketable securities. There is accordingly now available $37,600,000 of that reserve for release to surplus or for transfer to some other reserve."

CROPS POOREST IN 40 YEARS

WASHINGTON, July 11.—(AP.)—The Crop Reporting Board reported that the first six months of this year have been less favorable for crop production than any similar period in 50 years.

It estimated the nation's wheat production at 495,681,000 bushels as of July 1, and predicted that with average weather during the rest of the growing season the wheat crop would be the smallest in this country since 1893. Normally the country produces about 850,000,000 bushels.

Corn production was estimated at 2,384,032,000 bushels and the board said that the crop probably would fall below 2,400,000,000 bushels for the fourth time in 32 years. Oats production which has exceeded a billion bushels every year since 1911, appeared likely to fall below 700,000,000 bushels for the first time since 1897.

Last year's wheat production was 726,000,000 bushels, while the corn crop was 2,876,000,000 bushels.

The first estimate of the spring wheat crop indicated production this year would be 159,914,000 bushels as compared with 265,000,000 bushels produced last year.

Winter wheat production is indicated at 335,767,000 bushels, compared with 341,000,000 bushels indicated a month ago and 462,000,000 bushels produced last year.

The indicated production of barley is 170,000,000 bushels, against 300,000,000 produced last year; rye 25,300,000 bushels, against 40,400,000.

Five Rock Island Committees Named

NEW YORK, July 11.—(AP.)—Indications that holders of a large amount of securities of the Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific Railway Company may refuse to support the reorganization plans of the management were seen today in the formation of five committee to represent owners of parent and subsidiary company bonds.

In a joint statement the committees, representing insurance companies, banks and other large interests, asserted that any plan "prepared under the auspices of the railway company and by its nominees will represent merely the debtors' view of the treatment to be accorded to its bondholders and other creditors."

'Stude' Receivers Report Progress

NEW YORK, July 11.—(AP.)—The report of receivers of the Studebaker Corp., filed with the New York Stock Exchange, shows for the first quarter net loss of $3,156,000, but also a subsequent advance into profitable operation. Net operating profits were realized in April and May, and prospects are that final June figures will show even larger gains, it was stated.

The company's net worth on May 31 was given as $69,885,000.

Indiana Standard Meets Gas Advance

CHICAGO, July 11.—The Standard Oil Company of Indiana has raised normal tank wagon service prices of all grades of gasoline by ½-cent a gallon, meeting prices already established by leading competitors about 10 days ago.

STOCKS WAVER AS GRAINS TAKE SPOTLIGHT

NEW YORK, July 11.—(AP.)—Grains again purloined the spotlight from financial markets today, leaving most stocks and bonds to flutter rather aimlessly in the shadows of uncertainty.

Little attention was paid to the usually potent dollar factor. The British pound dropped about 6 cents under its yesterday's close and leading gold exchanges were reactionary. Rye soared about 10 cents a bushel at Chicago, and wheat and corn jumped 1 to 3 cents a bushel. Bar silver firmed and copper was steady. Bonds were hesitant. Shares of some of the "wet" companies were given another rush and steel issues displayed enthusiasm. Many pivotal stocks moved narrowly.

Gains of 1 to 3 or more points were recorded by National Distillers, U. S. Industrial Alcohol, American Commercial Alcohol, Owens-Illinois, Celanese, Youngstown Sheet and Tube, U. S. Steel preferred, Vanadium, Republic Steel and American Rolling Mills. Case got up about a point, but farm issues were rather indifferent to booming grains. The rails and motors did little.

While the share market was disposed to ignore, to a considerable extent, the substantial rally of the dollar just as it paid little attention to its slump yesterday, exchange dealers reported there was a noticeable lessening of speculative enthusiasm on the "short" side of the American monetary unit. With the British pound back to around its old gold parity, and the warning of English authorities that there was no real reason for this drastic upward movement, traders in both stocks and exchanges began to transfer their affections to other motivating influences.

Some market analysts still are not convinced that Paris is too firmly tied to gold and fear she may yet lead the few remaining gold standard countries into the exchange divorce courts. Most observers agree that if leading European nations should sever the golden tie, American markets might suffer a monetary relapse. It is pointed out, however, that, in a world-wide inflationary race, stocks and commodities might be expected to reflect currency depreciation by a proportionate appreciation.

SHARP RALLY IN DOLLAR

NEW YORK, July 11.—(AP.)—Dollar exchange rallied sharply today.

The rise followed the speech made in Parliament yesterday by Neville Chamberlain, Chancellor of the British Exchequer, who said he expected American currency to become seasonally strong in the autumn and that its recent decline has been due not to intrinsic weakness but mostly to speculation. It was assumed that this statement had been followed by considerable covering by operators in dollar exchange.

The pound sterling, which yesterday came close to its old parity of $4.86⅝, opened at $4.72, a decline of 7¾ cents under last night's closing price. French francs opened at 5.55 cents, an overnight loss of .13 of a cent. Swiss francs were off .56 of a cent to 27.60 cents. Dutch guilders lost .95 of a cent at a quotation of 57.50 cents and Belgian belgas weer quoted at 19.85 cents, a drop of .23 of a cent.

Other exchanges also gave ground. Italian lira stood at 7.55 cents, off .14 of a cent, and German marks were 34 cents, a decline of .61 of a cent. The Canadian dollar opened at 95.25 cents, off .00375 of a cent.

Northwest 'Phone Merger Approved

WASHINGTON, July 11.—(AP.)—Examiner Haskell C. Davis today recommended the Interstate Commerce Commission approve concolidation of the telephone companies serving Minneapolis and St. Paul, Minnesota.

The examiner told the commission that acquisition by the Northwestern Bell Telephone Company of the Tri-State Consolidated Telephone Company would be in the best interests of the public of the two cities. The Northwestern Bell now serves Minneapolis and the Tri-State serves St. Paul.

Sugar Market.

NEW YORK, July 11.—Raw sugar advanced 5 points early today. Futures opened improved on covering and buying by trade interests against sales in the spot market, as well as active speculative buying, particularly in the December position. The noon market was 2 to 3 points net higher.

Refined was firm, influenced by the higher raw market. Several out-of-town refiners will advance 10 points at the close tonight to 4.70.

Time Money Rates Up; Call Unchanged

NEW YORK, July 11.—(AP.)—Timemoney rates hardened slightly today. For 90 days the rate was 1 per cent, against ¾ to 1 per cent before; four months, 1-1¼ against 1; five months, 1¼ against 1-1¼; six months, 1¼-1½ against 1-½. Call money on the stock exchange ruled at 1 per cent, and at the same rate in the outside call market.

LOCAL MARKET LIST HOLDS STEADY

Securities on the Pittsburgh Stock Exchange continued to mark time today. The uncertain tone on the "big board" and the recent disposition of the market to ignore "good news" has caused traders in many cases to take in sail and await more definite indication of the near future trend. Today's movements in the strictly local stocks were extremely narrow as was the case yesterday. Volume of business held up fairly well and the moderate offerings were absorbed without difficulty. In fact, there has been no sign here of a desire to unload holdings in any noticeable amount.

Lone Star Gas was quiet as were most of the other fuels. The heavy industrials maintained their possition as group leaders of the market. The brewings were firm on rumors of increased beer prices. Pittsburgh Screw and Bolt continued active within fractional range of the year's best price.

Jones & Laughlin Steel Corporation common stock spurted ahead on the New York Curb Exchange, following a 12-point rise yesterday on small volume. The stock reached a new high for the year, above 70. This compares with a low at 19.

COTTON PRICES RULE STEADY

NEW YORK, July 11.—Cotton futures opened steady, unchanged to 5 points higher, with lower foreign exchange offset by renewed commission house buying. July, 10.60c; October, 10.95c; December, 11.08c; January, 11.16c; March, 11.34c; May, 11.49c.

There appeared to be a good many overnight buying orders in the market at the opening through commission houses and trade interests, but after they had been supplied, prices turned easier under realizing, which appeared to be influenced by nervousness over the action of the dollar and uncertainty as to the prospects for acreage curtailment.

October sold off from 10.95c to 10.79c by the end of the first half hour, with active months generally showing net losses of about 9 to 10 points.

The market stiffened later in the morning on a spurt of buying and covering influenced by the action of the grain market. December and later months made new highs for the movement and the general list sold about 4 to 7 points net higher, but this bulge met renewed liquidation and scattered local selling. December, which had advanced to 11.12c, sold back to 11.02c. The midday market was 4 points net lower to 2 points higher.

Liverpool Wheat Market.

LIVERPOOL, July 11.—The market was due 1 to 1⅜c higher. Opened 1⅛ to 1½c up, and at 12:15 p. m. was 1⅛ to 1½c higher.

Financial Topics

'Out of Joint' Times Alters Color of Crop Report

Under more normal circumstances the indicated damage to this year's wheat crops, which now promise to be the smallest in 40 years, might be much more bearish than bullish fundamentally, certainly a normal crop commanding moderate prices is desirable over an extreme short crop bringing more substantial prices. The former would spread the benefits, whereas the latter condition would make for spottiness. The last government report on stocks of wheat in farmers' hand indicated a total of some 220,000,000 bushels remaining on farms as of April 1. Thus some farmers presumably have benefited from the higher prices received for this wheat in the last few months.

Strength and activity in Jones and Laughlin common on the New York Curb is said to be a reflection of the increase in operations to a level where it is believed coverage of the preferred dividend is provided. The floating supply of common stock is limited, and it is reported that several large blocks overhanging the market for some time have recently been liquidated. The stock sold at 75 today, which compares with the record high of 405, made during the boom days.

Incoming business of General Electrice Company as measured by a four-week moving average has crossed the line of business at this time last year, continuing the improvement which set in in March. Demand has not been limited to any particular lines. The second half of the year should make a much better showing than the first 6 months of 1933. In the first 6 months of 1932 General Electric earned 27 cents a common share. For the first 6 months this year, only about two-thirds of this total will be reached. In the second half of 1932 General Electric showed earnings of only 14 cents a share, with the worst nowa pparently behind. The sales trend for 1933 is running counter to that of last year.

All agencies are willing to sell copper at 9 cents a pound delivered in the domestic market. Apparently, domestic fabricators are desirous of forming better opinion of stock market and exchange trends before making further sizeable purchases. Orders continue to come from ultimate consumers to wire and brass mills in good volume and with the higher prices, more specifications are being made upon old commitments by consumers. Buying is quiet, with sales as high as 9.25 cents and some as low as 9 cents.

Bituminous coal loadings at Lake Erie docks during the week ended July 3, made a new high record this year for the third consecutive week, with total dumpings of 1,045,987 tons. This compares with 948,216 tons in the preceding week and 679,481 tons in the same week a year ago.

Total loadings for the season were 8,652,102 tons, compared with 6,194,692 in the same period of 1932 and 9,170,211 tons in 1931.

James H. Rand, Jr., president of Remington Rand, Inc., stated that while reports were not complete the company would show a profit in June. Bookings in June were up 25 per cent over June, 1932, and May this year. He said that this was the first time in three years that the company had had two consecutive months in which bookings had exceeded the same month in the previous year.

High Level of Steel Output Assured For Quarter

—By GEORGE H. SNYDER—

THE INCREASE of 176,856 tons in the unfilled orders of the United States Steel Corporation indicates that steel mill operations are to continue at levels at least equal to those of the present for the next few months.

It must be realized that a part of this increase was due to the eagerness of consumers to cover their requirements at old prices before higher quotations were put into effect. Specifications for delivery of steel have continued in heavy volume since the first of the month, so that it appears quite certain that most of the material is going immediately into consumption.

Unfilled orders at the end of June amounted to 2,106,671 tons. This was the highest since May 31, 1932, when unfilled orders stood at 2,117,162 tons.

Auto Builders Remain Active

UP TO THE PRESENT time there has been no recession in the demand for steel from the automobile builders. The active season for motor car construction has run considerably longer than its usual period. It is generally expected that there will be some recession in this type of buying within the next month.

The pause in this type of business may be balanced by increases in other lines. The railroads are beginning to take shipments of steel after a lapse of over a year during which their purchases were negligible. Increases in rail traffic and the need for doing neglected maintenance work are placing some of the steam lines in a position where it is essential that they buy steel.

Steel Prices Holding Firm

AS A RESULT of the increase in steel demand since the bank holiday, price shading has practically disappeared. Firm quotations have been established on the heavier lines while prices have been materially increased on the lighter lines during the past month.

All indications point to the fact that the steel companies will do well in the third quarter in comparison to their performances of a profitable past. The more efficient companies established themselves on a profitable basis in the second quarter. Most of them, however, did not cross the line between profits and losses until May. With operations for the third quarter assured at the present rate or better, income accounts for the period should be encouraging.

SAVAGE PARADISE -:- Audacious Girl Reveals Secrets Of the Southern Seas -:- By MARGARET MATCHES

CHAPTER XLVII.

After weeks on end of comparative solitude, capped by the lazy uneventful life at Lorengau, where only nightfall and daybreak mark the passing of time, the closely crowded, convivial Marsina was bewildering. She was more than ever bursting with passengers, for whoever could was returning to Rabaul or nearby plantations for Christmas. Planters, recruiters, and gold miners were sleeping on deck and on settees in the salon and dining room. The bar was working overtime. Aboard there were no tourists. The gold rushers were the hellions of the ship. If they had struck gold, they were celebrating, and every one was in on the party. If they had failed, they celebrated anyhow to cheer themselves up.

There is something about the Marsina, beastly uncomfortable as she is, that is part of the charm of the islands. The Marsina belongs to the islanders, no one else would voluntarily travel on her. She is hot from engine and galley. She rolls like a toy skiff. She reeks of various unsweet odors from stem to stern. When her whistle blows, whoever is reclining within a radius of 15 feet of the funnel gets a shower of condensed steam. There isn't a foot of empty space for exercise, and her foredeck carries a cargo of petrol, cattle, and kanakas. She is not very clean, and she is painted the most depressing shade of brown known to man, and twice to date she has been set afire and been sunk to salvage her. But she has atmosphere. And if you like the islands and all the queer, topsyturvy life out there, you can't help liking the Marsina, no matter how glad you are to get off her.

MYSTERIOUS STRANGER

For two days I had seen among the passengers a lank young man, as nondescriptly dressed in threadbare khaki as the rest, but with an impeccably waxed mustache. I was haunted by the thought, "Who is that man?" That one should meet a "townie" from New York aboard the Marsina was too improbable to credit. He wore a great turquoise ring set in beaten silver on his left ringfinger. I had seen it before. Then some one said to me: "There's another American on board. Miss America. He's an anthropologist bound for Aitape." They didn't know his name.

I myself didn't much resemble the young woman that had started adventuring from New York nearly a year before. I was now as brown as a Polynesian, somewhat trampish as to attire, and my hair that had not been cut for many weeks was desperately in need of care. Better shaggy hair than the ministrations of the Nulon's Chinese cook as a barber.

Well, who was the mysterious stranger? We soon met, of course. He had been my dinner partner back in New Jersey at one of my last pre-adventure parties. I should have known him. No one but C. J. would take mustache wax into the interior of New Guinea, or could wear an air of distinction in such threadbare clothes as were his.

JUST CURIOSITY

I intimated that I had heard he was now pursuing anthropology, and was assured that, like myself, his being there was merely in the interest of unsatisfied curiosity and not of science. The handle of "anthropologist" had been thrust upon him in Rabaul, where the community was more or less bewildered by a very recent influx of young Americans wandering over the face of the earth with no stern, or even articulate, purpose. There was still another one back in Rabaul waiting for a draft from home that would enable him to join C. J. in Aitape, with a movie camera and a ton or so of scientific equipment wherewith to study cannibals and their habitat.

C. J. had been promised what I had bitterly regretted was closed to me because of my sex, a government patrol into the interior with the D. O. at Aitape. The object of such a patrol is to collect taxes, to impress upon the natives that the nebulous thing they know as Gov'men' is still there, and to try any cases that need the D. O.'s intervention.

The Marsina stopped in at Maty Island in the Admiraltys. On this and the neighboring island of Aua live a race entirely different from the surrounding natives of Melanesia and Micronesia. They are uncommonly good-looking people, tall and straight. The women's hair is soft and wavy and black, and hangs like a mane around their shoulders. The ordinary dress of the women is a single leaf fastened to a string about their loins. But on boat days they wear laplaps of broad royal blue and gold stripes. They are a Malayo-Polynesian race, and do not inter-marry with the surrounding tribes. But this in-breeding has seemed to create no moral or physical degeneracy. The rumor is that the people on Aua and Maty are dying out. There were once many more than the respective 800 and 275.

A WHITE RULER

An Aua is a white man named Charlie Mathies, who has lived there over 30 years now, with no connection with the outside world. Many years ago he and his partner set up a trading station among the natives. There was an uprising, the partner was murdered. It was then that many natives fled in unseaworthy canoes. The surviving trader put down the uprising, and when things quieted down set himself up as dictator of the island and married the chief's daughter. Until a few years ago he had cut himself off from all contact with the world, even from Rabaul. But of late years he has had a change of heart, and has compromised with civilization to the extent of subscribing to a dozen magazines, some of them American. These, presumably, are left for him at Maty Island, and fetched to him by outrigger.

Three days later I bade C. J. good-bye at Aitape, where he boarded the government schooner Aloha in company with the D. O. He was very shabby, and he had $65 to his name, plus tinned provisions enough to last him for several months. But his mustache was waxed. And a splendid adventure was before him.

Two days out from Rabaul, I was taken ill. Fever. I had plenty of nurses. The Germans gave me pink quinine, and the Australians gave me white. And I alternately shivered and sweated so miserably that I didn't care what happened or what color I took into my agonized stomach. But my head rang like a carillon, and the odd, feverish, sickish odor that one's body exudes during an attack of malaria hung about me like vapor.

HOSPITAL PATIENT

Weak and wobbly, I returned to Rabaul. Two days later I went to the hospital with dengue or breakbone fever.

The hospital at Rabaul is a pleasant place—when one is able to sit up and take notice. It is a frame building set in a garden high on Namanula Hill, overlooking New Britain and the sea. Mornings and nights are fragrant and cool. Its few rooms are huge and high-ceilinged, and the great double doors leading out to front and back verandas are never closed.

At this particular time Sari was a patient at the hospital—the yellow-haired, scorpion-tongued, genteelly-frowned-upon woman from Sydney and God-knows-where. Sari had hit Rabaul shortly before I myself had left it months before. She had been imported from "down south" by the trading firm which had given me a job. Until that time the owners had apparently considered men more practicable as clerks than girls; but having a sudden change of heart, they took this flier in females. It was not an unqualified success.

Sari impressed herself deeply on the consciousness of Rabaul.

She had started in all wrong if she wanted to gain favor with the feminine elegancia of Rabaul, but I doubt if she cared about that. She was a "Pommy," meaning English, and she made no attempt to conceal her feeling of superiority about the fact. The first rumor Rabual had of her was that on the ship up she had declared she intended to "commercialize her affections." It was a bad start. Women don't talk about such commercialization in Rabaul.

UNTIDY WOMAN

Sari was a rather terrible-looking young woman; she seemed hard, not like a courtezan, but like a moral anarchist. And how cruel her tongue was! She had a superb flow of comparisons and profanity. Also she had extraordinarily keen perceptions; she could and did go below surfaces in a way that was a delight to witness, if you happened not to be the victim. She was naturally sloppy about her dress; slipper straps went unbuttoned, uneven skirts were hiked enough to reveal an expanse of leg above rolled stockings; and yet, sometimes, dressed soberly in a black dinner dress of respectable length, her short yellow hair sleek, and she sobered by a temporary moodiness, she looked like a lady.

I had worked side by side with her for a short time, but I had neither cultivated nor avoided her. I was afraid she might pick on my weaknesses, and hold them up to my shrinking gaze. However, for some reason, Sari laid off me. Maybe she never had time to get around to me. I don't know.

But the men liked her, despite her sudden fits of brooding.

And now here she was in the hospital with me. One morning, in impossible orange-and-black pajamas with a gorgeously embroidered dragon across her chest, she appeared and perched herself on my bed. She'd been pretty sick with fever for over a week and was in a softened mood. There was something youthful and almost appealing about her. (She admitted 32.)

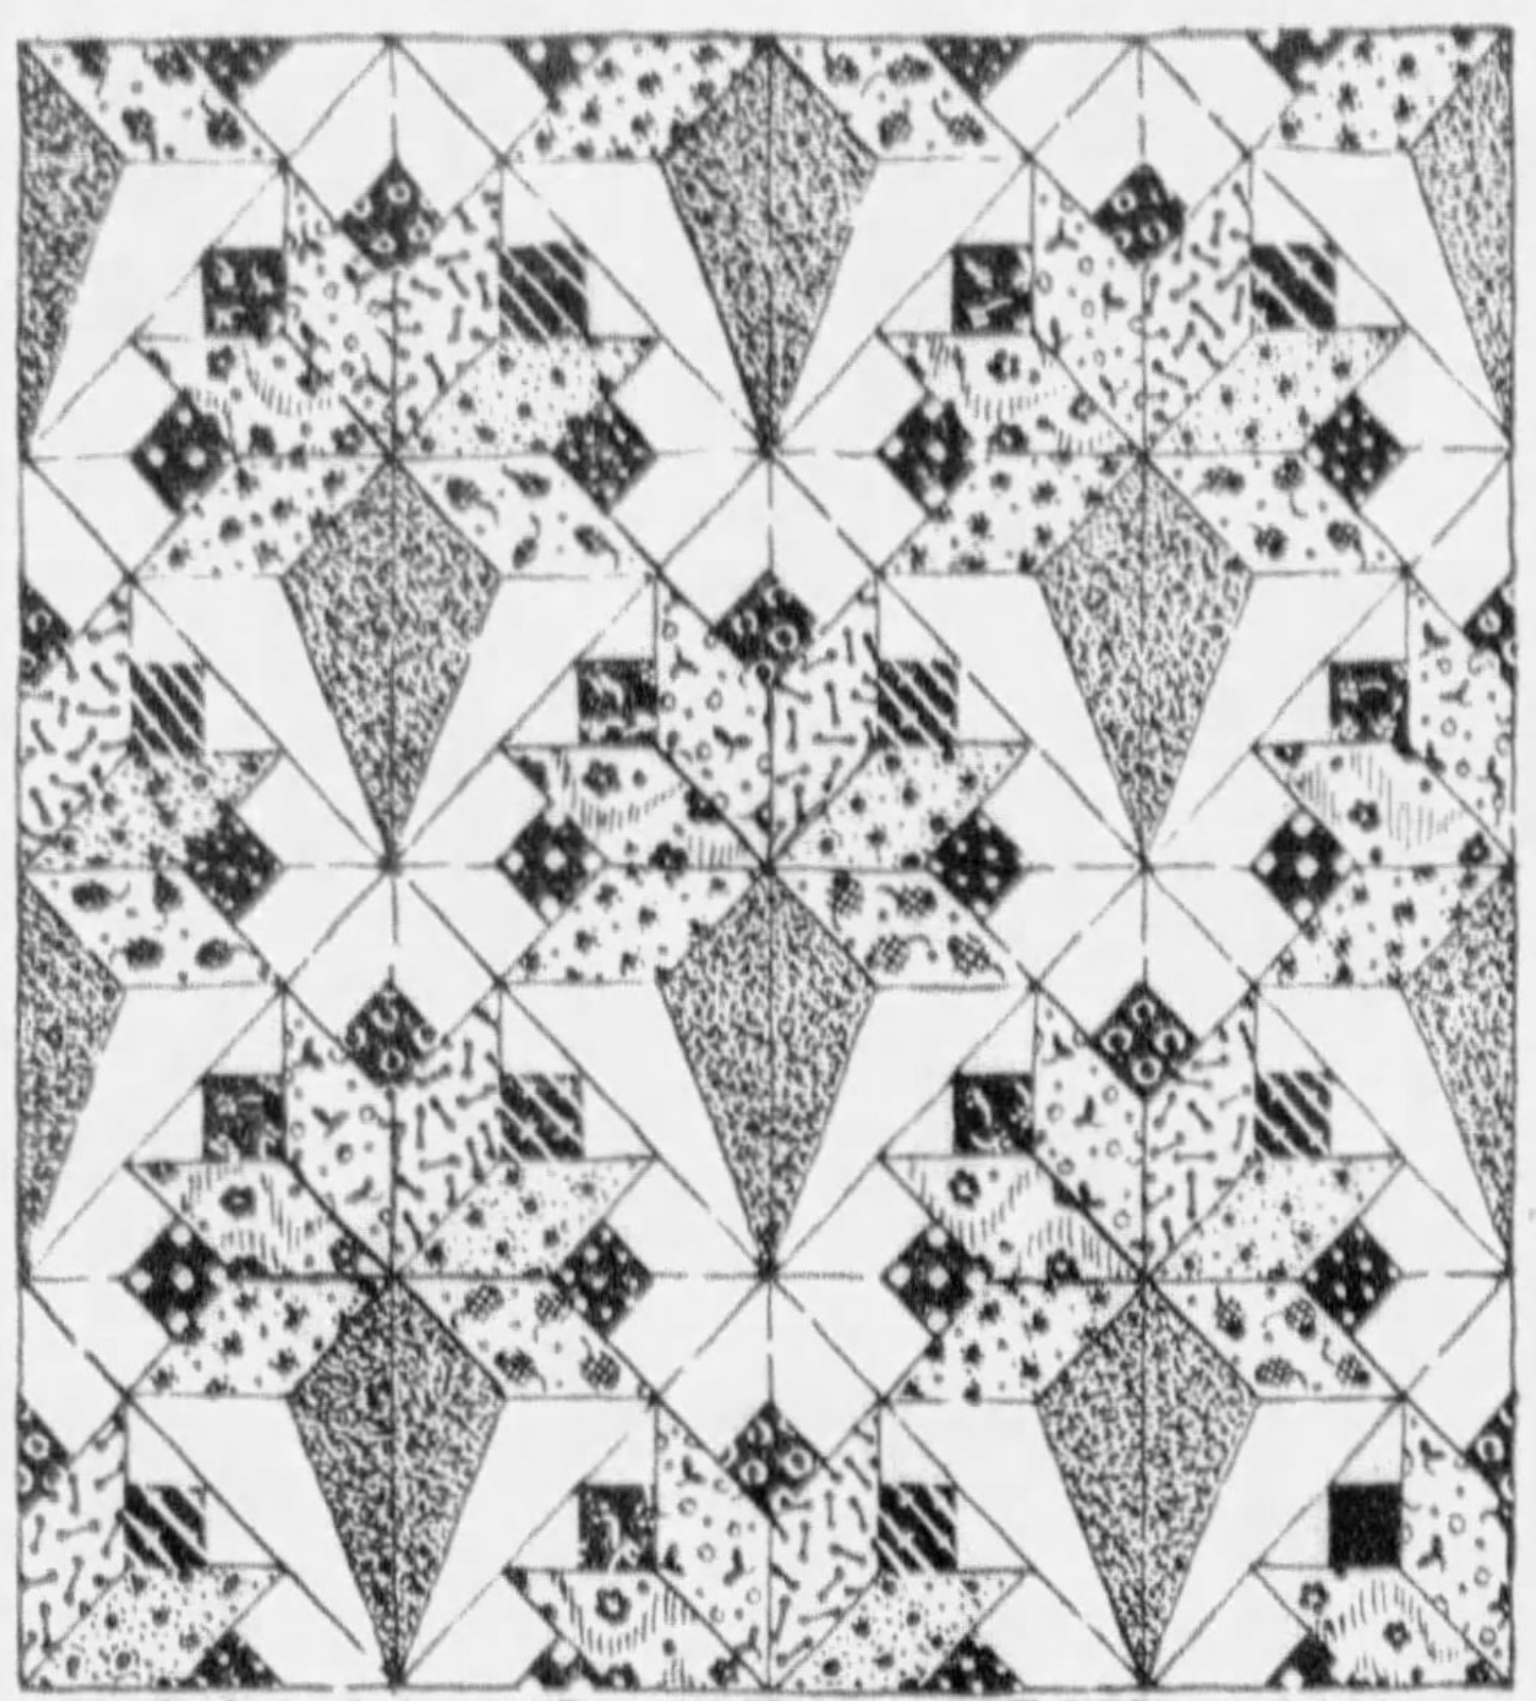
PATCHWORK QUILT PATTERN



OLD-FASHIONED NOSEGAY PATTERN NO.486

By LAURA WHEELER

The quaint old-fashioned bouquet of grandmother's day holds a special charm for the modern woman. In it seemed to be tied up all the demureness that is supposed to have characterized the girl of long ago. The quiltmaker, too, felt that its charm should be preserved, and so she made it into a quilt as quaint as the bouquet itself. Aside from its pictorial quality, it has the desirable feature of being made of scraps of material, which, by their variety, carry out the feeling of the variegated old-time bouquet. Each block could have the same scraps, or could be varied.

The pattern comes to you with complete simple instructions for cutting, sewing and finishing, together with yardage chart, diagram of quilt to help arrange the blocks for single and double bed size, and a diagram of block which serves as a guide for placing the patches and suggests contrasting materials.

Send 10c for this pattern to Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph Needlecraft Department, 82 Eighth avenue, New York City.

The Beauty Box

By HELEN FOLLETT

Cosmetic chemists who offer eye shadows are continually adding to their color list. There are new blue-greens that are becoming to blonde and brunette and the betwixt-and-between types. Begin the application in the center of the eyelid, work out gradually toward the eye corners, let the pigment do a fadeaway as it creeps close to the eyebrow. The girl with dark eyes, dark hair and a heavy coat of tan will find a new bronze shadow that will make her little heart rejoice and be glad.

Sties will devastate the eyelashes. Unless treated properly, others will tag along, and a stye certainly puts a girl completely out of form. Three or four times a day apply gauze that has been dipped in a hot boric acid solution. Use a large compress, one that will cover the surface of both eyelids. Don't lance the stye. When there is a full yellow point, touch it with a cotton pledget, press out the substance gently.

Beauty shops offer special bluings to be used for the purpose of doing away with yellow streaks in white hair. They are of a purplish cast, contain mild bleaching properties. A few drops are added to the last rinsing water after the snowy crest has been shampooed.

The Junior Patrol Mail Box

Good news today, fellows!

We had a letter from Junior today! Junior, you know, is away in the country getting well from having the measles. That's why he isn't in the comic strip on the boat trip with Snuggins and Spike, and that's why he isn't on the radio program either.

He's almost well now, too, and feeling almost as good as ever. But he is staying in the country to be with his mother and dad on a vacation. Here's his letter:

"Dear Quin Hall and Spike and Snuggins:

"Here I am at Brady Lake—swimming every day—playing in the sun—and getting as brown as an Indian. I look like I had really taken a cruise down the Mississippi in a canoe.

"And speaking of canoes—I have one of my own here which I paddle around in and have quite a lot of fun. We can't get the Sun-Tele at the store here, so I am completely lost as to what the broadcast has developed since I left. I miss being with you.

"I hope things are coming all right for you—and will you give my regards to Miss White and Uncle Ted and the others?

"I wish all the members of the Junior Patrol had the same chance for an all outdoor vacation that I am having. It certainly builds you up in fine shape to go back to school.

"Be sure and remember me—
"JUNIOR.'

Isn't that a swell letter, fellows? Junior's address in the country is Edlis D'Enulio, R. F. D. 1, Kent, O. On his letter he has a cute picture of a Scottie dog, with the words, "I beg for an early answer." Maybe you would like to write to him, but don't forget that Uncle Quin and Spike and Snuggins would like to hear from you, too, so if you send letters for Junior to the Sun-Telegraph we will forward them.

We're sure glad to hear that Junior is feeling so good. But if you are not as "brown as an Indian" like Junior already, please be careful how you go about getting that way. The hot sun can burn just like fire, and before you know it, you will become very sick and your skin will be burned. The sensible way for a member of the Junior Patrol or any kid to get a nice coat of tan is to expose your body gradually, just a few minutes at time. It isn't necessary to get burned.

Be careful when you play tennis, too. Many fellows play tennis with their shirts off, and they forget that old Mister Sun is up there in the sky blazing away.

Here's a letter from Robert Shape, of Addison, Pa. He inclosed the names and ages of four other fellows, all friends of his who want to join the Junior Patrol. We're sorry you forgot the pledge slips for them, though, Robert. It's a rule that we can't send a membership card and button for a new member until we have either a pledge slip or a copy of the pledge signed by him in the Junior Patrol office.

So don't forget those pledges, fellows. Just tear them out of the Sun-Telegraph or make a copy of the pledge slip, and send them in. Junior Patrol clubs have been organized in many places now, but we want a club in every neighborhood, so there is lots of room left for more Captains and Lieutenants.

Here in the Mail Box we have suggested several times that every member of the Junior Patrol should spend at least part of his time reading good books this summer.

Just the other day, someone suggested to us that we ought to remind Junior Patrol members that a newspaper is like a big book published new every day. Yes, fellows, you ought to make it a habit to read the Sun-Telegraph, too. Write and tell us what you think about the editorials or the news stories.

There are a lot of letters we are keeping for tomorrow. Don't forget that we want pictures, drawings and poetry any time.

Another Bale of Correspondence

We clean up another mess of rocked-ribbed correspondence dating from the years 1914 to 1920.

We concede that we are backward, dilatory and procrastinating. But on a hot July Tuesday morning there is something cool about an old letter:

Don Elvirado: Good idea. Doghouse with two doors so pups can chase their tails. Have it patented.

Tholens: All bungalows must be seen to be appreciated. Don't like the idea of surf bathing in the cellar.

Blanchard, Rochester: Made that same speech in your town seven times. If it flops again I'll admit they don't like it.

OLD LETTERS ARE COOLING

Dear Doc: More power to the bunion crop. Hope the graduating podiatrists will not object to a spectator who keeps his shoes on.

Morgan: Please destroy that list.

Western Union: Didn't know Steve Brodie was a messenger boy. In that case he didn't jump. He was pushed.

Billingsley: Sorry, but my fifth butler mislaid the parachute.

Lew Bieger: Will concede 46 states and hold two out for spring cleaning time.

Bob Sweet, M. D.: Have no use for a middle-aged raccoon coat at this writing.

Donneger: We were hungry at times. But food never got so scarce that we didn't have roaches in the kitchen.

McManus: Tell the Seminoles they can come out now. Andy Jackson ain't been seen around here for years.

Bill, Junior: He has been to so many peace conferences he doesn't know where he got the black eyes.

Quisitive: Max ain't no relation. But all the Baers are a bit balmy.

Ellwing: America is constructing 32 battleboats just in case somebody gets too friendly.

Currency Devaluation

Most of the Gold Nations Pursued Themselves the Policy Now Adopted by the United States

Far from being a hit-or-miss affair, the government sponsorship of domestic revival is a methodical, planned, courageous undertaking which the administration intends to carry through regardless of foreign efforts to dissuade us from the path which has been chosen.

President Roosevelt made this very plain in his rebuke to those foreign nations, which, by insisting upon the immediate stabilization of the dollar, would have interfered with the American revival.

By stabilization these nations meant the international value of the dollar. They are anxious about the international value, but the United States primarily is concerned with and interested in the domestic value of the dollar—how much in goods and services it will buy, and how much in debts it will pay.

The "gold bloc" of Europe have been most insistent in their endeavors to have the dollar stabilized.

Just what countries constitute the gold bloc? Here they are:

France, Holland, Switzerland, Belgium, Italy, and Poland.

All of them are terribly mad because the United States is intent upon a revaluation, downwards, of the dollar. They are horrified that this country frankly admits this objective.

One would imagine from the horror expressed by the European gold bloc countries that currency devaluation is something new to them.

The facts are these:

Every one of the countries in the European gold bloc which participated in the World War has ALREADY REDUCED THE VALUE OF THEIR OWN MONEY.

From the World War, of course, sprang the economic problems which since have plagued the entire world.

Here is the record of the gold bloc countries:

	Pre-War Gold Parity	New Gold Parity	Per Cent of Depreciation
France	19.30c	3.92c	79.68 per cent
Belgium	19.30	13.90	27.95 per cent
Italy	19.30	5.26	72.74 per cent
xPoland	19.30	11.22	41.65 per cent
xxHolland	40.20	40.20
xxSwitzerland	19.30	19.30

xAfter the war Poland adopted the French franc basis in 1924, but altered it to the present parity in 1927.

xxNot engaged in the World War.

Thus it is evident that the United States is far from setting any precedent in currency devaluation by letting the dollar seek its own natural level. The gold bloc nations themselves have differed widely in determining upon their revalued currencies.

And NONE OF THE EUROPEAN GOLD BLOC COUNTRIES ASKED ANY OTHER COUNTRY'S CONSENT OR PERMISSION TO DEVALUATE, except, perhaps, Poland, which is a satellite of France. The new levels of their currencies were decided upon on the basis of their own particular internal requirements.

President Roosevelt in his messages to the World Economic Conference reiterated the American government's intention to restore a stabilized dollar, but he let the world know in no uncertain terms that such stabilization will be at a level which will WORK TO THE GREATEST BENEFIT OF THE UNITED STATES. When this has been achieved, the whole world will benefit.

American dollar depreciation from gold is still considerable below the original gold-value of the English pound. England, too, would like to the have the dollar stabilized.

The Roosevelt messages, in effect, were an economic declaration of independence by the United States.

Timid Witnesses

Legal Proceedings Should Be Instituted, if Necessary, to Force the Giving of Evidence.

Witnesses fearful of retaliation from those who would be injured by their testimony are giving trouble in two investigations in which Pittsburgh is vitally interested.

Sweatshop victims are afraid that if they tell the Gallagher commission how they are oppressed by their employers they will lose their jobs. To relieve them of this fear their names are to be kept secret.

The solution of the difficulty in the other case is more perplexing. It is the case of the bombing of the Ban Box cabaret. In discharging some of the suspects yesterday Magistrate Leo Rothenberg let it be known that witnesses are afraid to testify.

This has always been a great obstacle in the prosecution of bombing outrages. It has always been the excuse for the failure to obtain convictions.

It is time that recalcitrant witnesses were made to feel their responsibility to the community. Witnesses who the police know are able to present valuable evidence should be forced to take the stand, and if they lie should be prosecuted for perjury.

The North Side Market

The Real Estate Board's Report Is of Value in Connection With the Present Complaint.

North Side businessmen complain that the municipal market house there is in a dilapidated condition and no longer attracts the farmers who once used it as a place for the sale of their produce.

Political management, they aver, has resulted in waste and inefficiency.

There appears to be good ground for this charge. The Community Research Bureau of the Pittsburgh Real Estate Board reported three years ago that the North Side Market had a net loss of about $13,000 annually, and that "analysis of the expense of operation shows costs which are treble maintenance costs for such like areas and service elsewhere."

City Council would do well to study this report in connection with the present complaint and demand for improvement.

The Deluge

"And the waters prevailed, and were increased greatly upon the earth."—Genesis vii, 18.

In the case of Noah's flood the waters prevailed exceedingly upon the earth, until "all the high hills were covered," and only the Ark saved Noah and his family and the chosen creatures from destruction.

Above you see depicted the flood of internationalism at its highest tide, and you see the plight of the nations of Europe, each stranded upon its separate rock.

For a long time the European nations have been enticing Uncle Sam to plunge into the flood and rescue them. But Uncle Sam knows the attempt would be hopeless and intends to keep his safe footing.

The flood of internationalism seems to be receding now. And there are two things the European nations can do.

Either they can swim over to Uncle Sam's vantage ground and be neighborly or else they can do as Noah did—wait until the flood subsides entirely.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, July 11.—Irene Castle is supposed to have sponsored a triad of innovations that clicked high favor — the bobbed head, Castle Walk and shrugging a shoulder high while dancing. Miss Castle, however, admits Bessie McCoy gave her the idea for the lofty shoulder.

The bob appeared long before she was born and Leon Errol and his wife used to do the Castle Walk years ago. But Miss Castle popularized all three. And that is, of course, what counts. It is more profitable to have people follow you than to originate a fad sometimes.

Clifton Webb was about 30 years behind with the white monkey jacket. But made it au fait. Magnetism again. There is no doubt the excellent entertainer, Benny Field, was crooning in a Chicago saloon before Rudy Vallee or Bing Crosby were heard of. But they cashed in.

Nothing new under the sun. Al Jolson exhibited the tricks of Eddie Cantor, George Jessel and George Price on his knee at the old Winter Garden. Raymond Hitchcock was first master of ceremony. McCutcheon blazed the trail for Webster and Briggs. Mrs. Pat Campbell used to boo-boop a-doop for private parties. And so on.

LISTEN, WORLD

By Elsie Robinson

"You're so wonderful!"

There's the world's favorite broadcast—and every columnist hears it a hundred times a day. And most of 'em swallow it, hook, bait and sinker. But here's one who isn't going to.

Not that I haven't plenty of conceit. Anything but! But I've learned through bitter experience the high cost of egotism — and that it doesn't pay to let people tell you you're wonderful.

For, do they really mean it? Not once in a million times. It's just a come-on. They're saying you're So Strong, so they can get a lot of sympathy for being weak; or they're greasing the way to shift their burdens on to your shoulders.

Cynical? Not a bit. Just hep. Hep to humans, and, above all, hep to myself. For it's not only self-protection to deny I'm wonderful. It's also true. I'm not.

I'm not wonderful.

I'm not brave. I'm scared pink, most of the time.

I'm not sure. In spite of my fighting jaw and two-gun eye, I'm wobbly as a jelly pudding.

I'm not sweet. I'm the world's worst-tempered female.

I'm not wise. I'm all the 57 varieties of fool. And when a new variety comes along, I'm that, too.

I'm not kind. I bully. I boast. I do countless petty, picky things.

I'm not honest. I rarely come right out and lie; but I achieve the same end by numerous neat devices. Worst all, I fib to myself about myself. And what goshawful woppers I tell to God!

I'm not charitable. Oh, yes; I gladly give away my money, my time, my strength. But then I turn around and spoil everything by some vicious little spurt of prejudice, or intolerence, or temper.

I'm not cheerful. And this is, perhaps, the greatest sin of all. For if, in the face of the world's misery, I can't forget my own troubles long enough to dispense cheer, I must be a pretty poor sort. Yet I can't. I'm always crying over myself when I should be crying over the other fellow; always fighting my own battles when I should be fighting his.

That's the truth about me, and you haven't heard half. I'm that way not in spurts, but always. No matter how decent I may be, how kind or courageous or fair—and I'm often all of these things—I am also all these other things, at the same time.

High Grade Saint and First Class Mucker—that's me!

And why am I like this?

Because all people are like this!

There are no wonderful mortals.

There are only wonderful moments.

We may all be "made in God's image."

But that image was imprinted on mud.

And the mud in us and the God in us are always tangling.

So we're all conglomerate, like the dirt from which we came.

That fact may seem humiliating, Stranger; but it has its compensations—

For it's a lot more comfortable to be dirt than divinity; and you'll escape many a headache if you'll admit you're Just Folks.

And there's something else. Being common dirt is a grand bond, if you take it right. You'll love yourself less when you realize it—BUT YOU'LL LOVE YOUR FELLOW MAN MUCH MORE.

And that will do more for you, in the long run, than a million harps and haloes.

ONCE OVERS

By J. J. Mundy

As a purveyor of unfavorable stories about acquaintances and those you call friends, are you not rather careless about learning whether or not they are true stories?

The more surprisingly derogatory, the quicker you seize it to tell.

You don't seem to wish to circulate the good stories.

You grasp avidly everything that besmirches reputation, don't you?

You eagerly start scandal on its way, but it angers you when asked for proof of your statements.

You refuse to retract or admit that you might be mistaken.

Why do you get so much satisfaction in circulating unpleasantness?

There must be much impure in your own makeup, isn't that true?

Straight and honorable folk give the other fellow the benefit of the doubt before repeating unkind things and even when they know they are true, try to forget the unfavorable gossip and remember the good if they can.

It is much more charitable and adds greatly to your credit if it can be said of you that you don't repeat gossip and never tell stories that are detrimental to those of whom you speak.

Do you know what folk are saying of you at this moment?

Mills Buys Old Virginia and Truckee—Once Most Prosperous Railroad And It May Be Again.

By EDWIN C. HILL

WILLIAM JENNINGS BRYAN, talking things over with McKinley and Mark Hanna on the other side of the River Styx, is nodding his head, most likely, and saying "I told you so," to those old champions of gold and foeman of silver. For the world needs silver and the restoration of silver as backing for currency, along with gold, is engaging the attention of the great financial experts of the world today.

One of the most important tasks of the Great Economic Conference in London is to remonetize silver and free the enormous buying power of one billion people in the Near and Far East.

Evidentally some of our own financial experts think that silver will be re-established, as it should be. Ogden L. Mills, who was Herbert Hoover's Secretary of the Treasury, has purchased a little railroad which was once worth its weight in gold, and may be again. It is the Virginia and Truckee, a 52-mile stretch of narrow gauge track between Reno, Nev., and Truckee, Cal.

In the glamorous days of the Comstock Lode the Virginia and Truckee was owned by Darius Ogden Mills, ex-Secretary Mills' grandfather. From the Comstock Lode the bonanza kings of the 60's and 70's took $400,000,000 in gold and silver and established dynasties of wealth and social prominence. The Comstock Lode began to dazzle the world in 1859, and 19 years later, in 1869-90, D. O. Mills thrust the V. & T. down from Reno by way of Carson City. He was just in time to catch on to the upswing of the Lode's prosperity.

Nothing Was Too Good Or Too Expensive

THE four bonanza kings, Mackay and Fair, O'Brien and Flood, discovered the "big bonanza" in 1873 and took out $21,000,000 in one year. By 1878 they were digging $36,000,000 a year in gold and silver, in proportion of about two to three, out of the steaming, dripping shafts that honeycombed Mt. Davidson.

Those were the great days, the real bonanza days, when nothing was too good or too expensive for the men who were tapping an apparently inexhaustible vein of gold and sliver. The V. &. T. trains that hauled out their ores returned with every wild extravagance that a miner's heart could covet.

The treasures the V. &. T. poured into Carson City and Virginia City in the 20 years or so of prosperity could not, in the nature of things, balance the wealth that it carried out—but it did its best. Champagne and caviar, onions at $1 apiece and lettuce at $1.50 a head, diamonds and gold chased pistols, painted pictures and painted women, pianos and gold toothpicks and English boots, $1,000 watches and eastern theatrical entertainment—all rattled down the V. &. T. to the Comstock Lode.

The best dressed man in Nevada was the superintendent of the V. &. T. There were plenty to say he was the class of fashion for the whole Pacific Coast, for Virginia City was expansive in its boom days, and there was nothing it would not claim or dare to be. H. M. Yerrington was a Canadian, a polished, leisurely man, but withal a great executive, a gentleman who bestowed the same care on the lending of his Ascot tie as he did on the building of a locomotive; a railroader who lavished equal love on his rolling stock and the tilt of his derby.

Sentiment Possible Purchase Reason

FOR 30 years he rode the V. & T. and ruled it. It was a great sight to see him striding across the tracks and through the rough crowds in the C Street Station, bowing low to the ladies with a "Good morning, Madam," and a punctilious lifting of his hat to one and all.

He was a tall man and spare, a western-built man with the manners of an Easterner. His costume never varied; gray cutaway and low-crowned gray derby, Ascot tie and pearl pin. From under his stiff-brimmed hat, gray Dundreary whiskers swept gracefully down his cheeks like the dropping arms of a silver spruce.

If every other vestige of culture had disappeared from Nevada, H. M. Yerrington alone would have redeemed it from barbarity.

Such is the railroad Ogden L. Mills has bought. He is the grandson of the man who built the V. & T., and so he may have bought it purely out of sentiment; for a man could be proud of the family enterprise that called skilled railroaders from two continents to man a 52-mile line. Maybe it was more than sentiment; maybe it was shrewd business; for the man who controls the V. & T. Railroad controls the life of Virginia City and the Comstock Lode.

Suppose that one of these days a bright young mining engineer stumbles on to a process for making low grade gold and silver ores profitable. Well—Mt. Davidson, baldly frowning down on Virginia City, is 9,000 feet high, and every foot is worth a million dollars if they could slice it down and hack it to pieces, wash it away and utterly reduce it to smelting size for some cheap extraction process.

They say there is a billion dollars in the old Comstock dumps, awaiting the man who can get it out without spending a billion and a half in the process. And the man and the day will come. When they do, the old Virginia & Truckee will be once more the most prosperous railroad in the world.

LADY OF MOODS

By Winifred Black

Lady Makebelieve—she came to see me the other day.

When I looked up from my book and saw that she was there, I laughed aloud—I was so glad to see her.

She's a nice little thing, Lady Makebelieve, and there's one thing about her, you'll never know just who or what she's going to be at any particular hour of any certain day.

Sometimes she's proud, successful, riding on the top wave of triumph. She has thousands of friends, not so much money, perhaps, but enough, oh quite enough.

Tall, handsome men, magnificently dressed and superbly groomed and with manners of an elegance—are always bursting the door and laying their names and fortunes at her modest and retiring feet.

Great ladies pursue her with their invitations. Her sister is just going to marry a man of title. She herself could have married him, but she is too deep in her studies to be bothered with men, no matter how high and mighty those men may be.

Her little niece is making musical history at the conservatory. Her teacher said the other day that—and so on and so forth.

And as for her nephew! He is destined to become one of the great scientists of the age, you have only to look at his brow to see that.

No, she doesn't say all these things in so many words, my Lady Makebelieve, but she sort of bears them in the aura that surrounds her.

When she is in one of these moods, she can make you believe that she is a great beauty, and gifted with fatal charm that drives men to desperation.

This morning she was in a different mood.

The world was not treating her well. The world had never treated her well.

Brilliant, gifted, charming, with a great intellect and marvelous powers of intuition and understanding, yet some perverse fate had dogged her footsteps since the hour of her birth.

Poor, insignificant, alone, not so very well—why should she want to live on in such a cold and unappreciative world.

She maried the wrong man, to begin with—a mere child of course, or she would never have done it.

For years he held her down to his grubbing level—and now when others no whit more clever than she, if indeed they are clever at all, are rich, famous, popular—what a farce it is, this thing the world calls success.

She has a lovely time being misunderstood, and unappreciated, and lonely, and poor, and not so very young.

I do not worry much about her—I know that by tomorrow her mood will change and she will be again stepping on light tip-toe to the very heights of glory.

For she is my Lady Makebelieve and nothing is real to her, but what she at the moment happens to want to believe.

I'm afraid I envy her a little—my Lady Makebelieve.
